The Postal Savings Bank bill has been defeated, for this Congress.

Governor Hampton will visit Charleston this week, so a telegram from Columbia to the News and Courier says.

There are thirteen different theatrical companies now singing the English opera called "H. M. S. Pinafore." It is a great hit.

Judge Blodgett will come out all right after all. Nothing has been done to prove any money ever stuck to his fingers. So say the Chicago papers.

A three-story brick tobacco factory owned by Dohan, Carroll & Co., was burnt at Danville, Va., on the 10th. Insurance on building $8,000, on stock $13,000.

We received no Raleigh or Richmond mail last night. This will account for the absence of our usual Legislative proceedings and for the latest Washington news by mail.

Hayes's postmaster at Sumter, S. C., was tried before Judge Mackey, and found guilty by a jury composed of eight whites and four blacks. Lee had previously fled.

Grant saw the British troops at Gibraltar and was delighted. He says "they have the swing of conquest." Just so, General, but they failed to conquer the thirteen colonies.

Miss May Marshall is doing some "tall walking" in Washington. She had made more than 2,000 quarter miles when last heard from. She walks more rapidly than Madame Anderson did.

The Mount Airy Visitor, in its issue of the 9th, says:

"We want a railroad from Mt. Airy to Wilmington; that's the road for us, and no other will fill the bill. Let Wilmington unite with us and the project will be a success."

Wilmington ought to do its part, and we trust will.

The list of appropriations for North Carolina in the River and Harbor bill, as telegraphed, was not complete. We give all of the appropriations for North Carolina: Cape Fear river, $15,000; Neuse, $12,000; French Broad, $5,000; Pamlico river, $3,000; Edenton harbor, $1,000; Roanoke, $1,500.

Janauschek was disgusted with her success at St. Louis. She will never play in that city any more. She says they do not want good plays and good acting, but trash, light frivolity and all the claptrap and bad stuff that Mapleson gave them last week. Miss Cavendish, a fine actress, had a similar experience.

There is to be held at Cooper Institute, New York, a public meeting to "vindicate Mr. Tilden from the dishonor sought to be cast upon his name by his political enemies," and to prepare an address to him, assuring him of "the unabated confidence of his fellow citizens and friends." Tilden is evidently booming in New York.

A strong lobby, representing the Western Union Telegraph Company, has gathered in Washington to work on the Senate against the House amendment that passed authorizing railroads to open their telegraph lines for the transaction of general telegraphic business. The House has voted for the amendment by a large majority, and it is to be hoped that the Senate will do likewise.

According to the report of the Bureau of Statistics the total exports for 1878 were $763,198,613, of which $26,865,200 were specie. The total imports were $460,630,215, of which $28,839,215 were specie. The exports exceeded those of 1877 by $94,577,634; whilst our imports showed a decrease of $43,887,300. The total excess in our favor was $302,548,398. This looks very favorable indeed.

Washington correspondents represent the sentiment in favor of an extra session of Congress to be on the increase. The strongest opponents are among the old members. They think it unnecessary and ill-advised. Some of the leading Democrats, however, think an extra session will be necessary, unless they yield to the opposition of Radicals on important questions.

Senator McCreery takes care of his money. It is said he has saved over $20,000 of his salary received during his six years of Senatorial life. A Washington correspondent of the Richmond Sun says of him:

"Mr. McCreery is not an industrious man. He delivers only about one speech a year, but when he opens his mouth he always says something worth hearing, which is quite different with the average Senator or member. He is logical and rhetorical, with a distinct and ringing style of enunciation, and on the rare occasions when he addresses the Senate, the other Senators pay him the rare compliment of listening.

Mr. Tilden's Health and the Cipher Dispatches.

[Washington Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.]

