WILMINGTON, N. C .: SATURDAY MORNING, May 24, 1879 SOME POINTS IN NORTH CARO-

The Columbia (S. C.) Register, of the 20th, has a two column editorial on "North Carolina's Independence Day." The whole article is good reading, and shows that the editor has not only examined into the history of North Carolina in those troublous, revolutionary times, but is generous and candid enough to say cordial and appreciative things of our patriotic and heroic forefathers We reproduce here three paragraphs of importance in connection with the Colonial history of North Carolina. The Register says:

"In 1773 Speaker Harvey, of the North Carolina House of Commons, laid before that body the addresses of several of the colonies asking the concurrence of North Carolina in the appointment of a colonial commission to inquire into the wrongs and injuries inflicted on the colonies by the royal government. This was the first act of the revolutionary drama.

"In August, 1774, the Provincial Congress met at Newberne, despite the proclamations of royal authority forbidding the same. The body, composed of forty-one members, representing twenty-nine counties and five towns, chose John Harvey Speaker, and amongst other measures of moment adopted a resolution approving a general Congress of the Colonies in Philadelphia in September following, and the appointment of delegates with instructions to resist all aggressions on the rights of the

"In February, 1775, Speaker Harvey summoned the Assembly to meet at Newbern, on the 4th day of the following April, and also issued a notice to the people of the several counties and towns to send delegates to a convention to meet at the same time and place. Notwithstanding the denunciation of the Provincial Governor, Martin, the two bodies met as called. They pledged their firm adherence to the action of the Continental Congress held in Philadelphia the September previous. The Assembly was dissolved by the proclamation of the Governor, but reassembled again at the same place."

You may examine the histories of the United States and you will find that North Carolina gets but little, if any credit, for being a leader in the various movements that culminated in the war of Independence.

The Register refers in handsome terms to the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, and gives the names of the signers. It then says:

"This then, is the Runnymede of North Carolina, and here the names of twentyeight freemen whose pledges to the cause of liberty shall go down to their remotest posterity along with the privileges of Magna Charta. These were the mea who recorded themselves in behalf of 'FREEDOM OF CON-SCIENCE AND SECURITY FROM TAXATION

WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED. "Here are the first footprints of American liberty stamped, indelibly stamped, in the history of American freemen. He who tears out this leaf from our great book of liberty consigns us all to a political slavery, against which the men of Mecklenburg pledged their posterity for all coming time, and who to-day renew the pledges of their

We wish to supplement this with one statement that is historically true. North Carolina was not only the first Colony to declare its own independence of the British Crown, but it was the first Colony to instruct her delegates in the General Congress to declare the independence of the Colonies of the British Crown. This was done on April 12th, 1776, at Halifax, where the Colonial Congress was in modest. Whilst other States have constantly asserted their claims and gloried in the deeds of their men of the past, our people have been dumb. As we said a year or so ago, when referring to this topic, it is fall time that our home press and public speakers were urging our claims boldly and unmistakably.

We will reproduce a few important points we made in a former article. Omitting the first four we then mentioned, in which North Carolina was first, we give the following:

The first tractate or paper ever published in America in resistance to tyranny and oppression was written in Granville county, and was published in 1765, and is mentioned and quoted from by Herman Husband.

The first blood shed on the American Continent in resistance to British tyranny, was at the battle of Ala mance, on May 16, 1771, between two thousand Regulators, about half of whom were armed, and eleven hundred troops under Tryon, "the Wolf of North Carolina," the then Royal

The first men who were hanged for taking up arms in defence of their rights and liberties, was at Hillsboro. Orange county, in the year 1771probably in the month of June.

The first opposition offered by an organized assembly to the tax on tea and the unjust rule of Great Britain was made by the First Provincial Congress, neld at Newbern, on August 25th, 1774.

We have mentioned before-four days ago-how the Mecklenburg patriots were first in declaring independence and setting up a new government. We also mentioned the other day that the first open resistance to authority to enforce the stamp act occurred in this city under Colonels Waddell and Ashe. We have mentioned above that North Carolina was the first to instruct her delegates in the General Congress to declare the independence of the colonies.

