The debate in Congress was extremely spirited, not to put it stronger in the long night session. First Blaine took a furious tilt at the South. He struck right and left, and gave James's "Southern Oratory" book a terrible rasping. He read from various contributors to show how pernicious it was. The State's correspondent says:

"Vance got the floor, and in a few words showed how utterly unfair and puerile were such attempts to malign the South. He said it would be no more just to hold the whole South responsible for any bad book gotten up by individual enterprise to make money, than it would be to denounce the North for the mass of bad books and ob-scene literature published in that section. This book he had never seen, but he had no doubt that it was a good book because his own production was among the selec-

"Later on in the running debate Blaine got the laugh on Vance by reading an iso-lated paragraph from Vance's contribution to the book, that sounded like a high-sounding jumble of big words."

Afterwards Voorhees went for Blaine with ungloved hands. Blaine read from the book about the Iadianians running at Buena Vista, a fact, we believe, very well authenticated. The State says:

"Voorhees afterwards made a brilliant speech in reply, in which he scored Blaine unmercifully. He said he was among men unmercifully. He said he was among men as the scavenger bird among birds, and as the hyena among beasts, digging up and preying upon the rotten and buried things of the past, &c. He elequently defended Indiana volunteers, and declared that all New England did not send to Mexico one housand volunteer troops.

But the exciting time was when Conkling and Lamar "locked horns." Conkling made one of his fiercest and most malignant attacks upon Democrats and the South. The State

"He charged them with presenting a bill to throttle the President in the exercise of his lawful authority and duty to protect the purity of the ballot-box from red shirts, rifle clubs, night riders, 'and other demons with which the South abounds;' that the Democratic majority brought in a bill that was but a contemptible trick, a jingle of words, and attempted to force it through rough-shod over the minority. * * *
Walking across the aisle and shaking his fists towards the Democrats, he declared that he meant to teach the proud and domineering majority that while he held a seat in the Senate they should not run rough, shod over the minority. He declared that they attempted to suffe debate, and not only did it insultingly, but had acted in bad faith; that he had consented to allow Lamar's Levee bill to be finished before taking up the Army bill, with the under-denied he had entered into any agreement. We copy the State's graphic

"Then, as if by a sudden impulse, he turned toward Conkling, who was pacing the floor in rear of the desks, and said: 'I return to him the charge of bad faith as a falsehood with all the contempt I have for the author with all the contempt I have for the author of it.' Every ear was pricked, and as if by imagic the last sentence, pronounced in ringing tones, brought to his feet every sleepy lounger on the floor and in the galleries; and at ominous quietude settled upon the Senate-chamber as Conkling walked down the aisle, and stood, white with rage, leaning with his right hand with the is level-headed. This is universal. The seasons have been all we could wish. — Oh, Congress, dear Congress, come home. — Bishop Atkinson and wife have left for Europe on a health-seeking trip. We trust the life and services of this great and good man long may be spared to his people. — A disgrace—Tarboreans eating Richmond meal, Edgecombe horses munching Northern hay, and our farmers buying seed oats. But then, you know, "Cotton is king."

- New Bern Democrat: Quite a large delegation of the Knights of Honor assembled here on Wednesday from all parts of the State. They were in convention on Tuesday, and seemed to be in high good humor, and enjoying themselves generally. — The steamer Pamlico, Old Dominion Line, sailed on Wednesday. She was laden in part with 100 barrels potatoes, 100 crates beans, 100 barrels naval stores, cotton yarn, cotton batting, tobacco, fish sounds and other merchandise. — We learn that a whole fleet of sharpies will be here from Beaufort to take part in the re-gatta which comes off on the 4th of July.

- Goldsboro Mail: A Tuckahoe, Jones county, subscriber writes: Crops are looking well in this neighborhood—a good stand of corn and cotton. —Mr. John G. Barnes, a highly respected citizen of this county, died at his home near Fremont, on the 14th inst. He arose on that morning in his usual health, and was taken ill while feeding his hogs, and died before noon. —A colored man, stricken with the exodus mania, passed our door on yes-terday, freighted with his wardrobe done up in a sack, and informed us that he was off for Kansas. —Mr. Enos Rose, of Nash, died at his home last week, aged about 55 years.

- Raleigh News: The Pittsboro Record gives an account of the recent escape of prisoners at Bear Creek, which is substantially the same as published in the News, and gives the list of killed and wounded. The killed are, Charles Turner, of Moore, Beery Smith, of Edgecombe, Ambrose Grump, of Chatham; and Sam Avery, of Wake, was wounded so severely that he has since died making four fall that he has since died, making four (all negroes) killed, and one white man (John Barfield) badly wounded. One of the two escaped was recaptured in Moore county though that nothing serious will result from the "war of words."

and brought back on the 13th, and the other (a negro named Sam Nun) was arrested in this city on Monday afternoon.

- Charlotte Observer : It is re ported that next week tri-weekly day trains will be run on the Western North Carolina Railroad in addition to the night trains. The day trains will do the freight business of the road and carry passengers as well The appearance of the deceptive cucumber calls to mind the recipe of a Charlotte physician: Cut them in thin slices, allow to stand at least twenty-four hours, and then—give them to the pigs. —The coroner's jury in the case of Dan McCall, the man run over by the passenger train, day before yesterday morning, near King's Mountain, gave a verdict that he was killed by the train. So far as heard they do not charge the railroad with any fault. The Southern Express Company will commence buriness on the Spartanburg & Asheville Railroad next week.

