Leading Republican Representatives urged the passage of the Senate bill authorizing experiments to freeze out yellow fever. We record this to their credit.

From the tone of certain Republican papers in Massachusetts and Connecticut we should say that the Down Easters are not disposed to take any of Grant "in thern."

"Mr. Hayes is the only President who did not come in with a majority in the House of Representatives."-Machange.

He is the only man who wrote himself President, "who did not come in" the Executive Chair "with a majority" of the qualified electors of the United States. Both facts are worth remem-

It bases its judgment upon unsworn statements of detectives employed by the court to secretly find out something, and the victim knew nothing of it until the blow was struck. These detectives are now called investigating agents, because that sounds more respectable, just as highwaymen are now called road agents. They had been aptly described as dead bodies that lie at the bottom of the clear stream until the buoyancy of their putrefaction brings them to the surface and the insufferable stench they emit scatters consternation."

"The full fledged sheet, rich with juicy literature and news, filled our soul with gladness rivalling the pleasure of the effulgent splendor of the day's brilliant king, as Apollo's chariot begins its daily course and his frantic steeds paw the bars of the East."

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond State says of Logan's "great effort," for according to the organs all Radical tirades are "great efforts:"

"It would be hard to decide whether Murray's grammar or the Confederate brigadiers suffered most at the hands of the valiant Logan of Illinois. There was absolutely nothing new in his speech.'

"He read from messages of Republican Governors condemning the use or presence of soldiers at the polls, and quoting from Governor Geary, of Pennsylvania, he asked Wallace whether Geary was loyal. Wal-lace said, 'Kee, he was a Major General in the Federal army.' 'Here, then,' said Beck, 'I read from a message of a Republican Governor who went into the army and fought, and didn't send a substitute to fight for him,' looking at Blaine as he said it. Blaine felt it."

The first contested election case in the House will be Cartin (Dem.) against Yocum (Greenbacker) of Pennsylvania. It is thought by many that Curtin will be seated.

After sending the paragraphs concerning Bragg and Russell to the printer, we saw from both New York and Philadelphia papers that Judge Russell was the man that Bragg took after. We give a very condensed report from the New York World: "Mr. Russell (Nat., N. C.) protested that the proposition was an insult to the Union men of the South. History might be searched in vain for an instance of men having suffered and endured so much for opinion's sake as they had done. The as-sertion that there had been no Union men in the South was a slander on men who were the equals of the gentleman from Wisconsin or of any gentleman on the floor. Applause on the Republican side."

We will give an abstract of what Gen. Bragg said in our next.

Augusts Burr and James, on Market street. The clock was found in a room occupied by Charlotte Boyette. Capt. J. H. Allen identified the time-piece as one sold by him to the Misses Havana..... Burr and James, and Mr. Ned Cushing Indianola, testified to the fact of the school house being robbed of various articles, including the clock, which he identified. York Everett, colored, testified to having seen the same clock in Boyette's school house, arrived at Stell corner of Twelfth and Dock streets. Defendant was required to give a $50 bond in his case, with conditions similar to the others.

Another case was called, in which Boyette was charged with stealing books, etc., from the Peabody colored school house on

Campbell street. J. E. Sampson testified that the school had been robbed on three or four different occasions, and that among the missing articles were quite a number of valuable books, seven chairs, a clock, two bells, window curtains, brooms, &c. Witness recognized the books, which were in Court, as did also A. B. Lind, who was principal of the school at the time, and under, whose direction they were ordered by the school committeemen. He also showed private marks in them which were made by him with a pencil, including his own name and those of several of the scholars who had used them. Jane

Willis testified as to the books being in the box found under her bed by the officers, and which had been placed there by Boyette. A bond in the sum of $50 was required in this case. This concluded the cases examined during the forenoon. Officer Carr was called upon in each case to testify as to where and under what circumstances the articles were found, &c. During the examination the prisoner appeared to regard the proceedings with supreme indifference, occasionally smiling at the remark of a witness, and declining in every instance the proffered privileges of asking any question he pleased of those who were testifying against him or of making a statement in his own defence.

In the afternoon another case was called, in which the defendant was charged with having stolen a number of books and other articles from the Williston school house, in the southern portion of the city. Entice Green was the principal witness, and fully identified the books. He said it was his habit to write his name on the one hundredth page of hisbooks, if they had so many, and also on the two-handredth, provided it was a book containing that many pages. Some of the books were then examined and found to be marked with witness' name, on the pages indicated. These books were found with the others in the possession of Boyette, and at the conclusion of the testimony he was required to enter into bond in the sum of $50.
