By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C .: FRIDAY MORNING, Feb. 14, 1879.

That the Democrats in many places in States South of us in the last election resorted to unwarranted measures in order to secure their political ends, is only too apparent. The evidence taken before the Teller Committee-evidence not disputed because the witnesses have characters, as in the case of Gen. Reuben E. Davis, of Mississippi, and some of the witnesses from South Carolinashows that the Democrats resorted to the direputable ways and tricks of the Radicals that their plans might be successfully carried through. We can but hope that the investigations and exposures that have been made will have a happy effect in the future. When unscrupulous men learn that bulldozing and cheating and defrauding may in the end cost them trouble, expense, and, perhaps, their liberty for a season, they will not be so ready to interfere with the rights and privileges of others. It is to be regretted that the United States Judges have not been disposed to

It would indeed be an evil, a sad day for our country, if the time should come when Democrats regard the ballot-box as fair game to be captured at any sacrifice of justice and honor, and unhesitatingly resort to ingenious and multiplied systems of intimidation with which to effect their ends. If the time should ever come when an opinion prevailed commonly that it was not disreputable to cheat and defraud in elections, and that the first, the chief end of party, was to hold power at every cost, then it will be easy to tell the future of

make examples of men of their own party as well as of the Democratic the country. The safety of our people-their rights and liberties, are all wrapt up in the purity and freedom of the ballot, and in the intelligence and virtue of the electors. A corrupt people will not regard or value properly the right of suffrage and the sanctity of the ballot. We must educate and elevate the masses, and we must all demand that the right to vote for whom we please shall be preserved inviolate. The ballot-box must not be tampered with. The rights of electors must not be invaded. The army must be kept away from the polls. In England a British soldier is not allowed to come within two miles of the voting place on day of election. The disgraceful and dangerous system of bulldozing must be broken up everywhere-in Massachusetts, in New York, in Pennsylvania, in Colorado, in South Carolina, and all other States. There will be no peace to the country as long as this continues.

by the principle of Rob Roy's clan as given by Wordsworth-

"The good old rule Sufficeth them, the simple plan, That they should take who have the power, And they should keep who can."

This principle of action appears to have entered into their life, and to have governed them in regard both to elections and office. They took office by violence and fraud often, and then plundered at will.

All this sort of thing must be stopped. "The good old rule" of robbery will not suit our country and its institutions. If our people ever countenances the rule of the plunderer-"to take who have the power" and to "keep who can," then our government will indeed prove a failure, and our people will become a byeword and a reproach to the nations. The ballot-box must be kept pure. Intimidation in all forms must cease. The people must be elevated by education and purified and exalted by Christian principle.

KELLOGG AND THE CIPHER DIS-PATCHES,

A writer in the Washington Post, who signs himself "One Who Knows," says that the reason why Kellogg has so much power with the fraudulent administration and his recommendations to office ar e always regarded, is that he has the delivered duplicates of those original office copies of the Radical cipher dispatches that were destroyed by Or ton, the Radical President of the Union Telegraph Company. He says that it is very natural that Mr. Hayes should be courteous to the man who had those delivered dispatches. We give some other points raised by "One Who Knows." He

"Are you aware that, just before the vote on the New York nominations, John Sherman called on Kellogg 3at Willard's, and tried to impress him with the importance of voting in favor of the admin-

"Are you also aware that Kellogg, metaphorically speaking, shook some documents in John's face and asked him if man who held such documents couldn't enjoy the small privilege of voting as he pleased :

"Are you also mindful of the fact that Kellogg then voted with Conkling, and that, the next day but one, Hayes nominated Kellogg's man, Badger, for Collector of New Orleans?

'Can you tell why, in almost the same oreath, Hayes nominated Kellogg's man and withdrew the name of old Hannibal Hamlin's man, when one voted with Conkling just the same as the other did?"

