Washington speculations in view of the veto will be interesting. It has been looked for latterly by all and what would be done has entered into Washington talk for days. The Richmond State's correspondent says:

"Nearly every Democrat says they will all stand firm; but one remarked that he wouldn't be surprised if a half dozen weak-kneed Democrats could be found to agree to it. That number added to the Republicans and Greenbackers would be enough to pass it. No man is willing to name a single Democrat who is likely to yield, though it has often been hinted at by the Greenbackers, and once by Kelly in debate. Probably the Democrats will hold a caucus on the veto, and as a party stand

If the Federal election laws continue in force Grant's chances will be greatly augmented. Hayes and his brother Stalwarts will attempt of course to repeat the iniquities, the rascalities and the bull-dozing of 1876. It is a matter of some interest to know how the deputy marshals were distributed in 1876. The State's Washington correspondent gives it:

"From a statement prepared by Finley, of Ohio, it appears that at the Presidential election in 1876, in twenty Democratic States 10,874 deputy marshals were appointed at a cost of $232,034.52, while in eighteen Republican States only 641 were appointed at a cost of $45,867.60.

The President has vetoed the Army bill. He has gone back on his own solemn declarations and acts. Now is the time for calm judgment and wise deliberation. Let us all keep cool. The Democrats are right in demanding that the polls shall be kept free from bayonets-that Hayes and his army shall not be at elections to decide who shall be chosen members of Congress. The Democrats thus far have gained a victory. The question which will now have to be considered is,"what next?" Shall Congress go to the utmost extreme, and refuse to vote all supplies; or shall it consider "the necessities of the public service?" Now is the time for cool heads and sound judgments. We will refer more at length to the matter to morrow.

The Concert Last Night

It is not exaggeration to say that the vocal and instrumental entertainments of Methodist Church have always been of a very acceptable character. That of last evening was, however, exceptionally good. if not impassable. We have not space, at midnight, to speak in adequate praise of the taste and beauty of the floral decorations about the stage; they were simply elegant, and, without any directory, showed that woman's skill and devotion had

It is really difficult to write of the Concert. After prayer by Rev. E. A. Yates. the musical programme of the evening was introduced with a pretty chorus, "O. Come, Let Us Sing Unto the Lord," and in this introductory selection one hundred and fifty harmonious voices blended; indeed, all the choruses were given in a style which told of skillful trainingfor these sweet singers in Israel. The duet, Beautiful Vale of Rest," by Misses Mary Shaw and Bella Bowden; "Love One Another," solo, by Miss Kennie King, with full chorus; "Singing from the Heart," solo, by Miss Sallie Yates; "Wandering Child Come Home," Misses Carrie Bowden and Alice Garrell, and Messrs. Hodges and Jatkins, and other pieces in the first part of the programme, were given with such spirit, perfection of barmony and adaptation and modulation of voices to sentiment, as reminded us of the palmy days when Southard, and Mason, and other notables in sacred song, assembled the singers of Washington City in similar enterprises. The finish was a tableau, "Rock of Ages," with chosus, and it was really charming.

The second part did equal credit to the participants. But we must accord special praise to "Now I lay me down to Sleep," Alice Garrell: "Going Home," by Dally King: "Did you think to Pray," by Misses Mattie Murray and Bella Bowden, and Messrs. Wooten and Gilbert, and "No time to Pray," by Misses Alice and Mary Yarboro.

In this account we have omitted the name of Mrs. Sallie' Poisson, simply bee cause her vocal celebrity makes it only necessary for us to say that whenever she sings, whether in solo or chorus, she adds new lustre to an already enviable repu-

The musical director on this occasion. Mr. Hanson M. Bowden, and Mr. William M. Parker, Superintendent of the Front Street Sunday School, may congratulate themselves on the result. The audience was not only large and refined, but unstinted in eulogy of the affair, and, best of all, gave, in their contributions substantial tokens of the high estimate placed on the evening senjoyment.

It is enough to say that the concert was a real success. Voices far from being so musical, of much less compass, and certainly inferior in skill of management, have often won plaudits in crowded concert rooms, at regular places of popular resort,

Heavy Rain at Fayetteville, Mill Dame

Broken, &c. Considerable damage was done at Fayetteville, on Monday, by a heavy rain storm, which commenced about midnight Sunday and poured in torrents continuously during Monday, damaging numerous mills situated in that vicinity. The first serious result from the storm was the breaking of the dam of Mim's mill pond, situated on Blount's Creek. The water rushed through the break into the creek and into Mallett's mill pond, owned by Messrs. McKethan & Son, carrying away the bridge over the pond leading to the Fair grounds. Fortunately, however, the excess of water was let out over a floating dam and no damage resulted to the mills. Farther down the creek the railroad bridge was washed away, and also the Halfway bridge between Fayetteville and the river. Probably the most damage was done at Hill's mills, where the dam was broken, the water undermining and washing out the earth and pillars, nearly half way under the mill house, leaving the building in a very precarious condition. The water was as high as the door steps of several houses on the banks of the creek, which is one of the streams which form the famous Cross Creek at Fayetteville. A good deal of fencing and a number of trees were washed away, and it is feared much injury has been done other mills, grist and cotton, situated near Favetteville.

