Morning By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.:

SUNDAY MORNING, March 9, 1879.

SENATOR RANSOM.

A correspondent of the Nashville American some weeks ago, writing from Washington, paid Senator Ransom a high and deserved tribute. We noted at the time one remark He said that he was "not great at a set oration but a fountain of eloquence when an occasion touches his heart and spurs his brain to action." We have never met with worse criticism than this. Gen. Ransom's forte lies in "set orations." His famous speech delivered three or four years ago in the Senate in defence of the South and in behalf of conciliation and peace between the sections, was a model of elaborate thought and iervid eloquence. It was the effort of his life. It attracted universal attention. It was complimented exceedingly and deservedly by men of all parties. The Republican Senator from Vermont, Mr. Morrell, declared it was one of the most eloquent efforts ever delivered in the Senate. The late Abram W. Venable pronounced it the most rhetorical speech that he had read in twenty

We have a recent book which contains no less than three extracts from that splendid effort. The speech is very long, very eloquent, very elevated in sentiment, very impressive and persuasive. Throughout there is a fine vein of lofty thought and expression. The sentiments are manly and noble. Of its kind the speech is simply and unquestionably a masterpiece, as far above his extemporized efforts as it is possible to con-

There was once in the British Parliament, in the days of Burke and Pitt, the younger, and Charles James Fox, a very gifted man who made one speech that made him immortal. It was praised by every one. He never again raised his voice in those famous halls of debate. He has passed into history as "Single-speech Hamilton." If Gen. Ransom had never made another speech in the Senate he would have been long remembered because of the dignified, beautiful, rhetorical and brilliant effort to which we have referred. We do not deny him the gift of "touching the heart," or of readiness on the of the useless burdens. spur of the moment. The point we make is that he is great "at a set oration," and that he surpasses himself on such occasions. As Macaulay said of Warren Hastings "writing above himself," so Senator Ransom on a "set occasion" "speaks above himself."

The decline since 1873 of the exports of British manufactures to the United States has been very great. In that year they aggregated $1,275,-000,000. In 1878 they had fallen to $964,000,000, a decrease of $310, 000,000, or about 241 per cent. American exports to England, on the

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPART.

MENT AGAIN. The Goldsboro Mail does not ap pear to have any more confidence in the practical utility of the Agricultural Department than the STAR has. Last year the farmer had to pay a 450 pound bale of cotton for a ton ofguano. This year he must pay 475 pounds, or get a very inferior grade. There is no reduction it seems. The.

"Comparatively little guano has been sold in this State in the last three years for money, but, on the contrary, 19-20ths has been exchanged for cotton, and if the price of cotton in 1876 made the net average in money realized $7.16 more than in 1878, was it not rather the decline in cotton than anything the Agricultural Department did?

Certainly so, we think. "In 1876 standard brands of guano were offered in exchange for cotton at the rate of 400 pounds lint cotton per ton, and if the Agricultural Department of the State has influenced the matter at all, we submit that before it can be claimed for it, the saving of $215,000 per annum, it should be able to explain the cause of the increased rate of exchange demanded by the guano companies now operating in the State. We believe that to establish the Agricultural Department, the tax of $500 on each brand of fertilizers was levied. We believe this tax has placed the whole traffic of guano into the hands of a few rich companies, and having driven small companies out of the market, they have been enabled to force more cotton by 50 to 100 pounds per ton out of the fields of planters than they could ever have done, but for that ax. We sincerely believe that the guaso tax has drawn already hundreds of thousands of dollars from the pockets of planters."

The editor of the Mail is a practical man of business, and is an old farmer as well as legislator. think his views sound and that they will bear the test of scrutiny. We have before intimated wherein we think the Agricultural Department has been beneficial. We do not think, we repeat, that it deserves any credit for reducing the prices of fer-

OPINIONS OF VIRGINIANS AN TO THE BELL PUNCH.

We notice that several of the leading men of Virginia have written letters in which they express themselves favorably to the Moffett Register. They have seen its workings and learned something of its capabilities when properly enforced. Senator Withers says "it has realized far more than any other system of taxation hitherto devised, though the receipts have not equalled the expectations of its friends."

Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, a wise and judicious statesman of large observation and experience, says:

"The Moffett law, which provides for the collection of revenue from spirits, wine and malt liquors, by a specific tax on consumption, is in, my judgment, a wise law. At first it met with strong opposition, especially from liquor dealers, who did not understand its principles, or probably its operation and its effects. But I think the opposition has been greatly diminished as people begin to understand them better."

