The Charleston News & Courier says the weather in that city on last Saturday was the hottest ever known there. The record goes back for nearly three centuries-to 1683. The thermometer never reached 98 degrees until 1738. In 1752 it touched 101. In 1826 and 1829 it reached 100; in 1871 it went as high as 102; on Saturday last it stood 104.

George Alfred Townsend ("Gath") tells of a mineral spring in the State of New York that is so strongly impregnated with iron that farmers' horses that drink of its waters never require to be shod. George Alfred is not kin to George W. of "little hatchet" memory.

There were fewer deaths at Mem phis during June than there were in the corresponding month of 1876 or 1878. There were 100 against 137 in 1878 and 140 in 1876. Within three days last week there were three deaths from yellow fever, and three from sunstroke.

Good news comes from Maine. The Republicans have lost ground de cidedly, it is believed. The Augusta Standard says that from all parts of the State reports of losses are re ceived. It thinks the prospects for the Democrats much better than last year. So be it.

One of Nature's Frottesome Frenks. An ear of green corn, of a most singular formation, was left on our table by Mr. T. M. Smith, yesterday. It was grown by ex-Sheriff W. E. Maultaby, of Whiteville, Columbus county, and consists of a well matured car partially sovered by an outside layer, attached to the end of the cob next to the stalk, but otherwise separate and distinct, with numerous independent shoots partially filled with grains of corn. Taken altogether, it is a very curious specimen.

Shooting Affair in Payetteville. The dull monotony consequent upon the severe heat which provailed in Fayetteville. as well as elsewhere, on Saturday last, was relieved somewhat by two runaways and a shooting affray. The latter occurred between Mr. R. B. Lutterloh and Mr. Duncan Rose, in reference to some legal matter. which affected the former, the latter being s lawyer. Mr. Lutterloh, we understand. first met Mr. Rose and used some pretty parah language towards him, but the parties separated without any resort to violent measures. At a later period Mr. Rose heard that Mr. Lutterloh was coming to his office armed, and that the difficulty would probably be renewed, whereupon he armed himself. Soon afterwards Mr. L. came in and demanded an spology from Mr. Rose. The latter refused to apologize, stating that he had done nothing more nor less than his professional duty required of him in the premises. Mr. Lutterloh then advanced upon Mr. Rose with a chair, when the latter said. "If you come at me with that chair I will shoot you!" Mr. Lutterloh continued to advance, when Mr. Rose fired upon him with the pistol which he held in his hand, the ball from which entered the right wrist of Lutterlob, ranged through the flesh and lodged in the ball of the thumb. Lutterloh then said, "If that's what you are up to, come outside," upon which he left the office, followed by his antagonist. Reaching the street, a shot was exchanged between the parties without effect, and they were preparing with much deliberation and apparent earnestness for what they evidently intended to be final settlement of the difficulty, when

The runaways alluded to in the outset which created great excitement-one of the horses, with the dangling remains of a broken cart attached to him, baving brought up in a book store, and that after running people out upon the usually quiet thoroughfares, a number of whom became witnesses of the affray, which luckily ended without serious results.

