Representative Martin, of the First District, voted for the new bill (Ladd). No other Republican voted for it.

Judge Ray, of Memphis, on the 3d inst, decided that Memphis has not ceased to be an incorporated city. An appeal was taken.

Not a Republican member of Congress attended the meeting held in Washington for the relief of the beguiled and destitute negroes now in Richmond, Va., is now entertaining some 250 North Carolinians, the most of them merchants. We see the press is represented as usual Virginia merchants know how to seek trade from the regions beyond.

That great American horse, Parole, is again victorious. He is as ugly as sin, but then he has beaten England in four races out of five, and could have beaten the fifth if Lorillard had so chosen. This is clear, from the fact that he beat yesterday the horse that won the day before. Three times several for the Leamington and Lexington horse! Lorillard's Pa-role is increasing.

A student at the University of Virginia, A. W. Crawford, of Louisville, Ky, bas mysteriously disappeared, and fears are felt that he has been foully dealt with. A general search has been made but without result. A Dispatch special says:

"He was a young man of exemplary character, and all ideas in regard to hoax or a design to deceive are thrown aside at once, He left his room as if to take a walk for recreation. He left his best clothing, his watch, his books open, and his lamp burn-ing, as if to be absent but a few minutes.'

My Lord Roscoe fired some hot shot at the Democrats in the discussion on the Kellogg-Spofford case, and he was insolent and supercilious as usual. The Richmond Dispatch's special from Washington reports:

"Mr. Conkling was the next speaker, and the was acrimonious and sarcastic, accusing the other side with bringing up this question in order to unseat Kellogg and preserve their supremacy in the Senate after 1881. Mr. Thurman made an able reply to Lord Roscoe, in which he retorted that Kellegg was seated by the Republicans to preserve their majority. There was a good deal of fire in his speech, and unbounded attention was given him."

Some of the negroes who were in-veigled from their homes to snowbound Kansas have become disgusted with the nonsense and are on their way back to the "Sunny South," as will be seen from the following special to the Washington Post:

"Sr. Louis, Mo., May 6.—Forty-eight negroes left here for the South to-day on the steamer James A. Howard. They half from Kansas, having gone there several weeks ago. They looked wretched and miserable, and declared with one voice that there never was a greater mistake than their journey northward. They say it is impossible for the negro to do otherwise than starve in Kansas, and that is the South, at any rate, they at all times had South, at any rate, they at all times had plenty to gat and wear."

cidedly encouraging. The Democrats will accomplish their purpose by the wise and conservative course they are now pursuing. The Washington special to the Richmond Dispatch of the 7th says:

"The leading Republicans to-night say Mr. Hayes will sign the army bill, and it is now reported that he was very reluctant to veto the army bill. Schurz and Evarts were against a veto, but Sherman, Devens and McCreary buildozed him into follow-ing the advice of Garfield & Co. Mr. Evarts to-night thinks the Presi dent will sign the Ladd bill if nothing developed in the Senate to change his mind. Members of the Cabinet want a discussion on the bill in the Senate, and were disappointed that the Republicans did not debate it in the House. They criticise pointedly the preamble to Robeson's substitute, which was written by Ed-munds." The State's special of the same date is to the same effect. The Baltimore American's special (Republican authority), says it is the general impression among Republicans that Hayes will sign the measure, The Washington Post of the 7th says that Hayes, in a private conversation, "announced his determination to sign the independent army repeal bill, as passed by the House, as soon as it should be presented to him. To use his expression, 'he was the President of the whole country, not of the Republican party, and there was no good reason why the measure, in its present shape, should not receive his immediate approval. Important Admiralty Decision. Judge Brooks, at the May term, 1879, of the United States District Court, in the two cases of the British barques Summer Cloud and Susie, which were libels filed by seamen for the recovery of wages, originally commenced before U.S. Commissioner Cantwell, his Honor Judge Brooks made the following decree:

The British Barque Susie. man's Wages At Wilmington, this 6th day of May, 1879, Alexander Sprunt, Esq., Her Britannic Majesty's Vice Consul, resident at the port of Wilmington, having appeared in this Court and interposed his protest and request that this Court would not proceed with this cause; and it appearing to the Court that the said barque Busic is a duly registered British ship, and it not appearing from the proceedings before the Com-missioner, to the satisfaction of this Court, that the said Vice Consul had declined or refused to adjust and settle the claims of the libellant against the said barque Susis, or to grant him relief of his alleged griev-ances; and the Court being of opinion that the said Vice Censul had jurisdiction and authority to settle and adjust the claims of the libellant, and that no sufficient cause is shown why this Court should proceed with shown why this Court should proceed with this cause: Now, on motion of M. London, Esq., counsel for Alexander Sprunt, Esq., Consul as aforesaid, and after hearing John D. Bellamy, Esq., Proctor for the libellant, It is considered by the Court, and ordered, adjudged and decreed, that the said libel

From this decision it appears that in al matters of dispute between seamen shipped on board British vessels and the masters of such vessels, the Consular Agent of her Britannic Majesty, at this port must be called upon to adjust all differences between British scamen and British masters.

