Gov. Holliday, of Virginia, has issned a proclamation calling upon the people of that State to participate in the Yorktown anniversary on Thursday, the 23d of October, 1881. That day is selected because the true anniversary would be on Sunday.

The STAR did not copy anything concerning Col. T. M. Holt and the Independent boom. It will state, however, that he denies emphatically any sympathy with Independentism or party bolters. He would like to be Governor if tendered in the usual way, but will have nothing to do with any movement calculated to injure the Democratic party.

National banks have been called upon to make a statement of their business up to October 2d. The Seretary of the Treasury decides that certificates mutilated to the extent of one-tenth only are redeemable at full face value, but to the extent of two-tenths at eight-tenths face value, and so on. Fragments of notes, each clearly one-half, are redeemable at one half the face value.

The Albemarle Enquirer is clearly of the opinion that no one ought to criticise a book unless he "can write a better one." This is capital. Shakespeare, Milton and the great prose writers can never be criticised because no one can write "better" books than they have written. The British Reviews must shut up shop. For two thousand years there have been critics, good and bad, but henceforth no man must point out errors unless he can write better works than the masters. Selah!

Dr. Ellis has tested its capacity sufficiently to be satisfied that it can travel six miles an hour up stream, with a cargo of 2,500 pounds, scaling the rapids where the water is not more than 12 inches deep. He made not the slightest effort to escape, but on the contrary acted as if he was bent upon suicide. If this was his purpose he accomplished it speedily. He was badly mangled, both of, his legs having been broken and his skull split open. He died instantly. The remains were taken to Durham, where they were at once identified as those of a countryman named Haywood Redmond, who lived near the town. He was a man about fifty years of age and had been addicted to drinking. During the day he had been seen in a somewhat inebriated condition. Colonel W. P. The marriage took place in the town of Salisbury. — Within the past ten days seven negro men have been put in jail. Four were sent up for an affray on the plantation of Mr. R. R. In the matter of certain cases His Honor sustained the advice given by Solicitor Moore to Justices of the Peace, to the effect that they have no original jurisdiction over the offence of failure to work on roads. This settles the matter so far as this county is concerned until the opinion is affirmed or reversed by the Supreme Court.

The alleged case of robbery against C. H. Grant, to which we referred a day or wo ago as being one for which he was ar rested, was yesterday, in the Criminal Court, dismissed by the Solicitor as being groundless, a case of simple trespass being inserted in its stead, to which defendant submitted, and which was dismissed on the payment of costs.

Telephonic Fire-Alarms. The city telephonic fire-alarms were being put in position yesterday under the direction of Mr. DeForrest, Agent of the Bell Telephone Company. There will be ten in all, and the different locations will be at the City Hall, the three steam fire engine houses, the Market House, the corner of Fourth and Harnett streets, corner of Sixth and Red Cross streets, corner of Seventh and Market streets, corner of Seventh and Castle streets, and at the Gas House. The City Hall will be the central office, where the first intelligence of a fire must be comnunicated through the medium of the firealarms. There will also be regular telephonic connection with the City Hall, through which an alarm can be communieated when more convenient than through the regular fire-alarm agency at either of the points mentioned. The order for sound ing an alarm of fire must proceed through and from the central office at the City Hall, and we learn that a responsible officer will be on duty at the Hall during the night in readiness to receive and send out an alarm in case of fire. All telephones throughout the city (numbering over one hundred) will have connection with the Central Office through the Telephone Exchange, thereby giving the city a thorough system of firealarms through the medium of these instruments in connection with the regular telephonic fire-alarms.

Colonel Roger Moore, Chief of the Fir Department, in his report to the Board of Aldermen, at their meeting yesterday, makes the following suggestion or recommendation : "Before closing my report I would call the attention of your Honorable Board, and would most respectfully urge that some action be taken fixing some rule for the government of the Fire Department, and when their services are required after a fire is subdued and all danger of its spreading has been overcome, to save the damaged property, then that a rate of compensation should be fixed for such extra service, to compensate the men and reimburse the city for coal, and to provide for the wear and tear occasioned by such continuous service; and I would most respectfully suggest, if my recommendation meets your approval, as a minimum rate for such services, say $3 per hour for day and $5 per hour for night services for the Engine Companies; and when the services of Hock and Ladder, Bucket or Hand Engine Companies, are required, one-half of the above rates, said amount to be divided equally between the Company or Companies so engaged and the city, share and share alike."

The Rabbi Mendelsohn was greeted last night at the Historical Society, by a small but highly cultured and respectable audience of ladies and gentlemen, and for nearly two hours entertained them and the Historical Society with one of the most instructive and exhaustive literary entertainments in which it has been our fortune to partake in Wilmington for many years. The subject was thoroughly discussed and treated, under the following heads, viz: First, crimes and punishments under the penal code of the Talmud; second, the jurisdiction of the Synhedrion, or High Tribunal of Justice; third, the mode of trial and its incidents, and rules of evidence; fourth, of the execution of the judgment. Each of these chapters or heads was treated in a masterly manner, showing profound research and a conscientious and exhaustive presentation of the subject. Our columns do not permit us to give any satisfactory account of this splendid lecture as a whole, and if we had room, the lateness of the hour forbids it. We learned great deal that was new, however, under each of these heads, some of which we will endeavor to preserve and relate for our readers on some future occasion.

After the usual vote of thanks, the Society being informed that the Hon. A. M. Waddell, of this city, had completed the paper which his friends have been for some time anticipating, upon the ancient history of North Carolina, on motion a committee was appointed by the Chair, consisting of Judge Cantwell, Rev. Dr. Watson and Mr. A. H. Sprunt, to request its delivery before the Society.