Sheriff Hardie and his deputies appeared

The Hexted Term. We alluded a few days ago to the fact that the leaves on many of the trees were dying and dropping off, as if it were in the fall of the year, from the effects of the heat and drought. In some localities the streets and sidewalks are strewn with leaves. The sycamores seem to be the most susceptible, but even the leaves on the elm in some instances are turning brown. A friend from the country informed us yesterday that the same was the case in the woods. The intense heat is also having effect upon the grass, which, in localities where it is nearly constantly exposed to the sun, looks as dead as if it were the middle of autumn. A farmer said to us yesterday that if we had good seasons of rain from now out there would be about half a crop of corn, but if the dry, hot weather should continue much longer the crops would be almost deal stroyed. The rains which have fallen in this vicinity lately have been so light that they have done but little good, the heat of the sun speedily neutralizing their effects. In the gardens of the city, as well as the truck gardens beyond, much of the vegetation is dying. especially was this the case on Saturday last; but our people have suffered much less than those in Chatleston, and we have cause to be thankful that it has been as well with us as it has. There, on Saturday last, about one hundred and twenty-five cases of sunstroke were reported, and sixteen deaths from the effect of the heat. In Wilmington there was not a single case of sunstroke, and no fatal cases from the effects of the heat. Here the the highest reported range of the thermometer on that day was 104 degrees. There, in some of the business houses, it reached 111. A 'dead calm' is a rare thing here, and the fine breezes generally neutralize to a great extent the effects of the heat. The great drawback in this section now is the drought, which threatens very serious re-Appointing make he sistles

The party is made up of the prominent and most respectable citizens of the section whence they came, and we trust their stay in Wilmington will be pleasant and their trip to-day enjoyable. The excursionists will return Friday night.

Important Decision. Among recent opinions delivered in the Supreme Court, that in the case of the State against Brown, from this county, is of general interest. It was delivered by Justice Ashe, and we append it:

"When a grand jury has returned a bill 'not a true bill,' and such finding is entered, the same bill cannot be reconsidered by them, though a new bill perhaps may be sent. The practice which has grown up, when the grand jury has found a defective bill, of sending it back for amendment, is rather tolerated than warranted by law."

The Place. wreting a right li We are requested to state that Mr. J. H. Strauss' store, on North Water, between Princess and Chesnut streets, has been selected as the place for the distribution of articles contributed by the Ladies' Benev-olent Society for the relief of the poor and destitute in our midst.

To-Day's Indications. For the South Atlantic States, partly cloudy weather and local rains, southering winds, shifting to southwest and northwest, and slight change in temperature and ba-rometer, are the indications for to-day.

Military Visitors Reception and En-The promise of a visit from the Sumte (8. C.) Light Infantry was fulfilled by their arrival by rail yesterday morning. The Wilmington Light Infantry, Capt. Coney. were at the train and signalized the arrival of the visitors with a salute. Gen. M. P. Taylor, after the initial ceremony, made an appropriate welcome speech. referring pleasantly to their previous coming mong us, recited the legend of the effects of "Rock Spring" water, and alluded to the enefits and blessings which result in various ways from friendly social comminglings of the citizens and soldiers of different States.

Capt. Delgar responded in behalf of himself and command, saying that they remem bered with unaffected satisfaction their first invasion of North Carolina's chief city. and said he confessed that the assault on their ranks, in the form of unstinted hospitality, was masterly and resistless. They had, however, not been required to ask for 'quarters," but had been invited to accept them in all directions. He desired a little redress, even at this time, and declared that in their encampment at Smithville they would be delighted to welcome the Wilmington military; or a fib L. . M. s. Jan T.

The Sumters, with their accompanying friends, took breakfast in the railroad, dining rooms, where an excellent repast had been prepared for them. They then, under the escort of the W. L. T., marched to the Passport, which was lying at the foot of Market street to convey them to camp.

The affair passed off in a manner which convinces us that the received and receivers felt quite as much as they said. Quite a number of South Carolina ladies and gentlemen, in the civil service, accompany the military, and we trust and doubt not that all will enjoy and be benefited by beir sojourn on the suburbs of old ocean

I beg to inform you that our line is supplied with many FAIRBANKS SCALES, of which some are already since 1857, and the rest since 1862; in constant use. Many of them are exposed to the open air the whole year round, without any protection against the bad weather, All these Scales, without exception, have given entire astisfaction, and, according to the opinion of the station-masters, supersede in accuracy, easy method of weighing heavy loads, and chiefly in durability, all the other systems of scales. Having twenty-two years' experience with the FAIRBANKS SCALES, the Superintendent's effice of the Road can unhesitatingly recommend them as especially practically adapted to railroad use.