A gentleman of intelligence and of high personal character, who was present during the examination of Mr. Tilden before the Potter committee at New York, says that he thinks every unprejudiced person should now be entirely satisfied that Mr. Tilden had no knowledge of any dishonorable attempts to influence the action of the Returning Boards in his behalf. He says that Mr. Tilden displayed wonderful mental activity, as sharp and clear as steel. But his physical powers are evidently on the wane, the palsy affection with which he is afflicted having made unmistakable inroads on his frame. The gentleman thinks it extremely probable that death will prevent Mr. Tilden from being a disturbing element in the next National Democratic Convention. A personal friend of Mr. Tilden, to whom the above was repeated, says that Mr. Tilden certainly does not look very robust, but that he is no more feeble now than he has been at most any time during the last three years.

Spirits Turpentine.

—Two escaped convicts have been arrested at Charlotte.

—Four prisoners escaped from Statesville jail but were soon recaptured.

—James G. Moore, a prominent merchant of Company Shops, died recently, aged fifty.

—Rev. C. T. Bailey, editor of the Biblical Recorder, has been elected a Trustee of Shaw University, at Raleigh.

—The papers tell that Mr. H. D. Kendall, of Anson, while in a crowded store in Monroe, had his pocket picked of $80. There is no clue.

—The Warrenton Gazette has a forcible and conclusive article in opposition to the new county proposed to be made out of Warren, Granville and Franklin.

—Mount Airy Visitor: It is with deep regret that we have to mention the fact that intemperance seems to be on the increase in this section. We regret that such is the case.

—Warrenton Gazette: Mr. Peter Allen has recently sold 3,300 pounds of tobacco for $750, net. It was flue-cured.

—The hogs are dying in different parts of the county to an alarming extent, from cholera, it is supposed.

—The first number of the Newton Enterprise, edited by George A. Warlick, is before us. It makes an excellent start. It is neat and newsy, and well arranged. Mr. Warlick has editorial experience. His new Enterprise has our best wishes.

—Gen. Robert Ransom tells the Newbern Nut Shell that the work of clearing away the obstructions in Neuse river is progressing finely. About 65 hands are employed, and about eight miles per week are being made. The main portion of the force is now at work above Kinston.

—The Washington correspondent of the Raleigh Observer writes that paper: "The friends of John E. Bailey, of Charlotte, will be pleased to know that he has recently been promoted in the Agricultural Department. He now has charge of what is called the file room, involving an important and complicated business routine."

—Raleigh News: A good deal of work was done at the late term of the Criminal Court of this county. The term lasted really only eight days. In that time there were thirty-five convictions and submissions. The total sum of $1,486 65 was drawn from the State Treasury yesterday, for the support of justice outside of the Asylum.

—Morganton Blade: The old Raleigh & Gaston used to be facetiously called "Little Ambition" by Joe Turner, in his old editorials, and he always predicted devilment from it. But we doubt if there is any purpose to do more than get the amendment, which is to be held over the heads of the [illegible] to force better terms for exchange of business at Hamlet.

—Newbern Nut Shell: We learn that one day last week a colored woman named Pollock, living near Trenton, Jones county, went out to get some wood, leaving her three small children in the house, near a large fire burning on the hearth, and on her return, shortly afterwards, she found the remains of her oldest child, a daughter of about 10 years, lying out in the yard, burned almost beyond recognition.

—The Newton Enterprise says in 1790 Mr. Manney started for the Legislature, to which he had been elected from Catawba (then Tryon) county. When he arrived at Salisbury he camped out in an old barn over night and the next day started back home, and, on being asked what induced him to return, remarked that Raleigh was farther from home than he cared to be, and he didn't think the trip would pay him any way.

—Charlotte Observer: A. W. Lawing, Esq., a justice of the peace and one of the most prominent citizens of Paw Creek township, died at his home Sunday afternoon, of pneumonia. ——Some years ago Mr. S. P. Wentz, a citizen of Union county, invented, and in October, 1874, had patented a rat trap, which is somewhat of a curiosity in its way. ——Senator Vance will remain in the city till he goes to Washington, about the 1st of March.

—Lenoir Topic: A gentleman living on Mulberry, who is now past fifty years of age, is a grandpa, owner of a good farm and plenty of stock, and has always been well to do, never owned a lock and key of any description in his life; leaves his house, barns, stables, crib, etc., all unlocked, and never yet had one cent's worth of anything stolen from him. This speaks well for the honesty of Caldwell county in general and the Mulberry section in particular.

