Everything the Republicans in 'Congress do but shows their hostility to the people. They are now delaying business by the old trick of filibustering. They are trying to prevent a vote on the bill to prevent the removal of cases from State to Federal courts. They do not wish in any way to afford relief or protection to the people.

OPERA HOUSE.

The Complimentary Concert to Mrs. Kahnweiler. The concert complimentary to Mrs. D. Kahnweiler, at the Opera House last evening, was beyond question one of the best of the many amateur concerts that have been given in Wilmington recently. Under the skilled and experienced direction of Prof. C. Van Laer, the pieces on the programme followed each other in smooth from the large audience in attendance a unanimous expression of approval of the affair as a whole. The Cornet Concert Club opened the entertainment with a spirited and skilfully rendered selection entitled "Autumn Leaves," and was followed by a decidedly creditable rendition of the overture "Oberon," by the Misses Atkinson and Mr. Re-

and rapid succession, and the finale elicited

We have never listened to a professional quartette with anything approaching the pleasure given us by the singing of Messrs. Hargrave, Mitchell, Welch and Manning last evening. It is unquestionably the best quartette we have ever heard and Mr. Edwin Thorpe, their accompanist and director, is entitled to a large share of praise for their deserved success.

Of Mrs. Kahnweiler, Mr. Nathan Mayer, and Mr. George Welsh, it is hardly necessary for us to speak. Mrs. Kahnweiler sang a solo, "Polonaise," from "Mignon." and the solo, "Carnival of Venice," as only Mrs. Kahnweiler could have sung them, and was loudly cored, as was also Mr. Nathan Mayer on his rendition of a tenor solo, entitled "Trusting," by Millard. Mr. Mayer responded with "Good-bye, Sweetheart," in charming style.

Mr. Welsh sang a comic baritone solo, and was thrice encored and enthusiastically received on each appearance. This gentleman is a singing comedian of ability.

and never fails to please an audience. The orchestral music of the concert was exceptionally pleasing, the selection from the opera of "Don Pasquale," the execution of "La Satanella," and the lovely Strauss Waltz being given in a manner which could have hardly been excelled anywhere. The difficult instrumental trio, "Trovatore," performed by the Misses Atkinson and Mr. Reman, was loudly applauded and deservedly for the artistic manner of its execution.

The solo, "The Diver," by Mr. Jas. H Chadbourn, Jr., was, in our opinion, one of the best pieces of the programme. We heartily congratulate the gentleman on his effort, and trust that he will let us hear him more frequently in the future.

Mrs. M. P. Taylor played the accompaniment for Mrs. Kahnweiler and others of the performers, who would consent to have no one else-a fact attesting in itself the lady's ability and proficiency.

The Concert was concluded at a late hour, and the audience dispersed, charmed with the pleasure they had been given by Homenway Public School-Exercise Yesterday. In accordance with an invitation, a repreentative of the STAR was present at a public exhibition of this school yesterday morning. The school is under the supervision of Mrs. Flora M. Wise, as Principal, with Mrs. Laura P. Rothwell, Mrs. M. O. Wallace, Miss Alice Philyaw and Miss Mary Duguid, as Assistants. The exercises commenced with an address of "welcome," by Master Wm. McCarter, followed by the song, "Sons of Freedom," by the school. Next, at a word from the Principal, the entire school gave the names of the Books of the Old and New Testaments, with the authors of the latter. This was followed by recitations by the scholars in the Second Primary Department, very small children, but who displayed remarkable proficiency for such young pupils. The "Spring Wishes," a dialogue by five young misses, was next on the programme, and was very well rendered, eliciting much praise from the large audience. The "Lesson Song," sung to the tune of "Coming thro' the Rye," by three misses and four boys, was very prettily executed, and showed the participants to be possessed of very good vecalistic powers, which are being properly cultivated. Four boys and four misses now named the "Seven wonders of the world," giving their location and description. "I Wish," a dialogue, by five little misses and two boys, made a very pleasant impression upon the audience, and was evidently enjoyed. The geographical exercises evidenced much familiarity on the part of the school with this department of study. The "Little Girl Left at Home" was very laughably rendered by Miss Bapler. "The Charge of the Light Brigade" (the noble six hundred), by five boys and three girls, elicited much praise. The "Fairy Wishes," a dialogue, was well rendered and heartily enjoyed, Miss Lena McQuigg, "Queen of the Fairies," being dressed en costume, with wings. A very amusing feature of the exhibition was the rendition of "The Young Mothers," in character, by the little Misses L. Bissinger and Annie Clowe. The School sung "Make Your Mark," and the exercises then closed with the chanting of

