"About an hour afterwards they were attacked by six men. Some eighteen shots acre fired. Two of the attacking party cases. and one of the deputy marshals, John Wyatt, were severely wounded. Wyatt and party retreated to Elizabethtown."

The Maine whirlwind has turned another Radical right side up or topsy-turvy. This time it is Secretary Gorham. He is a new convert, and, like John Sherman, has been talking in a way to offend "the brethring." The Washington Star, Republican, says:

"There are a number of Republicans dis satisfied with Secretary Gorham, of the Republican campaign committee. The cause of dissatisfaction grows out of his recent speech, in which he takes such a decided stand for greenbacks, endorses Thurman's views, and favors the retirement of national bank notes."

Here is the way the New York Herald opens with an elaborate criticism upon Mary Anderson's Evadne.

"Miss Mary Anderson Tuesday night added another leaf to the chaplet of laurels which already signalizes her rapid dramatic success, and in her rendition of the part of Evadne, that has been made famous for sixty years by some of the greatest actresses of modern times, showed that the mantle of the best of them has not unworthily descended to her own shoulders.

The Herald has a second article about her that would occupy three columns of the STAR. She is at last appreciated even in New York.

Special Dispatch to Baltimore Sun, 17th.] The Republican calculations as to gains in the Congressional delegation from North Caralina were quite sanguine a month or two ago. Now the case is very different. A leading Republican of that State, whose opportunities of ascertaining -public sentiment are of the best, was at the rooms of the Campaign Committee this afternoon and stated that in all probability the Democrats will hold on to all the Congressional Districts which they now have. It is understood that the State Republican Committee is so well satisfied of this that they have charged with robbing the mail, and for whose arrest he had the necessary warrant, was at a colored sailor boarding house on North Water street. He went there, accompanied by Special Deputy Simon Richardson, colored, and found his man, or the one supposed to be, when he made an attempt to take him into custody. A struggle ensued, in the midst of which the officer struck his elbow (or "funny bone") against a bagatelle table in the room, which caused a peculiar sensation with which most every one is familiar, and which completely disa abled him for a minute or so. In the meantime Richardson grappled with the fellow, who struggled manfully to escape, gradually working himself into the street, and finally got clear of the clutches of the officer, leaving the greater portion of his shirt (he had on no coat) in the hands of the disappointed deputy. While the struggle between Richardson and the prisoner was in progress the Deputy Marshal shouted lustily for the police, but there happened to be none of them in that particular locality at the time. The alleged mail robber is represented to have been a powerful man, and as slippery as an eel.

'Caged" for Larcony. Donas Rogers, colored, had a hearing be, fore Justice Harriss, yesterday afternoon, on the charge of larceny. It appears that Donas, who is employed on one of the government flats, was strongly suspected of having stolen the sum of $6 75 in hardearned "greenbacks" from one of his fellow-flatmen. He stoutly denied the soft impeachment, but the victim failed to be convinced. Two or three searches of Donas' person were made, without effect, but finally the engineer of the steamer Orlando, which does the towing of the flats, conceived the happy notion that the sly fellow might have "footed the bills," or, in other words, hid them in his shoes. He therefore took Donas' shoe and gave it a tap on the deck of the boat and out came the identical $6 75. This was a "clincher," and a warrant was immediately secured for his arrest.

The above was substantially the evidence before the Court, and the defendant was ordered to give bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, in default of which he was lodged in jail.

There was another case of larceny against the same defendant, in which he was charged with stealing a bucket of provisions from another of his fellow flatmen. and which added one more $100 to his bond.

the substitution of iron steamships for sailing vessels. He alluded to the action of the late Export Convention in Washington, which demanded of Congress such legislation as would give relief to our commercial marine. He gave some very in teresting facts in reference to the proposed steamship line to Brazil, which he declared was "an attempt to give government aid to build up the commerce of the countryto open new avenues for it-to get back again our proportion of the carrying trade of the world, and to erect again our prostrate industries." He read from a report presented for his committee to the House, two days before the Exporters' Convention assembled, which showed what would, in his opinion, have been accomplished by the passage of the bill last winter, or will be by its passage next winter, as it will be pressed again upon the attention of Congress, stating, in concluding this portion of the subject, that, in addition to every other consideration, he had reason to believe that the establishment of these steamship lines would directly and largely add to the business prosperity of Wilmington and of the State of North Carolina. The Senate had already passed the bill once, and would do it again, and he was satisfied that the House would pass it next winter. He believed it to be a wise measure, and would continue to advocate it and all similar measures looking to the development of any of the great interests of the country. In conclusion, Col. Waddell assured his audience-particularly the business portion of it-that he would always be glad to receive suggestions from the trade organizations of the city upon any matter affecting the commercial welfare of the country, and especially of this port, upon which it might be his duty to vote.

We have not attempted to give a synopsis of this very able and important speech. To have done so would have been to have laid ourself liable to doing the subject gross injustice.
