The New York dry goods market is reported as improving steadily. Here is a summary for Tuesday:

"Utica shirtings and wide sheetings are advanced by agents. Fancy prints are in better request, and pinafore descriptions are in special demand. Ginghams quiet, and dress goods in fair request. Men's wear woollens sluggish, and foreign goods moderately active.

The Norfolk Virginian's Washington correspondent on the 10th, said that the contest for Secretary of the Senate lay between Col. Waddell, ex-Congressman Stenger, of Pennsylvania, and ex-Senator Dennis, of Maryland. He says:

"All of them are popular, and it is too soon to guess who will succeed. Burch, a Tennessee editor, has a corps of friends at work for him in a way that makes him s formidable rival."

A very large and fashionable audience attended the performance of H. M. S. Pinafore in Richmond, but it was a failure, according to the State. Every thing went wrong. It says the opera or operetta, whichever it is, "is not much." We quote again:

"It is not safe to 'pin' your faith to any-thing 'afore' you have had some better authority than the endorsement of mixed London, New York or Philadelphia audiences, and hereafter our people should cut loose from New York's pinafore strings."

On next Tuesday, the 18th inst. the grand Democratic party will take charge of the Congressional ship. Eighteen years ago it passed into the hands of another crew. It has been through storms and tempests since that day. It is to be hoped the old crew, when it gets aboard, will put everything in shipshape order, and with the stars and stripes proudly sons shall be indicted for such offence floating from every mast, that it will unless the representation be made in sail over placid seas and be wafted by propitious and gentle winds. As Nelson proclaimed in those terse words of exhortation and incitement which he caused to float from the masthead of his flag-ship, the Victory, on the morning of the battle of Trafalgar-"England expects every man to do his duty"-so we may apply the sentiment to the Democrats in the 46th Congress, and say-"The country expects every one of you to do your duty."

There is something peculiarly touching in the tragic death of Col. Alston, who had a large kinship in this State. We publish an interest- | passed its readings.

ing account of the affair taken from that great news-gatherer, the New York Herald. Colonel Alston endeavored to avoid the collision, but when forced to take a position of defence he appears to have borne himself with high courage and coolness. For a brave man to be forced to lose his life, or take life at the bidding of a bully, is painful and shocking. It is only two weeks ago that Colonel Alston published a letter in the New York Tribune in defence of Southern society. He insisted that life and preperty were safe in Georgia. He has soon fallen a victim to that lawless spirit that prevails unfortunately in the South as in the North. It is the same spirit that sent Jim Fiske into eternity, and that makes the Northern papers records of crime. Colonel Alston had been an editor for years.

THE LEGISLATURE.

(Raleigh News Report Condensed.) SENATE.

RALEIGH, March 12. Mr. Leach introduced a bill supplemental to the bill providing for a State Board of Health, the object being to meet certain requirements to enable the State to get the advantage of the provisions of the general law of Congress on the same subject.

This bill passed its second reading under a suspension of the rules and went to the House.
