CAUGHT IN A TRAP.

Arrest of Two Notorious Thioves Through the Vigliance of the Clerk of the Market.

Yesterday morning two young colore men called at the City Pound to have an ox and a cow weighed. They gave their names as Sam Moore and Harry Lee, and informed Mr. L. M. Williams, Clerk of the Market, that the cattle were the property of a colored man named Reuben Moore the father of Sam Moore, who lived at Bear Creek, Onslow country, about sixtyfive miles from this city, from which point they started for this place on Saturday morning the 2nd inst. They said the cow "jumped" very badly, and consequently the owner told them to sell her at any price and not bring her back, under any considerations, and that they had sold the two beever to Sam, Merrick and John Carvan, two of the colored butchers, for $7 each. As the ox was found to weigh 730 pounds, and the cow 712 pounds thus showing that the men had not received for them one-half their value, the suspicions of Mr. Williams were aroused that there was something wrong. Requesting the men to come with him to Justice Gardner's office "to get a certificate," which they did without hesitation, Mr. Williams gave the magistrate to understand in a few words the nature of the case. when the young men were given in charge of an officer. They were then further questioned, and their answers still further tended to confirm the suspicion that the cattle had been stolen. At this stage of the proceedings one of our expert detectives appeared on the scene. He interviewed the parties together, when they both clung to their original statement. He then closeted himself with Lee alone, when he signified his willingness to swear out an affidavit to the effect that Sam Moore, his companion, stole the cattle from Reuben Moore, his father. A warrant was then made out against Moore and he was committed for examination on the charge of larceny; after which the officer pulled a pistol from the pocket of Lee, and he was also held, on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

both parties being committed to jail. Subsequent to the above proceedings if was developed that the parties under arrest have been committing depredations in Grant Township, Pender county, and that Sam Moore's real name is Fuller Hansley. the two having been employed at Rock Quarry. Still later the steer was identified as the property of Abel St. George, and the cow as the property of Joe Gibles, both colored, and residents of Grant Township. Pender county.

Thus through the vigilance of our worthy Clerk of the Market, two notorious thieves (as it would now appear) have been brought to justice, and will no doubt speedily receive their dues.

Board of County Commissioners. The Board met in regular session at halfpast 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon; present, Col. Wm. L. Smith, Chairman, and Commissioners H. A. Bagg, J. A. Montgomery, A. J. Grady and B. G. Worth.

The extent of the casualties, however, proved to be less disastrous than might have been expected. No dead bodies were found on the field after the battle, and only one of the combatants is known to have been severely wounded. He received a deep and painful cut on the chin from a pair of brass knuckles. The police were summoned from some distant beats, but when they got on the ground all was calm and serene.
