WILMINGTON, N. C.: FRIDAY MORNING, Oct. 10, 1879

THE INDIAN WAR. The Ute outbreak is developing two facts: first, that the Indians are well armed with improved weapons, obtained, of course, from white traders. This is an admirable policy first, to supply your enemy with the best guns and all needed munitions of war, and then put yourself in the way of being shot to death. If your enemy, thus armed and equipped, will not open fire upon you at once, then go to work to provoke him into hostility at every risk. The other fact is, that United States troops behave well and are commanded by brave and resolute officers. The fighting under Major Thornburgh, who was killed, and the defence of Captain Payne, assisted by Captains Lawson and Cherry, was sharp and desperate. The account published in the STAR of yesterday is replete with interest. As suggested by the New York Sun, there are evidently two sides to the question as to the causes of the hostility of the Utes. It is well known that most of our recent wars with the Indians have been caused by general bad treatment. It looks as if it was impossible that our government should learn to deal with the Red Men in such a way as to gain their confidence and friendship, The introduction of a new policy is a necessity, the old having so lamentably failed. When our government learns to deal with the Indians honestly, humanely and justly, and to keep in good faith all treaties and promises,

It will be probably interesting to copy what is thought to be the cause of the recent outbreak. If the following is correct, as we have no doubt it is, then it shows that perfidy on the part of our government has brought about a natural and inevitable bloody sequel. We find in the Charleston News and Courier the following:

there will be much less blood shed.

"In 1871, when the San Juan fever broke out, the Utes owned and occupied about one-fifth of what is now Colorado. They made no resistance to the invasion of treasure-seeking emigrants, but waited pa-tiently for remuneration from the Govern-ment. In 1872 they entered into a treaty by which a portion of their territory, in the vicinity of the present city of Leadville, was ceded to the United States in consideration of $600,000 in yearly payments. Besides the money the treaty secured to them impor-tant rights and privileges, especially in rela-tion to protection from the whites in the land unsold. It will searcely be credited, perhaps, but not only have the whites been lar of the $600,000 has been paid. While the immediate provocation of the attack upon Thornburgh's command was the enclosing and cultivation of a field near the agency, which the Indians claimed, the attack was really the result of the repudiation on the part of the Government of its most solemn pledges." illowed to overrun this land, but not a dol-

The Indians have rarely found friends among the whites. For hundreds of years they have been treated as if they were wild beasts and have been hunted accordingly. The people living in the distant West appear how they are regarded we copy a par- tection.

agraph from the Denver Tribune of Sept. 17th:

"We have reports from all sections of the Ute reservation which indicate that mischief is brewing in the minds of the entire tribe. As nearly as we can ascertain they have become aware of the agitation which has been begun to remove them from Colorado, and they evidently expect the discussion to bear fruit. In fact they see their fate. They say as much, and they further make no bones in declaring that if they must go, they will destroy, before their exodus, all they can that is valuable, not only on their reservation, but outside of it -anywhere, in fact. How long does the Government propose to allow these lazy, thieving, murdering vagabonds to hold one of the best sections of the State, and from this vantage ground raid upon settlers upon the public domain and destroy their property and means of subsistence? The question is an interesting one."

Such sentiments are atrocious. it a matter of surprise that the Indians are driven into war when they are abused and wronged. Their land is taken from them by force, and then not content with refusing to pay them for it according to promise, a scheme is then broached to drive them out of the country. The News and Courier well asks:

"Is it any wonder that they have attempted to avenge this open and flagrant violation of the treaty, and struck blindly and fiercely at their fate? Would not white men, under the same circumstances, have done the same? Can the crime of which the Government is confessedly guilty be covered up or excused by calling the Utes-two weeks before the Milk River affair occurred-'lazy, thieving, murdering vagabonds?' The treatment of the Indians, from first to last, is the most shameful blot upon the record of 'the best Government the world ever saw;' and robbing the Utes of their money and lands at the same time is a fitting culmination of its consistent policy of perfidy towards an inferior and

Chief Justice Smith has written the opinion of the Supreme Court in the noted School Bill case, although he has been in poor health for some time. An abstract of the opinion appeared in the Raleigh Observer of the 7th, and we avail ourselves of a paragraph or two from its estimate of the general merits of the decision. It

"The profession-the lawyers of North Carolina and of the Union, will accord it the highest praise. In language and in sentiment it well comports with the known decided character of Mr. Dillard, Mr. Ashe and of the Chief Justice himself. They are not men to shuffle-in them will never be found any evasion. They met the points here as they have met them always before squarely, and they give out no uncertain sound. They put their decision on the very points which they announced as governing he case at the time when they made their verbal statement two months since. * * When the court adverts to the fact tha these officers of the Houses are not mere officers of the State, they destroy the plain-