The rain did not extend much below Fayetteville on the line of the river, but was very heavy as far as heard from above. From Captain Garason, of the steamer D. Murchison, to whom we are indebted for the above information, we also learn The General Order in reference to the that the river had risen ten feet when the Murchison left Fayetteville, and was still rising, though slowly. Capt. Garason left Fayetteville at 7 A.M.

and the Murchison was tied up to her wharf in this city at twenty minutes past 8 o'clock last evening.

Arrest of the Gulley Party, and His Confinement in Jail-Uncarthing the Missing Pouch, &c.

It was ascertained by Col. E. R. Brink, Postmaster in this city, a few days since that a through pouch of mail for Jacksonville, Florida, made up by the Washingthe Sunday School of the Front Street ton and Petersburg Postal Clerks, was missing, and two days ago it came to Col. Brink's knowledge that a colored train hand, on the road between this city and Charleston, by the name of George Davis, had taken a pouch of mail frem the coach in which it had been deposited, and secreted it in an ice box in another car, all of which Davis, as a trusted employe, had access to at his pleasure. It was further discovered that after reaching Charleston he had watched his opportunity and rifled the pouch of its contents, after which he took it from the car and buried it about one hundred yards distant in a swamp.

This information having established the guilt of Davis to the satisfaction of Col Brink, he proceeded with an officer to the depot, Monday morning, about 11 o'cleck, and had one of the railroad officials to send for the accused, who lives in the neighborhood of Seventh and Red Cross streets, in this city, with the understanding that he had some private business with him. He soon after arrived at the office, where he was confronted by Col. Brink, who informed him that he was just the man he wanted to see, and at his direction the officer immediately clapped the bracelets upon his wrists and took him down to the county jail, where he was locked up.

On Mondsy night Col. Brink dispatched an officer to Charleston, to look after the missing pouch and its contents. He was accompanied by a colored man, by the name of Parson Godbolt, who was on the train at the time the robbery was committed, and who said he saw Davis when he cut the pouch open, and knew where it was buried. Col. Brink requested the officer to let him know as soon he had recovered the pouch, yesterday morning he received a telegram to the effect that the missing pouch was in his possession. The officer and his companion are expected to arrive here on this morning's to the Dead Letter Office. train, and during the day probably a preliminary examination will be had in the case of the alleged mail robber.

Davis is represented to be a stout wellbuilt man, probably weighing about one hundred and eighty pounds, a tolerably bright mulatto, and aged about twenty-five

We learn that it has been ascertained that there were a large number of letters in the pouch, but still Col. Brink says he has received no complaint in regard to the

Col. Brink has been very successful in ferreting out those who have been guilty of depredating upon the mails since his connection with the Wilmington office, as the Department would probably be willing to testify. In fact, the Government detectives or special agents are nowhere in comparison with him in this respect.

It should be stated that the mail pouch uestion was not in the charge of a mail agent, but was passing through on the night train in charge of a conductor at the time it was stolen.

P. S.-The pouch and mail matter alluded to above have been recovered, the officer dispatched having reached here last evening with them in his possession.

Fire in Pender. On Sunday afternoon last, on Moore's Creek, in Pender county, a two-story dwelling house, the property of Mr. Archie Taylor, but at the time occupied by Mr. Judd Hollingsworth, was entirely destroyed by fire. It seems that a servant started to enter the kitchen, which was connected with the house by a covered passage, when, upon epening the door, the room was found to be full of smoke, and further investigation showed that the flames had attained such headway that it would be a matter of impossibility to save the building. A vigerous attempt was then made to save the furniture, but only with partial success, the fire having spread with such rapidity that the larger portion of it had to be abandoned to the ravages of the devouring ele-

Mr. Taylor, the owner of the property, is Coroner of the county, and resides at Burgaw. He estimates his loss to be in the neighborhood of $1,500, upon which there was no insurance. The extent of Mr. Holingsworth's loss is not known.

The fire was entirely accidental.