The Superintendent of Public Instruction, Rev. Dr. Ruffner, says:

"The principle of taxing liquor at the point of consumption is undoubtedly the wisest and best, and will, in my judgment, become a permanent policy of this State. Should the law in this present form be found imperfect, it will continue to be amended until the object be accomplished."

The Auditor of the State is clearly of the opinion that the law is a good one and ought to be continued in force. Many of the liquor sellers, who at first opposed the law, are now its strong advocates. If the Register is properly protected and vigorously enforced it cannot raise in the end less than a million dollars annually.

In 1852 the salary of the Mayor of New York was $3,000. Now it is $12,000. The New York papers do not think the city government now is better than it was then. The

"A quarter of a century ago the yearly amount of municipal taxation was $8,380,-511 05, and it was raised upon $351,768,426 of assessed valuation of real and personal estates. The yearly expenditure then for all city and county salaries was $241,882 .70, which is not far from the sum now disbursed in the Finance Department alone upon salary account. With the exception perhaps of house rent, there is not much difference between the prices of the necessaries of life then and now. saries of life then and now. Now it is so obvious if $3,000-the highest salary paid to any city official a quarter of a century ago—was then regarded as sufficient, that in order to equitably au-thorize the existing salaries of four times that amount the expenses of living should have increased at least four times. This everybody knows to be at present untrue. The necessary expenses of living in New York have not even doubled since 1852."

There is a disposition in cities and States, both North and South, to overhaul expenses and reduce taxation. People are getting very tired

The Goldsboro Messenger does not relish the new law extending the jurisdiction of magistrates. We think it probable that it will prove objectionable in many respects when it is tested fairly. The Messenger says:

"Our Superior Court Judges are generally gentlemen of distinction, ability and above reproach. They are selected with an eye to these tesentials, yet our Legislators require them to rotate, and no Judge can hold the courts of a county oftener than once in four years. Now, the Messenger is not disposed to question the wisdom of this rotation system. We think it wise and al-together calculated to add to the integrity and usefulness of the courts. But how are we to reconcile this precaution with the laxness by which the Magistrates are given increased jurisdiction in criminal matters?
Our Justices of the Peace are with us and that it was feared our Judges would be? We merely wish to know, you know.

Is there not force in this objection? If it is necessary to insure justice and fair dealing to have rotation among men of high character for honor and learning, is it not equally necessary to secure the same ends to have rotation among the Magistrates? Think

REV. DE. DEEMS IN BOSTON.

This well known divine recently presided, "with grace and power, says the Church Union, at Joseph Cook's Symposium recently held in Boston. Sundry speeches were made. Dr. Deems made a striking and rather saucy talk considering his audience and the place. We copy some of his hits, regretting we have not space for the whole:

"One of your own old women had said that the doctrine of total depravity is a very good doctrine, if well lived up to. Well, however far short you come to living up to orthodox doctrines generally, you know that the fame of New England is that she does theroughly live up to the doctrine of total depravity! [Applause and laughter.] stands that, while New England has produced, through an orthodox mother, so lovely a thing as Channing, during the past two centuries the most atrocious atrocities that have come into human history-atrocities which have violated all the sanctities of the relations of man to man, of man to woman, and of man to God, have entered history out of New England. [Sensation.

"Dr. Manning, with a sly look at ou friend Colonel Higginston, who served in the late war, says that New England Universalists began to believe in hell when the ebellion broke out. They were then sure that there must be a hell for the 'rebels.' Now, how curious things are. I am a Southerner. I was in the Confederate lines through the whole of the late 'unpleasant-We had some Universalists even there. Well, when you broke in on us and would not 'let us alone,' some of those Universalists gave it up, and said: 'Well, there must be a hell somewhere; or else where did these fellows come from?' [Laughter. | Others, the staunchest, could not bring themselves to believe in a hell, but they did give in enough to say that, seeing there were Yankees, if there were no hel there was a deplorable economic defect somewhere in the Universe? [Applause and laughter.]

"Sometimes I have heard orthodox preach ers preach and pray in such a strain that I admired the mercy of the God that did not kill them on the spot. And when I consider you radicals, and the manner of your speech, and see that you live and move and have your being, then I know that the mercy of the Lord is boundless. [Applause."]