There is yet another important fact in which North Carolina was first. The first important victory gained by American troops over the British was at Moore's Creek Bridge, in the county of Pender, on February 27th, 1776 over four months before the National Declaration of Independence was made. It was a battle in which between two and three thousand soldiers were engaged. The North Carolina troops were under Colonels Caswell (afterwards Governor) and Lil-

We will only add that official re cords show that according to popu lation North Carolina was first in the number of troops she furnished in the war between the States. She sent into service 121,000 effective troops, besides nearly 4,000 on other duty. Her largest vote (white) before the war was 112,500. These figures are perfectly reliable and speak for themselves. Such Generals (natives of other States) as D. H Hill, A. P. Hill, Hampton, Hood, Cooke, Lane, and others have borne willing and hearty testimony to their fine soldierly qualities.

We shall avail ourselves of other points in the Register for reproduction in our columns and possibly for EUROPEAN DISTURBANCES.

There is a great deal of apprehension felt throughout Europe as to the outcome of the present seriously disturbed condition of society. The crowned heads are looking to each other for sympathy and, if need be, for assistance. Nihilism, or by whatever name the revolutionists may be called, is becoming a giant spectre that disturbs the slumbers of royalty, and gives additional force to the old saw—"Uneasy lies the head that bine, as they have in the last election. The wears a crown." Nearly every country of the Continent is more or less agitated over the condition of affairs. The most repressive and violent measures have been re sorted to in Russia to crush the hydra-headed monster that so ominously threatens the Emperor and his government. A fearful state of affairs exists throughout that vast despotism. The struggle between an oppressed people and arbitrary power has probably just begun. Just here let us mention what we met with in a recent British periodical. It was stated that when the Czar was lately fired at he was perfectly unmanned, and cried lustily for help. One of his brave protectors was wounded, but he slunk away. This is given as the certain version of the affair. He wears a coat-of-mail constantly now.

CUBLISHER'S ANNOUNCEMENT: | mistake. North Carolins led the liberty. In France, whilst the Reother Colonies in this movetitefit as public appears to have stability and she did in others. North Carolina strength, there is a vigorous minority has never had justice done her constantly antagonizing, and is ready because she has been rather too to press the claims of monarchy at any time. The Berlin treaty has been disappointing to all concerned. Turkey and the States adjoining recently at war are of course still suffering from the losses and demoralization consequent upon a long protracted and sanguinary struggle. England has had her troubles too. Two wars have occupied her armies and depleted her treasury, whilst great trade depression and wide-spread suffering among the laboring classes have taxed the resources of charity and given great uneasiness and care to the Ministry of the Kingdom. The general European outlook is not very encouraging.

The English press is much occupied in discussing the speech and sub sequent action of Sir Robert Peel who makes stinging speeches and is an antagonist not to be despised. In a speech on the Zulu question he said Lord Chelmsford ought not to be retained in command, and would not be but for the favoritism of the Duke of Cambridge (one of the Queen's sons). He also took a tilt at George IV. and was not complimentary. This is said to have offended Royalty, and it was given out in one of the court papers that the Queen and the Royal Family had resolved "never to take any notice of Sir Robert in the future." This reached the irate gentleman, whereupon he sent a ringing letter to the said publication. The last paragraph reads as follows:

"Go and tell your master that I am not the sort of man to be smothered by Imperial menaces, and, unless I receive the most ample satisfaction from the Royal sources which have made you their most impudent mouthpiece, I shall send a copy of your statement, together with a copy of my reply, to the Prince of Wales and to the Duke of Cambridge. And, as you have published and circulated such a declaration of the intentions of the Royal Family, with respect to my remarks in the House of Commons, I shall also avail myself of a fitting opportunity to publish and to placard in London and the provinces, under the the Royal Family,' both your official notification of the Royal message and my contemptuous acknowledgment."

Senators Garland and Harris are greatly lisappointed at the failure of the yellow fever bill, and we are confident that all right thinking people in the South will share their disappointment.—Little Rock

And "all right-thinking people in the South" should understand that the bill failed because so many Southern members of the Senate refused to vote for this measure of protection to the South .- Memphis

We copy the above because two States are represented in the complaint made. Both Tennessee and Arkansas suffered from the yellow fever epidemic of last year, and they may well be disappointed in the action of Congress to give relief to the South as far as it can. Recent debates show that Conkling is leading the opposition whilst Edmunds will probably join him in efforts to defeat the new health bill. On Thursday in the Senate Mr. Harris stated that the present bill looked to the maintenance of existing State health laws, where they are efficient, and to the co-operation therewith of the National Board, as far as possible. He asks for $500,000. Senator Eaton thought $250,000 was enough, but his amendment was defeated.