—Raleigh Observer: The resolution introduced by Mr. Ardrey, one of the representatives from Mecklenburg, provides for the publication in cheap pamphlet form of 20,000 copies of the supplemental report of the State Geologist, and the proceedings of the meeting of Northern settlers lately held in Charlotte, and for the distribution of the same in other States. The resolution is backed by the committee on Agriculture and will probably be adopted.

—Concord Register: A small negro child was severely burned a few weeks ago in Coleburg, from the effects of which it died a few days ago. —— Some counties are naming possible candidates for Governor in 1880. The Pee Dee Herald names a big manufacturer and also a big farmer of its section. The Concord Sun puts up W. M. Robbins, and somebody else is going to name Colonel Thomas Holt before long. We nominate one of the ablest legal minds in Cabarrus county, Col. John M. Long.

—Lincoln Progress: On the 6th ult. Mr. Ephraim Mabry met his sad fate, about three miles from King's Mountain. He had left the grocery store between King's Mountain and Gastonia, about 1 o'clock, and after travelling the distance of about a quarter of a mile, in the direction of Gastonia, he was overtaken by the train, and crushed under its heavy wheels, causing instant death. His legs were cut off and his skull fractured. It is supposed he was under the influence of intoxicating liquors, and had, perhaps, unconsciously laid down on the track.

—Charlotte Observer: A meeting for the promotion of the interests of the Cheraw and Salisbury road was held in Wadesboro on Thursday last. President D. B. Townsend made a speech, in which he stated that but ten months remained of the time allowed by the South Carolina Legislature for the completion of the road to Wadesboro. He said the only practical plan to raise money was by selling the first mortgage bonds of the road, which were all properly prepared and legally registered, and that he proposed offering for sale 300 bonds only, at $500 each at par, and if this could be effected it was estimated that the proceeds of such sale would be amply sufficient to complete the road to Wadesboro. He hoped that 100 bonds would be taken in Anson county.

—Elizabeth City Carolinian: We learn that there is a prospect that at least four times as many fish will be shipped from this point this season as in any former one. ——Some time ago we referred to a mammoth tooth found on Body's Island and forwarded by Lt. Walton to Prof. Marsh, Curator of the Geological Department of the Peabody Museum of Yale College, New Haven, Ct. By a letter received from the Professor we learn that the huge dental specimen was the tooth of a "Mastodon." ——The grading to Knob's Creek has been about completed, and considerable progress in the swamp beyond, which, by the way, is about the worst piece of work on the whole route. As already stated, a large force of hands will not be set to work until the weather fully warrants it. —— The people of Dare are not backward in giving vent to their feelings about the attempt to pass the fish bill. The "party in power" isn't gaining any strength in this county.

To-Day's Indications.

For the South Atlantic States, southwest to northwest winds, slightly colder, partly cloudy weather, and stationary or slowly rising barometer, are the indications for to-day.

Ready for Sea.

Captain Partelow, of the British brig Eleanor, after considerable trouble, yesterday completed his crew, and will this morning set sail for Glasgow, Scotland. The fact that vessels are detained here by the sailor-stealing mania should induce such legislation as will make the offence a criminal one of sufficient magnitude to deter people from venturing into such schemes for money-getting.

Rock and Brickbat Delivery.

Last year no little amount of defacement and damage was done to Venetian blinds, doors, &c., by the rock and brickbat system of delivery. The practice has grown to be a nuisance, and the police as well as parents should be on the alert to prevent its repetition.

Unmailable Letters.

The following are the unmailable letters remaining in the city postoffice:

R. L. DeLee, Agent National Series School Books, Richmond, Va.; Edmond Bush, Constantine, N. Y.

Local Dots.

—St. Valentine's day to-morrow.

—The storm signal was flying last night from the masthead at the Signal Office.

—Capt. Oliver, of the steamship Raleigh, is on duty again, looking as hale and hearty as if sickness had never preyed on him.