The Post does not confirm these tatements, nor does it deny them, but says:

"We also know that he has at all times xercised a decisive influence over the raudulent occupant of the White House. His thieves and tools are all in office. His man, Conquest Clarke, who superintended the electoral forgery, is in possession of a snug place in the Treasury. He puts men in and out of Federal office almost at his own pleasure. The outward evidence of favor are not numerous. Kellogg is never heard of at the White House family table, or does his voice ascend with that of Mr. Schurz at the Sunday evening song and praise service, and yet what he wants done is done. We are therefore not at all disposed to deny the correctness of our correspondent's suggestions."

If Morton's man Bullock had not stolen and burnt certain tell-tale dispatches we have no doubt that they would have shown very conclusively several things, some of which are known and others are strongly suspected. For instance, they would

First, that the Returning Boards were in the market. Second, that the Radical leaders bought them.

Third, who were the purchasers and sellers, and the price paid.

Fourth, that no effort to buy them was ever made by Mr. Tilden.

If Oliver P. Morton were living today he would be a most important witness. He was the chief manipulator. It was through him that the dispatches were burned. Unfortunately ashes and dust tell no tales. Morton, one of the most corrupt of men, has gone where no subpœna can reach him. Enough is known, however, to show that Tilden did not try to purchase the corrupt scoundrels, and did not purchase them, and that Hayes's dirty fellows did purchase them, that he is now in Tilden's office. drawing and spending his salary, and that he has rewarded every rascal shameless crime against the people. The great question now exercising the people who have never held office and do not understand the profound mysteries thereof, is-how in the world did the grand old men of an earlier time-the Burtons, the Swains. the Dudleys, the Moreheads, the Grahams, the Braggs and others, and the remainder of the officials included, get along in the capitol with only one darkey to wait on them? Of course they made their own fires and brought their own water. That is the only solution. It now requires The Radical party for more than eight negroes to make a half dozen ten years have resorted to all sort of fires, sweep out a few rooms and appliances with which to control the bring the ponderous mails. Let a country. Their actions authorize the mule and a cart be hired. Old No-

who was engaged in the great and student of the University before the war, would have done all that is necessary to be done in the capitol before breakfast, and then spent the day in fishing. But times have changed.

A RETRENCHMENT REFORM.

The joint committee of the Legislature have reported on the asylums. They praise the management of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, whilst condemning that of the Insane Asylum. They also condemn the policy of the State being made to care for the insane outside of the Asylum. They say they do not believe such a course was ever contemplated by the constitution. They say:

"The burden is growing heavier year by year. The disbursements now are at the rate of $600 per day. Two years ago $20,000, last year $80,000. This year not less than $40,000 was required, and in the opinion of the Treasurer, judging from the present rate of increase, $50,000 will not satisfy the next year's demands of this law. Your committee therefore would have reported a bill repealing this statute pro-viding for the outside insane, but have already recommended favorably the Senate bill introduced by the Senator from Mc-Dowell, which effects the same purpose.

They say the Insane Asylum "has not been managed with care and economy." We quote:

"Your committee are of the opinion that it is necessary to reorganize and turn over a new leaf. They therefore respectfully recommend the passage of the bill here-with presented, and have a strong hope and confidence that it will save to the State the sum of twenty thousand dollars per

It is understood that to get rid of Dr. Grissom, and those under him, the present asylum will be abolished, and a new one created with new officers.

The committee report that Gov. Jarvis does not desire a house to live in. The committee, therefore, recommend that the $17,500 received from the sale of lots be turned into the Treasury. The Governor sets one very good example in the way of "retrenchment and reform." The committee say:

"The committee herewith, and at the suggestion of his Excellency, the Governor, offer a bill repealing the six hundred dollar clerkship allowed by the last General Assembly to the Executive Depart-

The committee say if the various measures recommended by them are adopted the saving to the State cannot be less than from $80,000 to