It is a fact that the old Puritan stock of New England is gradually dying out. There is a manifest decrease in the number of children of native parents, and specially in Mas sachusetts. That State shows smaller annual per centage of births than any other State. Dr. Allen, of Lowell, some time ago published some statistical tables on the subject. The Philadelphia Ledger thus re marks upon what he says:

"Dr. Allen shows, from comparative tables, that the average number of children to each family in Massachusetts has been diminishing through several successive generations. He ascribes this change in part to the undue development of the intellectual faculties. He shows, moreover that the number of children in each family among the foreign-born population is double that of the native-born. Other cline in the number of children to each

Such statistics are not without in terest and value.

What has the Legislature done about that Radical invention that has proved such an unmitigated curse wherever and whenever tried-the despicable Returning Board? Is that machinery for doing wrong and tempting those in power to disregard the rights of majorities to continue? There is no need whatever of such a system. It is distasteful to the people, and bad associations are connected with it. A Returning Board for North Carolina is very offensive. Down with it.

The last number of Scribner's Monthly contains an interesting article on the great Polish actress, Modjeska. We copy a brief paragraph: "Modjeska may have her equal, possibly her superior in certain directions, but it is doubtful if Europe possess so well rounded a genius for the stage as she. Madame Walter, of Berlin, is said to be unrivaled in heavy tragedy; Janauschek has proved in America her marked tragic genius; Bern-hardt has her roles in which she is unsurpassed; but none of these can run the gamut of the emotions like Modjeska."

The Special Session Elephant. Washington Dispatch to the N. Y. Herald.

There is a growing suspicion among the Democratic Representatives and Senators who remain here that they have drawn an elephant in the extra session which they allowed some of their extreme men to force. When Congress assembles they will frame and pass laws repealing the objectionable sections of the revised statutes. If they repeal each of these statutes by a separate act it is very possible that the President will sign those repealing the test oaths and the clause allowing troops to be kept at the polls, but it is thought he will veto a bill repealing the Supervisor and Marshal laws. This is the more likely because it is known that not all the whites in the Southern States desire the repeal of the laws. Conservative Democrats in Louisiana and South Carolina and Independents in other States are not averse to having them kept on the statute books.

THE LEGISLATURE

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS OF THURSDAY CON-CLUDED.

Ruleigh Observer Report, Condensed. NIGHT SESSION.

The House resumed the consideration of the school bill, the question being on the amendment offered by Mr. Davis, of Catawba. Mr. Davis took the floor in advocacy of his amendment. He stated that the effect of the amendment was to allow an increase of taxes for school purposes, in school districts where the people by a vote should so order. That this local option was a feature of the school systems of many States, and that its adoption by this State would add much to the efficiency of the public schools. Amendment adopted.

Bill passed second reading. The bill to amend the Constitution in relation to the support of the insane. This bill, and the discussion thereou, were reported in full when the bill was on its second reading. The bill passed its third reading.

The bill to provide for the support of the Penitentiary then came up. This is practically the bill reported last night, with only such changes as the failure to pass the bill raising a board of internal improvements rendered necessary.

Mr. Ellison's amendment forbidding convicts to be whipped, was adopted, and the bill passed. Bill to incorporate the Farmers' Bank of Milton. Passed.

Bill to forbid any person to give evidence in their own behalf in suits on debts contracted before 1868. Passed.

Bill to incorporate the North Caro lina Christian Conference. Passed. Bill to incorporate the Burgaw & Onslow Railroad Company. Passed. Bill to allow Richmond county to levy a special tax. Passed.

Bill to authorize a special tax for Anson county. Passed. Bill to amend the election law. This bill provides for the election of bles and Registers in 1880. Passed.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES. Let the Legislature pass a law making it misdemeanor for failing to pay a newspaper subscription, preachers and school teachers. Lawyers and doctors can take care of themselves .- Statesville American.

We are not so clear in the opinion as some appear to be, that the establishment of an Agricultural Department in the State was wise, and that untold benefits were to inure from it to the planters of the State, and we are led to think that some at least of the friends of that Bureau doubt the continued faith of the people in it as the great panacea for all their ills and drawbacks in agriculture.—Rocky Mount Mail.

Tax is the tribute we pay to government for the benefits we receive. It is an assessment made upon all for the good of all. That the burden should be as light as possible, and bear upon all as nearly equally as possible, is a proposition that never meets denial; but just how this is to be brought about has at all times and in all governments exercised the attention and kill of the ablest men. -Alamance Gleaner.