—Mr. C. Legg was thrown from a horse on South Water street, yesterday afternoon, receiving a few painful bruises, but no serious injury.

—Secretary of State Englehard has passed the Rubicon and is out of danger, but his Chief Clerk, Capt. G. L. Dudley, is now ill, but recoverably so.

—Those fast sailers—the North Carolina, Ruth Topping, Eleanor and Nancy Holt, will leave the bar at nearly the same time, and now the question is, which will first make port.

—There was an ambitious man in town yesterday, who went so far as to clamber up to the top of the flag-pole on the Bank of New Hanover building and reef the halliards.

—If the twenty-second, or Washington's Birthday, is to be celebrated and observed as a holiday, it is time that our business men knew it, so that the locks of their firearms may be examined and put in order for the occasion.

—Messrs. Cobb Bros., proprietors of the Purcell House, have made quite an addition to its attractions recently by fitting up a billiard room in the basement of the building, which has been neatly painted and papered, and adorned with two handsome new billiard tables.

—The Lotusians hopped last night, and, as usual, made all their friends happy. The spirit of the night came near running into the spirit of the morning, as even old Time stopped his hand on the dial in order to deceive the gay throng as to how the hours were wearing away.

U. S. Pensioners—Important Information.

As numbers of people in this city and Congressional District may have an interest in the matter, we state, upon authority of the Commissioner of Pensions, that persons who are entitled to arrears of pensions, under the act of January 25, 1879, and whose pensions have been granted previous to that date, will not require the assistance of any attorney or agent in obtaining the amount due them; and he gives the best possible practical effect to the suggestion by declaring that "all correspondence in relation to any claim for such arrears will be with the person entitled, and no claim agent will be recognized in such claim."

Every pensioner who is entitled to arrears of pension under the recent act of Congress, should at once address a letter to the Commissioner of Pensions, signed by the pensioner who was in receipt of the last pension paid, attested by two witnesses as to the identity of the claimant, and certified by a magistrate. The pension certificate should not be sent to Washington; but it must be exhibited to the two witnesses and the magistrate, who attend and certify.

Resisting Seamen from Shipboard.

The Mayor's Court was enlivened yesterday morning by the presence of two men who were arraigned under the general charge of disorderly conduct, but specifically for the offence of attempting to entice those seamen from the Norwegian brig Amelia, Capt. Thorsen. It was in evidence that Charles Luesen and Fred. Krause actually boarded the vessel at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and proposed to Johan Olsen, August Johnsen and Anton Anthenin to desert, stating that they would secrete them. The game of "hide and seek" was not inaugurated, however, before their plan was discovered and nipped in the bud. The guilty pair were sentenced to pay a fine of $35 apiece, in default of which they were sent to the basement for thirty days.

Many stories have their sequel and so with this one. "Lead us not into temptation" was the prayer of the seamen, and the trio were casemated until Capt. Thorsen's vessel goes to sea.

Brooklyn.

A very intelligent idea of the growth of our city may be gained by a morning round in Brooklyn. A tour of inspection yesterday enabled us to count twenty new houses in course of erection, besides any number undergoing either enlargement or repairs. Some of the stores on the side of the railroad would do credit to a village as large as Raleigh. Indeed, Hall's establishment is quite palatial. All things considered, it will not surprise us to hear the people over there knocking at the Legislature's doors for a separate act of incorporation. The next step, as a consequence, would be a Mayor and Board of Aldermen. Well, we can't help growing. The only difficulty is that we shall soon be trenching on the territory of Pender county for new city lines.

Severely Injured.

We learn by private letter that Mr. William Matthews, who was employed in the employ of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad as an engineer, met with a painful accident, last Monday, in Portsmouth, Va. He was on an engine on the Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad, taking an airing, when he accidentally fell, striking his head against the lever of the machine, and was quite seriously hurt. It is pleasant to know, however, that no serious results are anticipated.

THE HAMLET EXTENSION.

Secrets of the Matter.