We have not read the new Constitution of California, and do not know specially why it should excite so much alarm. It has been asserted, time and again, that it contained many dangerous, levelling features, and that it was a triumph of Kearneyism, and that it would bring Communism to the front. The New York Evening Post publishes a private letter from a gentleman of California, in which he says:

"The result of our election, accepting the new Constitution, so far from being a victory for Kearney and Communism, was defeat of both, because they failed to carry this city. Our citizens can now have State and the new Constitution were carried by the Grangers. The Grange and all its ramifications are purely an American estitution. Witness the fact that the new Constitution permits local option. This brought out the whole influence of the whiskey and beer sellers, to join the capitalists and business men against it. This Grange movement everywhere, as I understand it, was born of the railroad, and its root is purely a question of transportation.

CURRENT COMMENT.

that Mr. Devens has furnished Mr. Hayes with his objections to the "riders" on the Legislative Appropria-tion bill, and that Mr. Hayes will use the document thus provided as his veto message. There is a cool, exasperating insolence in such an announcement that tests toleration to the last degree. This man Devens. who has prostituted his misnamed "Department of Justice" to the lowest partisan uses, who has degraded his official position and the machinery of his office by making them a mere appendage to Gorman's committee; this man, who has abused his trust ginia was the first. This is clearly a In Prussia the press has not much by appointing hordes of "strikers" to do the dirty work of dirtier political scavengers -all under the sacred name of Justice-this man now coms up in colossal insolence as the author of a document objecting to the acts of the people's Congress, which would be an insult if it bore the name of the best man who has ever filled the Presidential chair. Coming from Messrs. Devens and Hayes, it is an outrage on public rights and official decency. - Wash. Post, Dem.

- The "Confederate Brigadiers" in Congress are the real conservatives of that body, as every test continues to show. In both speech and action they bear and forhear, and if there is a backdown on the part of the Democrats it will be due to their moderation. Mr. Hayes owes his position and power almost entirely to one or two Northern candidates for the Presidency, and the "Confederate Brigadiers," who are being so malignantly abused by the Republican press in the country, and by the Republican leaders in Congress. -Omaha Herald.

But we fear the principle of rebuke has been harshly administered, and that of economy too rigidly enforced, since it appeared that no abuse of resources had been found to exist, and that the application of the appropriations was no more than sound judgment demanded. The rate, per capita, in the N. C. Institution for the Insane, is found to be less than in similar Institu-tions; for while the average of thirty-nine others was $288 28, that at Raleigh was $228 02 .-- Hillsboro Recorder.

We do not consider that very momentous results depend upon the next step taken by the Democratic party. It has the advantage, in the attitude which the two parties occupy before the country, and whether they adjourn at once and leave Mr Hayes to provide for his government as best he can, or whether they grant the supplies and then go home, the moral sense of the country will support them in the principles which they have espoused and will con-demn the Republican party for the stand which it has taken against free elections.-Charlotte Observer.

Plaintiffs. Against
Alexander Falconer, William A. Falconer, Susan
L. McPherson, Administratrix of James B. McPherson, deceased, Augusta L. McPherson, Margaret L. McPherson, Sophia McPherson,
Rliza G. McPherson and Rosa Ashe McPherson,

This action is brought to foreclose a deed of mertgage on certain Real Estate situate in the city of Wilmington, county and State above mentioned, executed by the defendants, Alexander Falconer and William A. Falconer, to James B. McPherson, on the 16th day of August, 1872, for the purpose of securing the payment of two Promissory Notes, for eleven hundred and fifty-three and 60-100 ($1153.60) dollars each, made on said day, by the said Alexander Falconer and William A Falconer, psyable to the order of James B. McPherson in one and two years after date, respectively, with interest from date at eight (8) per cent. per annum; one of said notes being now held by the said The Bank of New Hanover, and the other by the said Luhr Vollers. And the defendants, Alexander Falconer and William A. Falconer, are hereby notified and required to appear at the next Term of the Superior Court of the said County of New Hanover, to be held at the Court House in Wilmingtes, on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in March, A. D. 1879, and answer or demur to the complaint filed in this action.

Given under my hand and official seal, this 19th day of April, 1879.

S. VAN AMRINGE, Clerk Superior Court
