Attorney General Devens will take no part in the discussion of the Virginia case before the Supreme Court.

Good news from Washington. I is reported as fixed that Corbin will be rejected as Chief Justice of Utah. It could not be otherwise with an honest Senate.

Col. R. M. Armfield and Capt. W H. Kitchin made speeches on the Army bill in the House. Their speeches appear in the Record. We have not read them as yet.

A negro man at Petersburg, Va., was killed on Saturday last by the explosion of an old 32-pound Parrot shell, thrown by a Yankee battery during the war. He was using it as a maul to drive an axe when it exploded.

The stal warts are offended that Mr. Frank M. Alfriend, once connected with the STAR, has been appointed a clerk to one of the committees. The cause of complaint is that he is the biographer of ex President Davis. Let the heathen rage.

Conger blew his horn so violently the other day in the House, and be came so obstreperous in the performance that the Speaker had to threaten him with the Sergeant-at-Arms. Conger was mad because Chicago had gone Democratic, and he feared a slight "revolution" in his

Mr. F. H. Hurd, of Ohio, appears to have made a very effective speech in the House. We see it mentioned that his brother Democrats in Congress have shown their appreciation of its excellence as a thorough and full response to Garfield and the other Stalwarts by subscribing for 200,000 copies.

The late Madame Bonaparte, widow of Napoleon's brother, Jerome, was buried in Baltimore. Her funeral took place from the residence of Mrs. Susan Bonaparte. We agree with the witty paragrapher of the State, that the name "Susan" does sound fearfully democratic when coupled with such an imperial name.

Horace Greeley's daughters are poor. It is announced that the regal Vanderbilt has paid them $57,006 due by his brother Cornelius. Jay Gould ought to pay them at least $100,000 for conspiring to destroy their father by ousting him from the control of the Tribune to which he had given life and reputation and influence. To-day some dirty crows sit in the dead eagle's nest.

About a dozen men run the House of Representatives. The remainder look on and wonder when their time will come. Judge Russell says it is against the common law of the House for a member to make a speech under four years. We have noticed, when we have been present during a debate, that only the leaders were listened to by the members. We once heard a very able debate between Alex. Stephens and Henry Winter Davis. Every one was attentive, and a great crowd was pres-

A Sterling Daily. (Jackson Reporter.)

That sterling daily, the MORNING STAR, of Wilmington, N. C., entered upon its twenty-fourth volume last Tuesday. The STAR is now established on too firm a basis and has too strong a hold on the affections of its patrons to even be wished the stereotyped expression, "long may she twinkle," &c.

For the Star. Mr. Editor: In your issue of yesterday you spoke of Gen. Hawley, a member of the present Congress, as "having been ac-cidentally born in North Carolina, and that his parents were from the North." A

Gen. Hawley's mother was a respectable Scotch lady, a resident of Richmond county, in this State. His father was a Northern man, and peddled goods about the country; he fell in love with this lady and married her. After their marriage they resided in this States for some time, and finally removed to New York, when their son, the present member of Congress from Connecticut, was about five years old. It will be remembered by a good many of our citizens that when Gen. Hawley was in command of Wilmington after the fall of Fort Fisher, and lording it over our people in the most despotic manner, it was his boast, frequently expressed, that he had returned to his native State to enforce correct principles, those principles being nothing more nor less than radicalism in the most offensive form.

It may not be mappropriate in this consection to mention an incident that occurred here during the military dictatorship of General Hawley. A venerable lady, a con-nection of his mother, resided in Wilmington at that time in extreme poverty. He sent word to her that he intended to call upon her, but the Scotch blood of the old ady was roused, and though she scarcely had a crust of bread on which to live, and a word from him would have quickly relieved her necessities, she instantly replied looked upon him as a disgrace to his naive State. He did not call upon her. That venerable lady is still in our midst, with but few of the committee of the grave. few of the comforts of life around her to Bold Robbery of Watches, &c. Sometime during Monday night the gro cery store of Mr. C. H. Entrance was effected through a back window, the shutters to which had been prized open. The window is further protected by iron bars, leaving apertures about eight by ten inches in size, and it is supposed that the services of a small boy were called into requisition, as no grown person could possibly have entered the window without removing the bars in question. No clue to the perperrator of the robbery.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT. Gentlemen of the Wilmington Produce Ex

It has been customary for the President on behalf of the Board of Managers of this Exchange to present an annual communi-cation giving the statistics for the past year, and presenting such considerations for the welfare of your body as may seem timely and pertinent. I will at once proceed to a resume of the business of this port for the twelve months ending March 31st: Receipts of cotton from Sep-

Receipts of crude turpentine from April 1st, 1878, to April from April 1st, 1877, to April

Exports cotton, domestic, for year end-ing March 31st, 1879, 38,856 bales. Do. for year ending March 31st, 1878, 60,297 bales. Decrease, 21,441 bales. Exports spirits turpentine, foreign, for

Exports spirits turpentine, domestic, for year ending March 81st, 1879. 12,860 barrels. Do. for year ending March 31st, 1878. 19,573 barrels. Decrease, 6,713 barrels. Exports rosin, foreign, for year ending March 31st, 1879, 490,887 barrels. Do. for year ending March 81st, 1878, 435,821 barrels. Increase, 54,516 barrels. Exports rosin, domestic, for year ending March 31st, 1879, 70,495 barrels. De. for year ending March 31st, 1878, 77,486 barrels. Decrease, 6,991 barrels. Exports tar, foreign, for year ending March 31st, 1879, 35,055 barrels. Do. for year ending March S1st, 1878, 30,362 barrels. Increase 4,193 barrels. Exports tar, domestic, for year ending March 31st, 1879, 35,186 barrels. Do. for year ending March 31st, 1878, 31,733 barrels. Increase, 3,453 barrels.

From these statistics it will be seen that the receipts of cotton and spirits turpentine are less than those of the previous year, while the receipts of rosin, tar and crude turpentine are greater, the naval stores receipts, as a whole, fully equal to the previous year. With increased facilities for compressing cotton it was rea-sonably supposed that the receipts must be increased, but some changes in the control of the railroad from Columbia to Augusta will probably account for the falling off. In our foreign exports there is an increase in cotton, spirits turpentine, rosin and tar. and a decrease in domestic exports in a but tar, showing a steadily increasing direct trade, while the diminution of domestic shipments is accounted for by the increased production of naval stores South of us dividing the trade.

The merchants of Wilmington have a well deserved reputation for energy, indus-try and intelligence, and they should direct their attention more unitedly and persistently to the furthering of all schemes that will promote the interests of our city and increase our general business. Private business interests should not so absor heir minds as to cause them to lose sigh of public interests of vital importance. In this connection I wish to call the attenti of the merchants to the importance of sustaining this Exchange; there is entirely too much indifference manifested, and the burden of the work and expense have to be borne by a few, while the benefits are shared by the whole,

The rules and regulations established have proved so beneficial; and while doing their work so silently that they seem to be unappreciated, they do it so effectually that all enjoy the benefit—as the rain from Heaven "falls alike on the just and the unjust"-so the workings of this Exchange benefit the entire business community, members and non-members.