That there was some rascality practiced under Secretary Robeson during Grant's time, and that this rascality cost the government many millions of dollars, cannot be denied. The Democrats are for investigating the matter thoroughly, but this is opposed by the Radicals in Congress. That wide-awake independent paper, the Philadelphia Times, sees through the trickery, and says:

"Millions of dollars have been stolen from the gevernment and squandered by its officers. Who were the thieves? The Republicans on the committee make the faintest attempt to deny the fact and show no disposition whatever to trace the crime to its authors. Nor is this all. Refusing to investigate the matter themselves, they decline to let the Democrats go any further in the matter, well knowing at the same time that delay will be fatal to all hope of redress. And all because a well known Republican, who is returned to Congress, is interested in having the thing hushed up. In thus shielding Robeson and his underlings, the Republicans in the House of Representatives are shouldering a heavy load, and will have reason to regret it."

The Philadelphia Press accuses us of a want of sense in classifying the New York Sun as Independent, Radical. If not that, then pray what is it? It is certainly independent as even the editor of the Press might see if he would read it; and it is certainly very radical in some of its opinions. The Press will never be classified with the Sun, for it has neither its sense nor its independence. The Press is an organ of the most slavish type. It flourishes the bloody-shirt as its oriflamme, and its editor evidently belongs to the Advanced Order of Howling Dervishes.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Raleigh Observer Report, Condensed. RALEIGH, Feb. 11, 1879.

SENATE. Senator Scales, by consent, submitted a report from the joint select committee on Retrenchment and Reform. This report gives it as the opinion of the committee that the Constitution does not contemplate the support by the State of the insane outside of the Asylum, and recommends the repeal of the law on the subject. The report further says that there has been a great lack of economy in the management of the Insane Asylum, and that the Deaf and Dumb Asylum has been well managed, but can now be run for $32,000 per year. It recommends the covering into the Treasury of the $17,500 derived for the building of a Governor's Mansion from the sale of lots in Raleigh, and the abolition of the extra clerkship in the Governor's office. Senator Scales on recommendation of the committee presented a bill to abolish the Insane Asylum of North Carolina, and to incorporate the North Carolina Instatement that they were governed vember or Dave Barham, gratefully out the recommendations of the kind.-Richmond (Va.) State.

and kindly remembered by every old | committee in regard to the Governor's Mansion and the additional Governor's clerk. The Senate ordered that 220 copies of the report and bills be printed.

Bill to prevent the sale of liquor at Wake Forest College. Senator Graham, of Lincoln, explained the bill and it passed its several readings. Bill to establish the dividing line Greene. Passed its second and third

Bill to amend the election law. This bill provides for the election of Superior Court Clerks on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. Passed.

Bill to amend the act for the protection of fish in Waccamaw Lake. This bill allows the citizens of Columbus county to fish in the lake from the first of September to the first of March. Passed.

Bill for the benefit of the Winston, Salem & Mooresville Railroad was passed. Bill to prevent the felling of trees in Tar river was passed. Bill to change the name of certain townships in the county of Pender was passed. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Bill to give certain colored persons the right of inheritance, by legalizing the connection of persons who lived together as man and wife prior to 1868. Passed its readings. Bill to prohibit the sale of any kind of liquor in three miles of Wake Forest College.

Bill to repeal the act establishing the Criminal Court of Wake. Mr. Richardson, of Wake, offered an amendment that criminal jurisdiction be vested as fully in the Superior Court as it was prior to the formation of the Criminal Court.

The previous question was then called upon the passage of the bill, as amended, upon its third reading. Upon this the yeas and nays were called, when the bill passed. Yeas 52, nays 44.

Bill for the relief of the blind, by paying to persons who lost their eight, or both hands or both feet in the Confederate service, the sum of $60 per annum out of the Treasury. Ayes 88, nays 1.

CURRENT COMMENT.

