THE LEGISLATURE.

(Raleigh Observer Report Condensed.) SENATE.

RALEIGH, March 10.

Mr. Bryan, of Pender, from the committee of conference on the bill to prevent the killing of live stock on the Carolina Central Railroad, reported a recommendation that the Senate recede from all its amendments except that including conductors and engineers in the provisious of the bill. The Senate concurred in the report of the committee, and the bill went to the House for concurrence.

Mr. Henderson presented a petition from citizens of Wilmington, praying for the modification of the Honse bill to authorize the commissioners of Richmond county to levy a special tax, passed its second reading and went to the calendar.

Senate bill, supplemental to the act to provide for the settlement of the State debe, passed its several readings and went to the House. SEABOARD AND RALEIGH R. R.

Mr. Respass moved for a suspension of the rules to put upon its passage, third reading, the bill "to commute, compound and settle a portion of the public debt," known as the Williamston & Tarboro Raroad.

The vote on the suspension of the rules was ayes 25, noes 13. A majority of Senators elect not having voted in the affirmative, the rules were not suspended. An arrangement was now entered into by the contending parties that the Railroad bill be put upon its passage till the vote be reached, that ample time be allowed for discussion. and that the previous question be not resorted to, and that the Revenue bill be taken up and be finally disposed of.

The bill then passed by the followng vote-yeas 24, nays 14. NIGHT SESSION.

The Senate met again at 7½ o'clock. The first hour of the session was occupied in disposing of quite a number of bills of no pressing public importance and those of a private character. The Revenue bill was then taken up and was considered till after 1 A. M., when it passed its third reading considerably cut up by amendments, and was ordered to be sent to the House for concurrence. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Carelina Club-Formal Opening. There was quite a gala scene in Carolina Hall last night, on the occasion of the formal opening. The members of the Carolina Club were out in force, and quite a number of invited guests were present. The rooms were brilliantly illuminated and showed to very great advantage. The most pleasant, as well as the most beautiful feature of the occasion was the presence of quite a number of ladies among the guests of the Club, lending an elevated grace and refinement to the scene. We congratulate our friends of the Club upon the honor done them by such a presence, and hail it as an evidence that the gentler sex will always be welcome, and that the social pastime of the members will be such that they will never be embarrassed by the presence of this character of guests. The band of Italian harpers were present and discoursed very delightful music. Some of the fair guests were tempted by the fascinating strains to yield to the pressing solicitations of attendant cavaliers, and tried the delightful mazes of the waltz, the hall affording ample room in spite of the three billiard tables.

What with the music, the dancing, the merry clink of the billiard balls, the soft light and the general beauty of the scene, it was most pleasant to look upon, and enough even to tempt a staid Benedict from the round of common-place habit.

FROM SMITHVILLE.

A New Post Surgoen-Garrison to be Moved-The Cutter Colfax, &c. [Star Correspondence.]

After an unusually disagreeable winter

the severest since 1857, according to that much quoted individual, "the oldest inhabitant," we are at last enjoying warm breezes and cloudless, though very hazy skies. There has been considerable sickness during the past few months, especially among children, and everybody is about getting over that cold which took our little lown by storm a few weeks ago and spared neither man, woman nor child. Smithville has recently been gladdened by the arrival of Dr. Bernard G. Semig, Surgeon U. S. A., who has taken the place of our much respected townsman Dr. Potter, as Post Surgeon. It may be remembered that Dr. Semig, who is a Hungaian, lost a leg during the Modoc war, and was subsequently appointed Surgeon U. S. Army, by special act of Congress, for gallantry in the field, having previously held the position of civilian contract doctor. Dr. Semig appears to be highly pleased with Smithville, and more especially with the fair young ladies it contains.

It is rumored that Fort Johnston is soon to be abandened as a garrison and the troops stationed there to be moved elsewhere. This change, it is said, will be recommended by General Auger, who recently inspected the Fort. While, as a matter of course, there is no earthly use for the sogers at this place they will be quite a loss, in a pecuniary sense, to some of our citizens. What will become of three fourths of our colored population in that event, I am at a loss to conjecture. On what slender threads hangs the tenure of your purely political office was recently illustrated by the removal or resignation of Mr. E. Legg as Inspector. Mr. Legg wished to discharge an obnoxious and disrespectful colored boatman, but as the man's political influence or good will, or both, were something not to be overlooked, the boatman was reinstated, and Mr. Legg had to leave. George L. Mabson is Boarding Officer at present. The arrival here, on Saturday night, of the dredge boat Woodbury, created quite a commotion among the numerous tugs, which all gave three whistles with a will in honor of the stranger. Quite a contrast was presented the following morning when the Colfax entered the harbor, looking "pretty as a picture." Contrary to expectation not a whistle sounded, although the Colfax and the U. S. steamer Endeavor had each a man at the halyards ready to dip the colors in mutual salute, and the tugs were ready to sound a welcome. It is generally held that the Colfax should have saluted first; as it was, there was not a sign of a welcome, although the boat and her officers are universally popular down here. OCCASIONAL.
