During the next fiscal year pensioners will receive the snug little sum of $25,000,000, but the division is rather long. One Senator says he knows one pensioner who will get $700,000, but we do not know how

A new Professorship is to be filled at the University of Virginia, that of Geology and Mineralogy, recently provided for by the liberality of Mr Corcoran, the Washington banker. James C. Southall is prominently mentioned for the place. He is a great man, and his name would give character to any chair he might fill.

The man who does the theatrical criticism for the Elmira (N. Y:) Advertiser knows a good thing when he sees it. Here is his style when he writes of Mary Anderson:

"Paragen of Juliets, a princess among women, a queen among actresses. Before thy genius and power of personification does the critical world bow in adoration, and in the presence of thy Jutiet do the people sit in approval."

Twenty years ago scholars and people of true refinement said a child was named after so and so. This has been improved upon by persons who do not like the English of the Bible -the best of all English, or as Kit North says in the Noctes, the most English-English of all writings-and now such people say "named for." That is what is called progress.

The yellow fever bill which passed Congress was drawn by Dr. Cabell, of the University of Virginia. The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch writes:

"It had been previously endorsed by the National Health Association, of which Dr. Cabell is President. It does not provide for any Director General at Washington, and has no features which are objectionable to our people. It will, therefore, doubtless do great good in averting the introduction of the yellow fever and other diseases into the United States if it is carried out rigidly and wisely."

Edmunds has Cushing's Manual at his tongue's end. Thurman knows scarcely anything of parliamentary law. The last of the session, when rather pressed by the able Vermonter, the great Ohioan said, as reported in the Richmond Dispatch:

"The difference between the Vermont doctor and the Ohio doctor is, the Vermont doctor knows all the technicalities of parliamentary law, while the Onio doctor knows only such rules of order as are founded on common sense.'

It is said that the hand-shaking among the departing Congressmen was very effecting, specially among the non-elect. According to a Richmond State special, the form of adieu was something after this sort: "Goodbye, old fellow, I hope to meet you again, for I believe in the resurrection of the dead." No one appeared to think it appropriate to say that he believed in the resurrection of the

A WEEK LONGER. The Legislature will sit a week onger than the time prescribed by the constitution, but at their own expense. This is precisely as it should be. The members have not done all the necessary and important work, and they should remain a fortpight if it is required to perfect such legislation as may be important. If this body has not idled away at least a fortnight of precious time, it is the first body of the kind that has not done so since the war. We believe that the requisite legislation could have been easily accomplished in thirty, or forty days at the farthest. If the session were made one hundred and twenty days by the constitution, instead of sixty days, as the limit, all the necessary work would not be done, and a premium for idleness and dissipation would be offered. Any one who has attended daily upon the deliberations of the General Assembly, especially as a reporter for the press, knows how much time is lost in filibustering, in long-winded speeches, in personal explanations, in the introduction of foolish and whimsical bills, in the transacting of business in detail instead of by an omnibus bill, and in absolute idleness during the first three or four weeks of a session. Why men should aspire to office who are incompetent or lazy or

The great Vanderbilt will case, so full of scandal, has come to a close by a sudden collapse. On Tuesday three old wills of the venerable Commodore were introduced in court, all of them of the same general tenor of the one contested, all less favorable to Cornelius, and all showing that the only change in the old man was that he gave more to his son in the last will than he did in the first three. If that was insanity, then Cornelius was benefitted thereby. No one appears to have doubted the old man's sanity save disappointed heirs and interested lawyers. Thus ends a long chapter of shame and filtb.

We have too much legislation, unless it was better.

The strongest competitor Mr. Randall will have for the Speakership of the next House of Representatives 18 Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky. The friends of the latter claim that eighty Democrats are pledged not to vote for Mr. Randall. If this is so then he cannot be elected. We have observed, however, that it is Mr. Randall's fortune to be beaten always before the election, and then to be chosen at the election. It may be so

NIGHT SESSION. Bill to allow the Commissioners of Edgecombe county to fund its floatng debt, passed.

Bill to provide for the support of the Penitentiary, for the years 1879-'80, came up as a special order. The bill provides $20,000 annually for the maintenance of the convicts on the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley R. The number of convicts on the road to be reduced in case the appropriations prove to be insufficient for their maintenance. Mr. Ellison offered an amendment providing that the funds for payment for the work on the W. N. C. R. R. be disbursed by the Board of Directors of the Penitentiary there, to have entire charge of the convicts. The latter, he asserted, were treated inhumanly at present. 'The amendment was then adopted.

Mr. Richardson, of Columbus, thought the consideration of the bill should be postponed until action was of Internal Improvement, and it was postponed.

The next special order, the bill abolishing the Insane Asylum of North Carolina and creating the N. C. Insane Asylum, then passed its final reading.

Then the House got at the bill creating a Board of Internal Improvements, to consist of one person from each District of the State, the Governor to be ex officio Chairman, the Board to have entire control of all the convicts, hire them out, etc. Laid on the table.