- Greensboro Patriot: A little child of Dr. Cheek was run over by a runaway horse last Monday, while playing on the sidewalk in front of W. B. Bogart's store. The little fellow was considerably stunned and bruised and was somewhat droopy during the day, but woke up bright and fresh next morning. — Two little colored boys who went fishing last Saturday did not return, and it was supposed were lost or perhaps drowned. They turned up at Winston, where they went on a juveing to the front in this county. Col. - Raleigh Observer: Mr. George Allen sends to the Agricultural Department specimens of grasses that would do credit to the Piedmont section—Guinea grass, sixty-four days old, six feet high; red clover three and a half feet high; orchard grass four and a half feet high, and oats five feet high. Yet our people buy second class hay from the North. — Mrs. G. F. Uzzle, daughter of Mr. J. M. Wilson, of Wilson's Mills, died last night. At 8 p. m. she was apparently well—was taken with a hemorrhage and died in a few minutes. — The contract for building the Wingate memorial chapel at Wake Forest College has been signed and sealed. Jacob S. Allen is the architect and builder. He will turn over the building in first class finish and style by the next commencement. —
The Treasurer sold on account of the Farmville Insurance and Banking Company, at the courthouse door yesterday, for first mortgage Western North Carolina seven per cent. bonds, at $105; cash; R. Y. McAden purchaser.

- Charlotte Democrat: The Treasury of Charlotte might be replenished with a few hundred dollars if the law against profane swearing on the streets was en-forced. — It is sad to hear of the num-ber of people in the South being ruined by dealing in the gambling scheme known as "cotton futures." We heard a business man express the opinion that at least $1,-000,000 had been lost by citizens of this State within the past four or five years by state within the past four or five years by dealing in cotton futures. — Seeing a statement that Judge McKay had in his possession the gun with which Col. Ferguon, the commander of the British forces was killed at the battle of King's Mountain in 1780, reminds us that we were told several years ago that Dr. Tracy, of Cleaveland county, had the sword which Ferguson used in commanding his troops, and also a part of the jaw bone of that officer. — Cannot some punishment other than the pretended punishment of confinement in a log hut penitentiary at Raleigh be instituted for criminals? Taxing Railroad Property.

At a general meeting of County Commissioners of counties through which the Carolina Central Railway passes, held in Charlotte on Wednesday, to take into consideration the adoption of a uniform rate of taxation of the Company's property, it was agreed, as we learn from the Observer, that the meeting could do nothing but recommend a valuation to the different Boards represented, and that the valuation could only be fixed by the Board of Equalization and the Assessors of the counties at large, which meets the first Monday in August in the several counties throughout the State. An effort was made to induce the meeting to recommend $2,500 as the rate, but they could not agree upon this, some of the Commissioners wanting $3,000. They seem to be about equally divided between these two amounts, with a preponderance in fa-

The Company was advised to present to the different Boards of Equalization the facts that had been shown to the meeting, whereupon, there being no further business, it adjourned.

Among those present, in different capacities, we notice the names of Messrs. B. G. Worth and W. H. James, Capt. D. R. Murchison, and Mai. C. M. Stedman, of this county, and Mr. D. S. Cowan, of Co-

Mayor's Court. "Lemonade Jim" Clark was arraigned on the charge of molesting and interfering with as employe of the city while in the discharge of his duty, the specific offence consisting in his lifting the net and letting a cur escape which said employe was in the act of capturing. He was ordered to be confined for thirty days in the city prison for his officiousness. Charles Murphy was next called to answer to the charge of abusing and insulting a police officer while in the discharge of his duty. The officer referred to is Mr. E. Scharff, who, in addition to being a health officer, is also invested with the powers of a special policeman. The evidence was to the effect that he went to Mr. M.'s yard to look after the condition of his premises, and while there incidentally called attention to the fact that the dog needed a badge, whereupon the offence alluded to above is alleged to have been committed. M. Bellamy, Keq. appeared for the defence, and, among other points made, contended that in going upon Mr. Murphy's premises without the proper authority in writing from one competent to delegate it the officer was guilty of trespass. At the close of the investigation the Mayor, after expressing his determination to protect his officers in the discharge of what he conceived to be their duty, required the defendant to pay a fine of $25 and the costs; from of $75 being required for his appearance. A seaman, charged with drunkenness and resisting an officer, was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Murder Trial Removed. Under this head the Charlotte Observer says: "The trial of Joe Gillespie, colored, charged with being one of the murderers of Mr. W. G. Fowler, of Mooresville, last December, did not come off at Statesville this week, as was anticipated. His case was removed from Iredell to Alexander on an affivit based upon the prejudice which existed against him in the county in which his accomplice in the crime was taken from the hands of a deputy sheriff and hanged. This postnones the trial till next fall. It is said that Gillespie planned the attack upon Mr. Fowler, but did not strike the fatal blow himself. For this reason he was left to the slower process of the law when his companion was hanged."
