A NEW NOVEL. THE "RARL OF MAY-A RIELD" is the name of a new and powerful Novel, by a distinguished American author, the opening scenes of which are laid in Louisiana during the early days of the Rebellion. The hero is a rich planter, and the heroine is a lovely example of pure womanhood. The old English home is very likely a correct photograph of an ideal house, as many similar ones exist in that insmediate locality. It has the advantage of having but few characters, with good descriptions, excellent dialogues, well sustained interest, and contains all the elements of a successful novel, the whole being well told, within the limits of probability, and the work will no deubt prove a great success.

PERRY, GA., April 14th, 1879.—"I have watched the use of the medicine known as Swift's Syphilitic Specific over fifty years, and have never known or heard of an instance of fallure to cure when properly taken. In 1885 George Walker bought at anotion a slave not warranted, whom he treated with this remedy, and cured him sound and well in four weeks. Hight years afterwards he said the boy had never had any return of the disease or lost a day from work."—H. L. DERMARD, Sold by GREEN & FLANNER, and all Drugwists.
