OUTLINES.

An ukase has been issued by the Czar appointing Governors, General for six of the most papulous districts of Russia, with perfectly despotic powers. - A riot occurred at Rostor on the 14th; the milstary had to suppress it; buildings were destroyed and policemen killed. House considered the subsidiary coins bill. Secretary Sherman announces that the Department will give every citizen an opportunity to invest in the ten-dollar refunding certificates. - For the first time the petitions deposited in a box were embodied in the minutes of House proceedings. Interesting broad sword exercises occurred in the House of Repreresentatives yesterday between Representatives Frye, of Maine, and Blackburn, of Kentucky. - Gen. John A. Dix. of New York, a distinguished Union officer during the war, but an old Democratic politician, is at the point of death. -- New York markets: Money 4@5 per cent.; cotton dull at 11 13-16@11 15-16 cents; flour dull at $4 10@6 50; wheat without decided change; corn dull at 424@444 cents; spirits turpentine easier at 31 cts; rosin dull at Louisville Courier-Journal says Gen. Dick Taylor was born near that city. Gen. Taylor says in his book that he was born in New Orleans. His remains are to be taken to his native city for interment.

Garfield, Robeson and other leading Republicans of the House say that Carlisle, of Kentucky, made the ablest argument on the Democratic side. It was without rhetorical display, and was logical and calm.

The Republicans die hard. They have had their chops stuck in the Government kettle so long they will not surrender office even when their time is up. The Richmond State's correspondent from Washington says:

"The Senate clerks, notified by Secretary Burch that their services were no longer required, informed him that they would decline to surrender. Thereupon Senator Wallace introduced a resolution depriving the Vice President of the power to control removals, and authorizing the Secretary and Sergeant-at-arms to use their

We don't think much of Tennyson's "new poem," some specimens of which we gave yesterday.—Richmond State.

We agree with you, although we regard the poet laureate as one of the greatest singers that this world has seen. Gifted Edgar Poe said he was not sure that he was not the greatest poet that God ever made. He said that over thirty years ago, and before Tennyson had done his greatest work. But that Lucknow ballad is not much, or we are no judge. The dedicatory lines to the Princess Alice are much

Senator Voorhees made a charac teristically able and eloquent speech on the Army bill. Mr. Carlisle's argu ment is thought to have been very able and unanswerable. The Dis patch's special says of it:

"I noticed that without oratory or orna mentation of speech he still commanded the undivided attention of both sides. While he seemed not giving a thought to his language, but only to his line of argument, the very word seemed always to come to him. When he referred to the Constitution to suppor his positions he had it at his finger-ei and when interrupted always got the advantage. And then when he drew upon the law, no one seemed ready to contradict his perfect accuracy. * * * The closing of his speech was elequent, and was loudly applauded.

Here is what General Bragg, of Wisconsin, said in reply to Judge

"Was North Carolina loyal? When did the gentleman from that State learn about the gentleman from that State learn about these gallent 'loyal' people of North Carolina' Serving himself in the Confederate army, I am not surprised that coming from a State where, under carpet-bag rule a Confederate Captain could leave the army to go to the Legislature, and from thence graduate a Republican Judge, without ever having been au immate of a law office, to him the rules of law and evidence adopted by the Court of Commissioners of Claims seem wise and fitting and most with favor."

his case the better part of valor. [Wash. Cor. Richmond Dispatch.]

Senator Johnson presided in the Senate to-day, and seemed perfectly at home in the chair. Governor Hampton says he rested better last night than he has for a month, and to-night looks as if Washington agreed with him. Secretary Sherman's friends, on the strength of his

— The case of Duncan Johnson, who killed John Edmundson in Geldsboro who killed John Edmundson in Geldaboro some weeks ago, mention of which was made in the Advance at the time, was heard at the present term of Wake Superior Court. After considerable argument by able counsel on both sides, the jury, after remaining out about four hours, returned a verdict of "not guilty," as we learn from the Goldsboro Messenger.

Greensboro Patriot: The Attorney General, in a letter to J. Lindley & Son, sustains the position taken by Treasurer Worth, in his interpretation of the law imposing a license tax on dealers in fruit trees. This settles the matter, and practically puts an end to the traffic in trees in this State, for no nursery man can afferd to pay $100 for every agent he sends out.

artist, but Van Orsdell needs polishing as to the exactions which the literature of advertising makes upon him. No better evidence of this truth could be cited than his use of the word "greenbacks," instead of "spondulix," when, a week ago, in the columns of the STAR, he invited all his friends to call, not with overcoats, but with greenbacks, and sit for their pictures. His gallery was thronged with respondents. and Van's heir—so luxuriant and silky—stood on end when they approached in ness made his trip impossible, and while he single file. He pointed in vain to the rules of his gallery, requiring pictures to be paid for before negatives were taken. The visitors plead in bar of this pretension his advertisement, stating that they were prepared to pay for their pictures, each tendering him the greenbacks (pieces of green paste board.) Acting, no doubt, under the principle of every dog having his day, Van photographed the crowd in group. Before dispersing the artist was informed that they were not disposed to sponge upon him; that they were willing to pay him for his labor and trouble, and he was handed a one hundred-dellar bill, which looked quite pretty, but it was a regular old "Confed." Under such pressure he could but simply smile blandly and lay it away in his vest pocket. Upon the orderly but noisy retirement of the crowd, other friends rushed in to know what was the matter, doubtless imagining that Van was celebrating his golden wedding, rejoicing over another baby, or something of the sort. A day of Superior Court for Oaslew, it being I friend, upon calling for the purpose of beholding the picture of the Greenback party, favor of pushing on the scheme will be was informed that it was spoiled by too held on that occasion at Jacksonville, and much side light, but a gentleman says he a large attendance is expected.
