Secretary Sherman has just returned from New York to Washington and represents the evidences of returning prosperity as most encouraging.

And now ex-President Jefferson Davis says there is not one word of truth in the Boston Herald interview. It was "a simon pure fabrication." Next.

At the public debate of the Wash ington Literary Society of Randolph Macon College, Virginia, among the speakers was Mr. W. W. Sawyer, of North Carolina.

Whilst some three or four thousand negroes have left the South and got as far as Kansas and Missouri, quite six thousand genuine "rebels," former citizens of Kentucky, have settled in Illinois and Indiana.

Uncle Sammy Tilden's health must be indeed very poor when the Washington Post is moved to write this

"We have seen Mr. Tilden within the past two weeks, and if there is a life insurance company that would take a risk on him at less than ninety-nine cents on the dollar, it is a company that we shouldn't care to have a policy in."

The way Jeffreys-Bond is carrying things in South Carolina shows only too plainly that there is the most pressing need for Congressional action in regard to the juror's test oath. With Jeffreys-Bond on the beach and twelve ignorant negroes for jury, what sort of showing has decent Democrat for a fair trial? Congress should repeal the infamous oath at once by a separate bill, if

The news from the colored immigrants to Kansas is not of a very encouraging character. They are simply in a most destitute condition, and the most piteous appeals are made for their relief. The Washington Post says:

"Nine-tenths of the negroes now in Kansas are essentially paupers, and are congregated in large numbers about Leavenworth. Wyandotte and Topeka, without money or work. The result is that their reception is cool and their prospects either of making a living or getting home, where they now want to go again, are decidedly gloomy. This was the result to be expected."

Mr. Wm. L. Royall, of Richmond Va., of counsel for Mr. John E. Poindexter, has published a very sharp card in the State, in which he denounces unmeasuredly the way the accused is treated. He says tattle and slander are busy at work. He has been threatened in the following anonymous letter:

"William L. Royall:—If you undertake, in Poindexter's trial, to injure the character of that noble young man, Curtis, your life will pay the forfeit."

Mr. Royall says : "What is the necessary tendency and inevitable effect of the deifying gossip, the monument, the bill to make cowhiding a felony? Its effect must be to poison the public mind against the accused; to arouse a storm of prejudice against him. Is such conduct as this consistent with giving him a fair trial for the offence with which he stands charged? Is he to be tried by the a fair trial for the offence with which he slands charged? Is he to be tried by the law of the land, or is he to be tried under the judgment of the gabblers and gossips of the community? Are his counsel to be intimidated from pursuing such a course in his defence as their judgment may tell them that right and justice call upon them to pursue?"

There are so many sensations in the papers we hardly know when to trust a statement made about prominent politicians. It is telegraphed to the New Orleans Times, from Washngton, that Gen. Grant is very seriously threatened with insanity. It is not improbable, but is it true? man of his habits might have insanity. The dispatch says:

"The story, substantially, is that Grant's mind is seriously impaired; that it has been threatening for a long time, which was one cause for his going abroad.
"While in Germany a most noted surgeon was consulted, whose opinion was that the disease threatened insanity. It was hoped that change, freedom from ex-citement and anxiety, would work a cure, but this has not been the result; and while e attacks are intermittent and irregular,

This explanation is said to account for his strange conduct in various places, and specially for his conduct when at the Escurial in Spain, when, according to a Spanish paper, he was intoxicated.

The Rives Cases go Over Till October. [Special to the State.]

WASHINGTON, April 14 .-- By arrangement between counsel the Rives cases and the Tennessee case go over to October in the Supreme Court. In the meantime proceedings in the State courts will be stopped. These cases are to have precedence at the next term. Opinions of members of the bar are that the indications are very favorable to the State.