Advices from Raleigh received in a special dispatch last night, furnish the information that the opponents of the Air-Line Railroad extension have achieved a decided victory over the advocates of that iniquitous project. The Bill, we infer, has been passed, but in such a shape as to make it harmless, if the amendments with which it is weighted do not bury the project.

This decision in favor of what we believe to be rightful policy, does not state us so much for the local benefits our section and people are to derive from the result. The grand absorbing idea with us is to have in North Carolina a system of internal improvement for North Carolinians, directed and controlled wisely with an eye to the growth of our seaport and inland towns, and with reference to the expansion of commerce, mining, manufacturing, and all the industries. A home policy and such a home policy as will leave the fruits of enterprise and industry in our State borders, is our highest public ambition.

Another Lecture by Col. Keene.

All who were fortunate enough to hear the lecture of this gentleman on "Talent and Genius," will be gratified at the announcement that the second of the series, under the auspices of the Library Association, will be delivered next Monday evening, at the Opera House. The subject will be "Laughter," and we expect it to be rich in philosophical deductions as well as ornate, mirthful and critical. The field is a ripe one, and the master of the harvest well knows how to separate the wheat from the chaff.

The third and last promised feast will be "Ireland," and this paper will be, in some sort, a reply to Mr. Froude's assault on that Green Isle. This ought to be his chef d'œuvre, as the performances of the statesmen, poets, divines, wits and soldiers of that country offer him a tempting mine for exploration in one direction, with abundant material in a political and social aspect for a clever defence of that people.

Criminal Court.

Judge Meares opened Court yesterday at the appointed hour, and during the day the following cases were disposed of:

State vs. Amanda Jackson, charged with assault and battery. Verdict guilty. Fined $1.00 and costs.

State vs. Amanda Jackson, peace warrant. Dismissed at the cost of defendant.

State vs. Mack Daniel, charged with assault and battery. Verdict guilty.

State vs. John A. Holt, extortion. Verdict not guilty.

State vs. John Davis, John J. Hill and John W. Moseley, larceny. Not guilty.

Act at Once.

Next Saturday is the day, remember, for the Northern settlers to meet at their several county seats for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the State Convention to be held on the 1st of March. We trust Northern men in this vicinity will co-operate in this movement by active participation. They would still be free, in the event of an effort to tincture it with politics, to withhold their endorsement, while, if the work be simply for the advancement of commercial, manufacturing and agricultural interests, as well as social relations, no one ought to feel himself privileged to stand aloof.

The Privilege Tax and Fees.

The privilege tax law having been repealed by the Legislature, with the authorization that it should be refunded for the present year, complaint is now made by those who had settled up that the fees to the Register and Sheriff are still withheld. It is contended that as the law was repealed no tax was required, and therefore the exaction of fees was in error, while others urge that the tax was not payable until March. We cannot determine the matter in dispute, but do not doubt the officers in question will do what is right and proper in the premises.

Correction.

In the article yesterday on prices of cotton, in speaking of classification and prices here and in Charleston, we intended to say "style designated Low Middling to Strict Low Middling" instead of "Middling to Strict Middling." The intention was obvious enough to the cotton trade, but we make the correction for the benefit of others and in order that there may be not even the appearance of a disposition to overrate the advantages of this port as a cotton market. It is not requisite to sustain its superiority to resort to misstatements.

River and Harbor Items.

The Norwegian brig Alkor, Wilhimsen, arrived at London on the 9th inst.

The Resolute, Wallace, for this port from London, passed Deal on the 28th ult.

—The Hendrick Hudson, Lappien, from this port, had arrived at Bremen on the 30th ult.

—The Hattie M. Conlon, Dickey, from Belfast for this port, was at Deal on the 9th inst.

—The German barque Nicolai Hopius, Wiss, reached Rotterdam on the 8th inst. from Wilmington.

—The Norwegian barques Frank, Olsen, and the Agnes, Olsen, from this port arrived at Liverpool on the 8th inst.

—The Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, New York city, is a big thing. Good rooms for people to sell it. In order to do the latter, and to please everybody, the Hotel is now run on both plans, the American at $2.50 to $3.00, and the European $1.00 and upwards per day. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the Hotel.