---- Executive patronage is great power, if one knows how to wield it skillfully, but Executive clemency is not to be lightly esteemed as a political force. The use that Grant made of Executive clemency is the most potent agency in the movement for another term of the "most illustrious American." But for Grant's pardoning grace the men who are now roaring loudest for him would be habited in the homely garb of penal servitude, and their close-shaven heads would be sadly bowed over their dreary drudgery behind the grim walls and grated portals of state prisons. Let no man speak slightingly of Executive clemency as a political force. - Washington Post, Dem.

- What we mean to say is that the Tribune, in the great heap of its wisdom, has done what it least of all desired-recalled Mr. Tilden to the upper air in the old and formidable character of an honest patriot. Nay more-it has added to this the attractiveness of injured innocence and the mystery of an unexplored job. Two days ago it was a question whether Mr. Tilden could become a powerful competitor with Bayard, Hendricks and Thurman for the Democratic nomination in 1880. This question is now settled. His examination at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Saturday leaves no doubt whatever on that point. He has fought his battle of Actium and the victory for the present rests with him. Richard is himself again, and the Tribune has lost the fruits of its last summer's victory, so far as the annihilation of Mr. Tilden is concerned. It did not know when to leave off, and so it has already sacrificed its margins and begins to "rehypothecate." Having Gail Hamiltoned Blaine into a rapid decline, it has now involuntarily "kited" Tilden into the political stock exchange once more and made him a good investment, at least for the present. Mr. Reid's journalistic boomerang has returned to slap the face of Mr. Gould's prize journalist. -Springfield Republican, Ind.

STATE CONTEMPORARIES Let the members from the West do their duty in protecting the rights of Wilmington, and then let the good people of that city use their influence in getting the Carolina Central extended into one of the best agricultural regions in North Carolina .-

There was a bill introduced in the Senate, early in the present session of the Legislature, to prohibit members of the Legislature from riding on railroads on free passes. It was very promptly killed and by a large majority; and we think impro-perly. It seemed to be feared that the passage of such a law would be an imputation upon the integrity of members and State officers. We can say truthfully, and the fact might as well be recognized by those immediately concerned, that in the minds of thousands, they already rest under the imputation of being influenced this substantial courtesy of the railroads. -Alamance Gleaner.

SOUTHERN ITEMS.

- The wife of Sam Bard, the Southern journalist who died of the yellow fever, has begun a lecture tour, making her first appearance at Baton Rouge, La., last

- The Wilmington STAR-a paper of acknowledged intelligence-calls Dr. James C. Southall "that greatest of living Southern writers." A high compliment, but doubtless a just one. - Petersburg Index-Appeal.

- The "boy orator," J. Harry Shannon, left, in company with his father and mother, this morning for Norfolk, whance they "go West," the very place for the perfect development of all young orators. We had some apprehensions that he might settle in Virginia, and Heaven knows sane Asylum, and also a bill to carry we want no more crators here of any POLITICAL POINTS.

- Uncle Bill Evarts took a hand in the defeat of Conkling. Somehow or other we had got the impression that Uncle Bill had resigned or hired a substitute.

We are really glad he is still on deck.—

Atlanta Constitution, Dem.

- Mr. Hayes did not pay any money for the electoral votes of Florida. In this he is as clear as Mr. Tilden. But Mr. Hayes did pay, in offices, for the vote of more than one State. Right here lies between the counties of Wayne and the difference between the man who was robbed and the beneficiary of the robber. - Washington Post, Dem.

- There is probably no sincerity in the pretence of the Republican leaders that they are anxious to unseat Senator Butler and install Corbin in the Senate. They simply want to get a verdict of res adjudicata so as to preserve the beautiful hide of Mr. Kellogg, when the Democrats take possession of the Senate. - Balt. Ga-

- The next time Mr. Tilden has chance to buy the Presidency he'll probably do it, because he must have found out by this time that the innocent are those who succeed. Besides, it may be worth something to be in a position to reward a dispatch thief with a foreign consulate. That also might help to establish the innocence of all parties concerned. - Philadel-phia 2 imes, Ind.