The School House Robbertes-Arrest of a Party Implicated-Recovery of Stelen Property, &c. The School Committeemen of this Township having gone before Justice Gardner and made the proper affidavit, a search warrant was issued and placed in the hands probably be invited to join in a course of of officers Carr and Bunting for the recovery of certain articles stolen from the public school houses in this city some months ago, when, it will be remembered, that for some weeks scarcely a night passed but what one or more of the school houses suffered in this way. Search was made at a house on Mulberry between Fourth and Fifth streets; at another on the corner of Dock and Twelfth streets, known as the Missionary Baptist Church; and at still another in an alley between Front and Second streets, in a room occupied by one Jane Willis, in each of which a portion of the stolen articles were found, consisting of nearly a hundred books, including six or seven Bibles, a lot of chairs, a clock, a bell, and some other articles. It was also expected to recover a melodeon, stolen from one of the school rooms. Information received in connection with these discoveries led to the arrest of one Wellington H. Boyette, a mulatto, a frequenter of the place named, who, it will be remembered, served out a term of one year in the Albany penitentiary several years age for opening a letter addressed to a gentleman in this city, which he took from the posteffice, and abstracted therefrom a check on one of our city banks for a sum of money. It also leaked out afterwards that while in the penttentiary he was a regular correspondent of the band of thieves and midnight marauders which was broken up here some years ago, by Officer N. Carr, and which was known by the distinctive appellation of "Moonshiners."

Boyette was ordered to give a justified bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance before Justice Gardner for preliminary examination Thursday, in default of which he was committed to jail.

The articles recovered by the officers were all identified as part of the property stolen from the school houses.

P. S.-Since the above was written, we learn that Officer Carr's further searches have been rewarded with the discovery and recovery of the stelen melodeen. He found the instrument in the house of Jane Willis, boxed, and arranged so as to lead to the impression that the purpose of the spoils gatherers was to ship it to some other and safer point. It is supposed to be the property of the Union School, and we are requested to ask parties interested to call and aid the officers in identification of the property, now at Squire Gardner's public interest in the company. By special request the members of the company present were addressed by Judge Cantwell, who attended the meeting for the purpose, His remarks and recommendations were received with great attention. At their close, a complimentary vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker.

On motion of J. C. Munds, Esp., Secretary of the company, it was resolved that the Captain be authorized to invite the members of the Regular and Veteran corps to meet in conference upon the present condition and prospects of the company; second, that an appeal be made to the ladies of Wilmington for a renewal of their friendship and former countenance and cooperation; third, that the merchants, property holders and parents of the city, having families to take care of, and interested in the peace and good order of the city, be urged to contribute, as in times past, to the organization. www. world awon Jen

What the company needs is not mosey so much, for we learn it has the control of sufficient funds, but it does want a plain and unequivocal expression of favor from the respectable classes of Wilmington, sufficient to induce parents to urge their sons of proper age to join and the merchants to let their clerks attend the meetings and drills. The STAR has never omitted its duty to the public in these particulars, and we trust that every merchant and parent in the city commend us for it with their voice and example.

We understand that it is the purpose to get up a concert under the auspices of the ladies in furtherance of these objects. A number of our distinguished citizens will 9th inst. lectures for the same purpose. The Fire Last Night. Considerable excitement was created in the city last night by the ringing of the fire bells, caused by the discovery that the drying department of the plough manufactory of Messrs. Hart, Bailey & Co. was in flames. The Fire Department, as is their wont, turned out in a double-quick, and we are glad to state that, in spite of the proximity of the conflagration to the patent shop, foundry and other property of the firm, and the private residences on Second. between Market and Dock streets, the destruction was confined to the point where the flames originated. The building was but little damaged except in the destruction of the window blinds and injury to the flooring, though Messrs. Hart, Bailey & Co. sustained a loss in the consumption of plow material which will amount to $200 or $300, on which there was no insurance. We do not feel like writing of first or second streams, but we do know that in premptness, systematic and intelligent abor, our firemen are equal to any in the country, North or South, East or West, without regard to color or previous condition of servitude.

Destruction and Reconstruction.

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE OF THE LATE WAR. By RICHARD TAYLOR, Lieutenant General in the Confederate Army.

"As a writer he is vigorous, sparkling, eradite, and entertaining to a degree. His opportunities for the observation of men and thiags have been such as few possessed, and he has made good use of them. Of course he views the late war from a Southerner's standpoint, but both sides receive censure at his hands. The great interest in his book to many will, no doubt, be the sharpness with which he criticises men and measures. Where least expected, he pours forth hatteries of sarcasm and denunciation, and spares no one whom he erves showing up."—N. Y. Berald.