The Bire Cisterns. A "City Subscriber" writes: "Some o our tax-payers and real estate owners think the new cisterns, which are in course of erection by the city, might have been placed in other localities where they were more needed, and where they would be consequently more useful. It is claimed that the cisterns and hose at the "Little Giant" engine house could supply water much farther than Bloom's corner, at which one of the new cisterns has bee erected, and that water could be furnished at the corner of Third and Mulberry streets from not only the river, which is only about three blocks off, but also from the cistern on the next block, or Munson's consequence of the heavy sand in the streets, houses are liable to be consumed before the arrival of the fire companies."

The Telephone in Wilmington-The The special committee on Telephones, of which Mayor Fishblate is Chairman, to whom was referred the matter with power to act, at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, on Monday night last, have closed a contract for furnishing the requisite telephones for our fire department, police,&e., with the Bell Telephone Company, of Richmond, Vs., which is said to supply the best justruments now in use. As an indication of their popularity it may be - Mrs. H. A. Glameyer has comstated that there are now upwards of one menced the erection of a handsome resihundred and fifty of these telephones in use in Chicago, over one hundred in Richmond, quite a number in Washington City, and in other cities throughout the United States. Philadelphia has recently adopted them in place of others, and the authorities state that they prefer them to the telegraph alarms, bedge a regal For the comparatively small sum of $750

> the Bell Company furnish Telephones for ten stations, including poles, wires, bells, and, in fact, everything complete, the company to give bond to keep them in good repair. The use of the Telephone will no doubt prove a good investment. They will almost pay for themselves in the amount of saving in wear and tear to engines, hose reels, horses, &c., in doing away with the frequent calling out of the fire department in cases of false alarms, and in other instances where the services of engines, hook and ladder trucks, &c., are unnecessary, to say nothing of the great saving of property which will likely ensue from the promptness of the alarm. Immediately upon the breaking out of a fire the fact will be announced from the nearest station to the Central office, which will be at the City Hall, including a statement as to its magnitude. Then if the burning building is in a locality where not much damage is anticipated only the nearest engine will be instantly notified and ordered to proceed: or if it be a large fire, al the engines will be notified and ordered to the spot. At the same time that announcement of the fire is also communicated to all the stations, and thus the knowledge of the conflagration and its exact location becomes generally known throughout the city. In the case of a burning chimney the nearest engine will be notified and ordered to fire up and be in readiness should its services be needed. Keys to the various stations will be distributed among the firemen, police, and city officials generally, and also be left at one or more stores or other places of resort in the vicinity of the various stations. The fire alarm will of course be sounded in all cases when necessary.

> We should have stated in the proper place that the fire companies will all be numbered, and in case only one company is needed at a fire the bells will be tapped in a manner to indicate that only that particular one is required, thus saving the members of the other companies the trouble of going to a fire when there is actually no necessity for their doing so.

A Tramp Locked Up. There is a tender solicitude in this city, especially among police officials, for wearyfooted strangers, and therefore a white tramp, who claimed the name of Purcell, was taken under the wing of a knight of the club, last evening, and lodged in the guard house, under lock and key, that perforce he might rest from pedestrianism. This is the humane side of the phote, but we burely suspect that the charge that Purcell has been traversing the city and buying best, and employers, and those in authosmall articles "on tick," had something to do with his incarceration. He represented that he was in the employ of Mr. T. A. Watson, the butcher, and otherwise proved himself a fraud. His last act before he was led to quarters was to call for liquor in a shop and refuse to pay for it. The final "tick" he obtained, things being thusly, was that of the lock when he was turned in a cell to confront the Mayor this morning. Dentes It. J. P. Sampson publishes a note in the Charlotte Observer, denying all and singular the charges preferred against him by the barber, Thomas Jefferson, of conniving against the latter's demestic happiness. His statement has the ring of truth about it, and he declares that the whole story of the Knight of the Razor is a fable.

As we copied the paragraph alleging his offence, we give him the benefit of the denial, with the simple remark that his character here was so far above reproach as to create surprise with us that he should have been charged with falling into such iniquiander the circumstances. Journal and
