DEATH OF REV. DR. WINGATE

We are exceedingly pained to learn of the death of Rev. Dr. W. M. Wingate, President of Wake Forest College. He died at his residence on Thursday afternoon in his 51st year. He was a native of South Carolina, was graduated at the college over which he presided so ably years, was married in North Carolina, and spent all of his manhood in educating the young men of the State. He was a very devoted Christian, was a man of exceeding amiability and loveableness of character, was weil educated and thoroughly equipped in his peculiar departments of study, and was a preacher of very exceptional and high powers. When at his best he was a great preacher of the Gospel of Jesus.

We cannot undertake at the hour we write to give any sketch of his life. He was a true man every inch of him, and his loss to the State is great, and to the Baptist denomination apparently irreparable. We have never known a man of sweeter character or of purer life. There is no earthly doubt that he was ready for the summons, and is now at rest in heaven.

The suffering in Great Britain is mmense. Almost in every direction there are hundreds and thousands who are nearly or entirely destitute. The report of four hundred starving families in the city of Sheffield creates a shock. In view of such appalling misery, how does such a paragraph as the following read which we clip from an exchange:

"The United States uses 70,000,000 bushels of grain every year for distilling purposes. Great Britain uses 80,000,000 bushels in the same way."

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond (Va.) State praises Hon. Wm. M. Robbins's speech on the sugar tariff. It says "he discussed it at great length and in very interesting style, showing remarkable familiarity with the intricacies of the subject involved." Maj. Robbins is a decidedly clever man, and makes a capital stump speech besides.

The fire record is indeed fearful, The following figures from an insurance journal tell the story for four years in the United States: 1875, $78,102,285; 1876, $64,630,600; 1877, $68,265,800; 1878, $64,315,900. Of this total loss, $147,674,700 feil on insurance companies; the rest was sustained by property owners.

The census bill gives the President the appointing of the supervisors in the different States, but only with the consent of the Senate, which will be Democratic after March 4th. This will practically give the Democrats control of the matter and prevent any false returns in the South with an eye to reducing representation.

The late Col. W. S. Devane was born in New Hanover county and not in Sampson.

- The Goldsboro Messenger gives an account of a recent trip to Pollocksville on the steamer Undine, in the service of Gen. Robert Ransom. It says: Captain Phillips is in command of the party surveying a route for an inland canal from Norfolk to Wilmington, and the excursion was gotten up for the purpose of presenting to his view the excellent waters of the Trent, and also for bringing to his attention the great benefits that would accrue to Newbern and Onslow country from a canal conmedical Trent and White Oak siness. necting Trent and White Oak rivers.

This amendment allows the railroad to construct branches from Salisbury to Wadesboro and Rockingham, and authorizes consolidation with other railroads. It also gives the road 150 his ribs were broken, besides receiving convicts. It passed. THE STATE DEBT.

The bill to compromise, commute and settle the public debt came up as the special order at 11 o'clock and Mr. York moved to amend by providing that the bill should be submitted to a vote of the people. Lost. Mr. Cooke stated that it would take $3,729,511 to settle the debt provided for in the bill, which now amounts to $12,727,045 of principal money. He said that this proposition was a final one that the hondholders could accept or not, but if they do not accept no other proposition will ever be made. He stated that the bill provided for all of the debt except the construction bonds, which are recognized as a part of the debt; and the special tax bonds issued for the Chatham Railroad, the Penitentiary bonds and bonds issued for the Williamston and Tarboro Railroad. Passed its second reading-

The Fire Yesterday Morning.

The alarm of fire yesterday morning, about twenty minutes after 4 o'clock, was caused by the burning of a two-story frame house on Front, between Church and Cassadly need a law for the prevention of the streets, the property of Mr.W. G. Fowler, and occupied by Dr. Isaac N. Carr. It appears that Mrs. C. awoke, heard the roar of the flames, and aroused her husband and told him she thought the kitchen was on fire. He hurried to a window and discovered that it was the house that was burning. Dr. C. and wife occupied a room on the first floor, while other members of the family were sleeping in a room upstairs, totally unconclous of the peril by which they were surrounded. Dr. Carr hastened to their apartments and awoke them, and by the time he could return to his own room the flames had attained such progress that it was found necessary to remove his wife from the burning building through a window, she being in delicate bealth.

Dr. Carr's furniture, which was insured for $300, was nearly all destroyed, only a trunk, bedstead and bed, and a few other articles being removed. Nearly all the clothing of the family was also burned. The building was valued at $1,500 and was not insured.

The fire is supposed to have been either incendiary, or to have originated from the ignition of matches in the pantry by rats

The fire department was prempt as usual, and did good service in preventing the spread of the flames to other buildings in the vicinity.

Daring Act of Incendiarism.

Yesterday morning, between 12 and 1 o'clock, Mr. Orrell, who resides on Fourth street, just north of the railroad bridge, was aroused by the ery of fire from a man on the street. He hurriedly left his bed and soon discovered that the flames were under the house of Mr. Frank Maunder, Mr. Orrell's son-in-law, which adjoined - With the coming of March his own premises. He aroused Mr. Maunthe flames. It seems that - the incendiary had opened the large gate leading in to Mr. Maunder's lot, gone to the rear of the house, and started the fire immediately under the bed-room occupied by Mr. M. and his wife, having put it through the lattice-work among a lot of lightwood, in bundles, which had been placed under the house. But for the timely discovery of the fire there is no doubt that a destructive conflagration would have ensued. It was noticed as a somewhat singular fact that the man who cried "fire" never stopped to help extinguish it, but continued on his course down the street.

> The Pathfinders. This Company, which comes highly endorsed by the press, will appear at the Opera House on the 4th and 5th inst. The Richmond State says of their appearance in "The most delightful fooling we have ever witnessed is that of the Pathfinders, la troubadour, at the Theatre. It is a polpeurri of good things, with not one bad one from the beginning to the end. Five persons get left by the boat Pathfinder at a certain picnicing ground, where they find the outlit and wardrobe of a theatrical and gymnastic company, and taking possession of these proceed to give a series of enterainments, dramatic, operatic, gymnastic and otherwise, that are as superior for their excellence as they are novel in style and singular in situation. The three ladies of the party, Miss Mattie Vickers, Miss Mary Jasper, and Miss Eugene Lavalle, are al excellent vocalists, and the two first splendid character actresses, giving, as they did, numerous imitations of the most distinguished ladies on the stage in the drama, opera and bouffe. Mr. Charles Rogers gave numerous imitations of the distin guished actors of the day, showing the most remarkable protean and versatile powers. His 'take off' of Joe Jefferson in 'Old Rip,' Edwin (Adams in 'Enoch Arden,' and J. W. Wallach in 'Fagin, the Jew,' were very natural and also very powerful. In these he was well assisted by Miss Vickers. Mr. Berkely also exhibited good histrionic and vocal powers.'

To Be, or Not to Be.

We learn that the Sheriff of Pender coun ty says he has had no official notification of the pardon of James Moseley, colored convicted of rape at the last term of the Superior Court for that county, and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, the 14th instant, and that as far as he knows at present there is no reason why preparations for the important event should not be proceeded with at the proper time. But, according to the old saying, "it is catching before hanging." Moseley was released from jaff by the Sheriff of New Hanover, on the strength of the Governor's pardon, which was addressed to "all whom it may concern," after securing legal advice, and the culprit is now at large. The granting of the pardon, on seemingly sufficient grounds, was one of the last official acts of
