A North Carolina system, is it Well, really that is good.

Eight hundred and seven more immigrants have just landed at New York. The "cry is, still they come."

Is it a North Carolina system or a North Carolina Railroad system that Governor Jarvis is now so zealously fostering?

The London Saturday Review evidently thinks that it would be a good thing for England if Rev. Mr. Talmage were squelched.

Old Zach Chandler is the Big Boss of the National Republican committee. He says the committee has never paid the slightest attention to Hayes's civil service report. Why should they when Hayes has never paid the slightest attention to his own order?

New Orleans has been excited over a threatened duel between ex-Gov. H. C. Warmouth and Judge Alexander Walker, formerly editor of the New Orleans Times. The difficulty seems to have originated in some remarks" made by Gov. Warmouth reflecting on the Judge. At last accounts no villainous saltpetre would be burnt.

The organs say that henceforth Hayes will train only with the Stalwarts. He is too weak in his back to stand alone, so hereafter he will recline on the robust bosom of Old Zach and the other conspirators. Here is what that delectable sheet, the Philadelphia Press, says:

"It is intimated that the heads of the various Executive Departments will, at an early day, take steps to rid the service of such Democrats, lukewarm Republicans and secret enemies as found places under the reconciliation policy of the President."

VOL. XXIV .-- NO. 91.

WILMINGTON, N. C., THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1879.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch pays our Senator Ransom a high, and we have the doubt a just tribute. He is a dethe Richmond Dispatch pays our Senator Ransom a high, and we have no doubt, a just tribute. He is a decidedly sagacious politician. The correspondent, referring to the recent

"Cool and deliberate when other people are excited, always as wise as he is chivalrous, North Carolina's senior Senator never lost faith for a moment that the wisdom of the party would ultimately triumph, and when I would go to him for advice at the most critical moments of the session he would say, 'All will come right, and the Democratic party will gain by the extra session, and make the way clear for a splendid triumph in 1880." During these interviews I could see why Gordon, Lamar, and other Senators have such unwavering confidence in the cool judgment of Ransom and why he can accomplish so much more in a quiet way than some others do by stormy encounters. I met him soon after my interview with Goode, and his comments on the work accomplished and the issues made agreed in substance with those of the member from the Norfolk District. He said that the Republicans feel that they have lost greatly by the session, and that their bloody-shirt efforts have failed to stir up sectional hatred as they had anticipated. He agreed with me that they had actually lost more by their advocacy of the continuation of the quinine monopoly than they gained by anything done to our disadvantage during the session. Senator Ransom, in conclusion declared with emphasis that was impossible to over-estimate the importance of having called the attention of the whole country to the outrages and injustice committed by the use of troops at the polls and the use of deputy marshals to control elections in the cities. The people now, by reason of the debates of the extra session, understand these issues in all of their enormity, and will be prepared to vote on them in 1880."

The "Ohio idee" is booming. There are several politicians from Ohio now in Washington in constant consultation with John Sherman. We give what they say, as reported in the Washington letter to the Baltimore Sun:

"Some of these gentlemen assert that the systematically in the Western and Northern States, beginning with Ohio, and it has already taken deep root in States where the feeling for the nomination of Gen. Grant has been the strongest. It is claimed that Ohio will lead the column with a solid delegation in the next Republican Convention in favor of Sherman. It is the theory of those most active in Secretary Sherman's behalf that the minute the fact is developed that Gen. Grant cannot obtain the nomination without a severe struggle, that Mr. Sherman will step to the fore as the leading candidate, and that the contest for the nomination will be between him and Senator Blaine."

Gen. Tom Ewing is serene and confident. The Washington Post has interviewed him, and he is reported

"The outlook is good; excellent," he re-plied, "and they can't best us unless they flood the State with their money. Indeed, I don't believe they can do it even with

"How does the Greenback vote stand?" "Piatt will get one-third of it; he may get half, but we will get the other half." Will Platt run the race through?"

"Oh, yes; he'll run through. Our party are united and are ready for hard work. We are determined, and I can say confident, for we feel that the tide is in our favor." "When will the campaign open?"
"About the middle of August, but I am to make a speech at Lancaster on the 24th inst., and from that date I shall speak wherever I am wanted."

Senator Vest has been interviewed in St. Louis as to the Presidential outlook. He thinks that neither Bayard nor Tilden stands the slightest, chance for the nomination. He says: "Tilden hasn't three friends in Congress, and he will never receive another Demo-cratic nomination for President."

He says the coming man is unquestionably Thurman. "He is the strongest man we have, and he has the best chance for the nomination. Ohio is going Democratic, and that will

The City Hall Improvements.

The improvements to the City Hall bdilding, authorized by an order of the Board of Aldermen, and approved by the Board of Audit and Finance, and which have been in progress for some weeks past, are now about completed, and the scaffold ing is being removed. The outside of the building, with the exception of the rear walls, received, first, a coat of what is known as "Petrified Silicate Liquid," which was followed by another coat of Silicate paint. The petrified liquid, or solution of Silica, is claimed to be a certain cure for damp walls, a preventive of the white incrustations on brick, and the disintegration of stone, its peculiar property being to penetrate the pores of the material, closing them and producing a non-absorbent surface, unaffected by atmospheric influence. The Silicate paint is non-poisonous, and dries rapidly, with a hard, brilliant and durable surface, which does not chalk or crack. It is said to be peculiarly adapted to outside painting. So much for the material. The exterior painting is in imitation of free-stone. blocked off, and has an exceedingly neat appearance. The front doors are grained in imitation of oak, the work being very handsomely executed. The Treasurer's office has been furnished with a new floor and otherwise improved. The same may be said of the Mayor's office and the hall The guard room has been newly floored, and the cells fitted up, pine oil being used on the floors of the latter as a disinfectant. The porch at the entrance to the Opera House has also been repaired, and the rear walls of the building washed with buffe colored cement. The work was done under contract with Mr. Jas. F. Sheriff Taylor is a new hand at the business of hanging, as he not only was never called upon to perform the unpleasant duty before, but actually never saw a person undergo the extreme penalty of the law. In fact, we learn that this will be the first execution that has taken place in Brunswick county in forty years. A Brunswick man, named Sam Simmons, was hung for murder committed in that county a short time before the late war broke out, but the case had been transferred to this county for trial, and the New Hanover Sheriff was called upon to execute the sentence of the

The execution will be in public, in accordance with a late order of the Board of County Commissioners, and the gallows will be erected in the northern suburbs of the town, about a quarter of a mile distant from the Court House. There will doubtless be a large crowd present from Brunswick and New Hanover, and perhaps other counties.