"How clear they make it when they ask whether, if a Speaker during the session of the Legislature should refuse to sign a bill, the Court could force him by mandamus? * * Speakers are officers, say they. The law requires them to sign bills. Or failure to do so, the courts can compel them by mandamus, and the Constitution of 1868 required an apportionment to be made of Legislative and Senatorial Districts in 1872, say. By parity of reasoning the members of the House are State officers. They de-cline and fail to pass the law. Then these plaintiffs say that the courts can issue andamus to compel them to pass the law, and that not when the Assembly is in session, but after the Assembly has adjourned and the members have returned to their

"This is the reductio ad absurdum to which the argument of the plaintiffs leads."

The Northern papers of the more respectable kind often blunder in their statements concerning the South Papers like the New York Tribune are wilfully blind. But even decent and able papers somehow often misrepresent the action of the people of the South, both in political and financial matters. We have noticed recently in two or three papers that the decision of the Supreme Court of South Carolina was misunderstood and that it was said that over a million dollars of the State debt had been got rid of in a singular way. The Philadelphia Times said :

'The queer feature of the case is that part of these bonds were not among those disputed by the Bond Commission, which gave the debt such a thorough overhauling, and that nobody anticipated a decision against their validity."

This statement or version of the matter is promptly corrected by the Columbia Register, which shows that the Supreme Court "again and again alludes to these securities as being a part of schedule 6, which is plainly and unequivocally spoken of in the decision as being a statement of the bonds and securities rejected by the Bond Commission as 'not having been issued in accordance with law."

It is believed in New York that the Democrats will make another effort next winter to overhaul the present tariff. A reduction in many articles is very desirable, and an attempt upon customs reforms will be made no doubt. The New York imoprters are very anxious for a reduction, it is said, and will heartily second all efforts in that direction. This ought to be a combination strong enough to bring about decided reforms. The country ought to unite in demanding a tariff for revenue only. The domestic industries of the country ought to be able to take care of themselves, and doubtless will do so. The West and South can surely unite with the Democrats and importers of New York in demanding a repeal of the to think them so much game to be tariff, and the substitution of one that driven from pillar to post. To show | will raise revenue and not offer prohigher wages, but somehow striking does not always pay. In England the distress was increased by thou sands of people refusing to work at the prices paid or offered. They seemed to think that no bread was better than a half-loaf. There has been a recent illustration of the folly of strikes, as ordinarily conducted, at Fall River, Massachusetts. The weavers struck. They ceased work, gave up their places, and after weeks of distress they proposed to accept the old terms, but it was too late. Other workmen had been employed, and there was no room in the factoies for them. It often happens that step taken without proper reflection and caution leads to trouble. It is better to bear the ills we have than to fly to those we know not of Something like this said Shakespeare, who knew life and the human heart.

We have received a very neat little volume of some ninety page from Messrs, Latham, Alexander & Co., bankers and commission merchants, of New York. It is the sixth edition of their work entitled "Cotton Movement and Fluctuations." and contains the complete cotton operations for the last ten years. It gives an annual review of the market, and an article in regard to the cotton crops of the world, their distribution, etc. The little volume is not published for sale, but is intended for the friends and customers of the firm. Its tables and other informa tion must prove useful to those engaged in cotton transactions.

The annual revenue of Virginia, according to the Richmond Dispatch, amounts to $2,867,132 82. The total disbursements for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1879, were $2,811,932 76. Under the McCulloch bill, now exciting Virginia from centre to circumference, the total interest to be paid on the State debt will be $983,000. It is believed the bill will be carried by an immense ma-

-- The retort of Kalloch was deserved to be shot dead for it.morality to the Southern people, De Young ought to have taken all Kalloch's abuse and referred the matter to a court of law. You advise your Northern Republican fellow-citizens, we observe, to take the law into their own hands. The practice is too common in the North now .- Courier-Journal, Dem.

-- The South does not want Mr. Tilden. It is idle to keep silent for fear of opposing now the man whom we may have to support in the future. If Mr. Tilden is nominated the majority of the Southern Democrats will vote for him on principle-on the wise principle that they are voting, not for the man, but for the cause in whose name the man is chosen and for whose ends he must work. They will strive to secure his election because of their faithfulness to the Democratie party, to which the country owes much, and from which it has good reason to expect more. But, on the other hand, there will be a large number that will vote against Mr. Tilden also on principle—on the independent principle that he is not the right man for the office he seeks. Now such a division must bring great trouble, causing defeat in 1880 and disorganizing the party for years to come.—Richmond State, Dem.