There has been much more absenteeism from the Legislature than appears to a man whose salary has been retrenched. - Raleigh News: Special Agent Kellogg, Deputy Collector Sorrell, and a posse raided on the illicit distilleries of Orange last week, capturing eight. The stills and material were destroyed. The officers met with no opposition from the moonshiners, but did their work neatly and quickly. On their way back home they seized the tobacco factory of Lucius Green, at Durham, for shipping smoking tobacco to New York, Chicago and other places in hogsheads without paying any tax. — The Deputy Marshal who was shot in Chatham was named Sewell, and the shooting was done by a man named N. B. Tayler. Deputies Moore and Sewell had captured the still and fixtures of Tay-lor, and Sewell had charge of these in a wagon. As he was making his way to Carthage with his prize, he was followed and overtaken by Taylor, who shot him, and in a day or so he died. Taylor, at last accounts, was at large, but the Sheriff of

Moore county was in search of him. - Charlotte Observer: The Char lotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad has begun to receive new T iron with which to improve the condition of the road bed. - All talk about the lately broken pool has subsided. The Revenue Cutter Colfax. The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial has the following in reference to the steamer

"The U. S. cutter Schuyler Colfax, which has been at the shipyard of Pusey, Jones & Co., of this city, since last July, undergoing extensive repairs, is now ready to leave, and in a few days will depart for Wilmington, N. C., where she will report for duty. This afternoon she goes out upon the Delaware for the purpose of adjusting her compasses, and will return this evening or tomorrow morning. The vessel has been lengthened twenty-five feet, midships; has a new cylinder, new boiler, new wheels—in fact all her fitting is new, and, with the exception of the hull, she is a new ship. She was built in 1871, by Dialogue & Wood, of

A Professional Borrower.

Jim Dottry, colored, had an examination before a magistrate yesterday on the charge of the larceny of a gun from Jno. H. Cowan, colored, and a coat from Robert Jackson, celored. It appeared from the evidence adduced on the occasion that the defendant has been in the habit for some time past of borrowing articles from different persons, promising to return them by a persons, promising to return them by a given time, and then going off and selling them, which was the case in the instances above alluded to. He was ordered to give bond in the sum of $100 in each case for medy for Coughs, Colds and Hoarseness. taken on the bill creating the Board winds, falling baremeter, and stationary above alluded to. He was ordered to give his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, in default of which he was committed to jail.

Shipmont of Fertilizers. We learn that Colonel Graftin, Superintendent of the Navassa Guano Works, shipped forty-three car loads of that fertilizer to the interior yesterday. OPERA HOUSE. The Pathanders.

There was a very small attendance at the Opera House last night to witness the closing performance of the Pathfinders. There was no change of programme, and the performance was of about the same character as the night previous. The acrobatic feats were especially good, and were highly appreciated. The Ethiopian delineations of Mr. Renfrow were still the best feature of the entertainment, and rendered him the attraction of the evening. The other characters were about the same as on the first evening.

Interesting Admiralty Decisions. We have been kindly furnished by Judge Cantwell, U. S. Commissioner, the following interesting admiralty decisions rendered in cases before him yesterday:

No. 11. Thomas Donnelly vs. W. J. Diukins, master of American schooner John Bacon. Application by plaintiff, a seaman, for admiralty process under section 4,546. The agreement was for a voyage to Galveston in any boat of defendant and Forbes & Co., and to be subject to their order for six months, dated Baltimore, 14th February, 1879. Held, this agreement void and not binding on plaintiff, first, on account of its uncertainty and no consideration named, no wages stated; second, not executed in presence of and certified by a Shipping Commissioner. (United States vs. City of Mexico, 11 Blatchford, 480.) Judgment for wages and costs, and certificate issued authorizing the seizure of the vessel till paid. No. 12. William Lawrence and Robert Kerr, natives and subjects of Prussia; Manuel Victor, native and subject of France; M. Latorich, native and subject of Peru; Jonas Jakobbson, native and subject of Sweden, vs. Mitchell Haggey, Master British barquentine Summer Cloud. Application for admiralty process under sec. 4,546. Objection that they are British subjects and consul has exclusive jurisdiction overruled. In North Carolina any House yesterday at 11 o'clock. An election foreigner may sue another unless otherwise provided by treaty. (Stramburg vs. Heckman, Busbee 250, Pritchard 478.) C.; and or any ports or places in the United States, North or South America, West Indies and Europe, then to port of final discharge in Great Britain or Ireland. Held, that in admiralty this contract is void for unreasonableness and uncertainty and violates the 7 and 8 Vic., sec. 2 and 5, and 6 Wil. IV., chap. 19. (Pritchard admiralty 218, the Countess or Harcourt; Bacon 1, Hagg. 248, Abb. Ship. 608 and notes.) Held, second, satisfactory proof on affidavits filed by the plaintiffs of the utter and absolute unseaworthiness of the ship and the misconduct of the captain, the contract as above no bar to plaintiffs' application. Judgment for wages claimed as in No. 11, authorizing the seizure of the vessel till paid. For Europe.

From present indications there will be quite a number of visitors to Europe from this city during the coming season, especially among our German citizens. Mr. A. D. Weasell, agent for the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, informs us that he has disposed of nine tickets during the past two days. The tickets are secured thus early in order to get choice staterooms. Wilmington passengers generally