A Clever Trap Laid for the Thieves Their Capture and Confinement in Jaji-The Cases Before the Mayor, Andrew J. Hogans and Peter Hogans. both colored, were arrested early yesterday morning, on the charge of larceny.

It seems that the Messrs. Cobb. of the Purcell House, have for seme time past entertained a suspicion that their money drawer had been tampered with. On Tuesday night last, therefore, Mr. Howell Cobb determined that he would remain up of the opportunity by indulging in a very through the night, and endeavor to detect the thief. For this purpose he concealed himself in a closet, in close proximity to the entrance to the dining room, and where he could have a view through an intervening window of any person who might attempt to rob the money drawer. To amuse himself while in this position, or to help pass away the time, he smoked two or three cigars, which, the room being rather close and very warm, had the effect to make him feel badly, and he had to abandon the undertaking and go to bed. On Wednesday night he watched again, but neither saw or heard anything to arouse his suspicions. He repeated the experiment Thursday night, and, as it happened, with success. It has been the habit of the Messrs. Cobb to leave Andrew Hogan in charge of the office. On this particular night, in order to perfect his plan, Mr. Howel Cobb sent Andrew with a message to No. 58, in a remote part of the house, and during his absence he and a friend, who was to watch with him, concealed themselves. Pretty soon Andrew and Peter Hogan made their appearance, and from their hiding place in the closet, which had a glass front, Mr. Cobb and his friend could watch all their movements. Several articles of chamber furniture, wrapped in paper, including a piece of Brussells carpet, were brought out into the bar and placed in a convenient place for removal. One of them also went into the dining room, and thence into the carving room, it is supposed with view of providing himself with such articles as might not be missed. While the one was in the dining room and the other in another part of the building, Mr. Cobb left his hiding place and proceeded to the front door, where he called a passing policeman, and also blew his whistle for others; one (Officer Everett) entered, while two others watched outside to prevent an escape. Peter Hogan was found behind a door in the carving room, while Andrew Hogan was taken near front door, where he had rushed, apparently very much excited, when Mr. Cobb blew his whistle. Andrew admitted when arrested that he stole one dollar from the drawer that night, and returned it to the junior member of the firm; but it was discovered, upon examination, that two dollars had been stolen. The articles that had been taken from the 100ms were found in the places where they had been temporarily deposited. The two brothers were taken to county jail, and placed in confinement, the guard house being in process of repair.

At an early hour yesterday morning the Messrs. Cobb had a search warrant issued by Justice Hall, and two police officers were deputized to execute it, but nothing additional was elicited. The two Hogans were arraigned before the Mayor yesterday morning, the evidence being substantially as the above. Among the effects found upon the person of Andrew Hogan was $35 in money, which included a five dollar bill that bere a private mark placed upon it by Mr. Howell Cobb, and which he identified as one stolen from the hotel drawer Tuesday night. Upon being asked if they had anything to say for themselves. Peter stated that his brother asked him to come to the hotel Thursday night; that he was hungry, and went into the dining room to get something to eat, and that was why he was found in that part of the building. The Messrs. Cobb stated that Peter had been discharged from their employment about six months ago on the suspicion that he was a thief.

Andrew made a statement to the effect that he had found the drawer open and taken money out, but had never used any means to force it open.

The Hogans were ordered to enter into a justified bond in the sum of $100 each for their appearance at the approaching term of the Criminal Court, in default of which they were remanded to jail.

Andrew Hogan was classed among the "high-toned" of the colored population, was treasurer of a society, and was to have figured as groom in a "marriage in high life" which was to have come off within a