The time seems not distant when any hot-tempered man who works himself into a passion over a real or assumed injury with the aid of whiskey, may shoot the victim of his ill-will with impunity. And lately a new phrase has been given to the insanity dodge, for it is nothing else. It is held that when an angry man kills another without sufficient reason for his murderous act, he too is msane. It is high time that the medical profession unite to protect themselves against this charlatanry.

> A SOLID SOUTH. England Greed, Sectionalism, and Legalized Mobbers. Mr. Voorhees's Speech at Hamilton, O. But there is another grievance al eged against the South as an excuse for usurpation and the overthrow of free elections not only there but everywhere. It is said she is solid. We hear it clamored in our ears from all quarters that she votes solidly against the Republican party. Let us admit she does. New England votes about as solidly against the Democratic party, and yet I have never heard that therefore we ought to pullify the Constitution and the rights of the States in the matter of elections to get rid that evil. It is true that the policy of this country, which has so bitterly cursed the producer in respect to revenue and the finances generally, has been the work of New England greed, sectionalism and legalized robbery, but nobody has, on that account, strong as the provocation has been, demanded that her people should be deprived of a free ballot. People have a right to vote as they please as long as our form of government remains, and whoever would deprive them of that right is a scoundrel who deserves death. But are you astonished that the South is solid politically against the Republican party. Would it not

ill Conflicting Interests Settled at Last-Edison's Invention. CHICAGO, Oct. 7 .- Mr. Elisha Gray,

of this city, has arrived at a settlenent of the various questions at issue between himself and the Bell Telephone Co., and others interested in the telephone patent, of which he is the inventor, and he will now set himself about extending business and enlarging his profits. A vast amount of litigation was set on foot soon after the issuing of the patents in 1875. Suits and cross-suits were begun until all parties concerned got sued. An endless amount of expense and complications followed. The preliminary papers for a settlement were signed a week ago in New York, from which place Mr. Gray has just returned. The Bell Telephone Co., the American Speaking Telephone Co., the Western Union Telegraph Co., Gold & Stock Telegraph Co., and Mr. Gray, are all interested in this compromise. Mr. Edison's interest was merely an improvement, consisting of substituting carbon button for the original one in the transmitter. This improvement was purchased by Gray, who now holds the chief proprietary interest in the patent of which he is the chief inventor. He will at once set about extending his business to Europe. He states there are about 200,000 telephones now in use in the United States, and that there is a demand for 1,000,000 more. He has a royalty of $1 on each.

A Wife's Love that Stood the Test.

[Bangor (Me.) Commercial.] A very singular affair has just occurred in this city. A sewing machine agent by the name of Pendleton thought he would test the affections of his wife. He accordingly went to an upper story of his residence and opened the window. He then tied a stout rope around his body under his arms, fastened one end to something in the room and stepped out of the window. He then made a noise which attracted his that of a beastly desperado, and he wife's attention. She came and beheld the perilous predicament which Cincinnati Commercial. No; ac- he was in. She felt the need of doing cording to your daily lectures on something at once to save her husband. In her excitement she seized a knife and cut the rope. The result was that he was precipitated some twenty-five feet to the ground beneath. Strange as it may appear, he escaped serious injury, but it will probably be some time before he attempts a similar exploit.

Joining her Betrothed in Death. -CINCINNATI, Oct. 6 .- Miss Lillie George, a pupil of the Cincinnati College of Music, 18 years of age, whose home is at Bonaparte, Iowa, was engaged to be married to Mr. Fred. M. Ferriman. At 2 a. m. on Sunday he was taken with congestive chills, and died at 10 p. m. Miss George attended him faithfully during his illness, and before he died she said: "Goodby. We will not be separated long." Yesterday afternoon, at her boarding house, 311 West Fourth street, she placed a pistol over her left breast and fired. There is very little hope of her re-

THE NEW Boot and Shoe Store 32 MARKET STREET.

TO MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS. THANKFUL FOR PAST FAVORS, I WOULD inform them that I have just returned from the North, where I have visited all the celebrated markets for

BOOTS AND SHOES. I am determined to sell a GOOD SHOE for a LOW PRICE, such as you never bought in this market

All I ask is a call and fair comparison. My Stock is now arriving with every Trant, and cannot be excelled by any in the city. Respectfully,

ROSENTHAL,
