Some of our readers have no doub noticed during the last twenty-five or thirty years a brief advertisement in the papers, to the effect that Rev. Joseph T. Inman, a returned missionary from South America, had made a wonderful dispovery in medicine, &c. He was to be found at the Bible House. He was a fraud, had no such office, but succeeded in amassing a fortune of over $250,000. He is dead-gone where his ill-gotten money will do him no good. After his life of fraud the New York Methodist exposes him. If it had been made a quarter of a century ago it would have saved thousands from being duped and robbed.

Settling an Important Point.

On a certain Saturday, about a month ago, a warrant was issued by Justice Mc-Quigg against a party for retailing without a license. The case was called and the witnesses for the State heard, when the defendant asked and was granted a continuance until the following Monday. At the hour appointed for the case to be again brought up the defendant appeared in Court with another Magistrate and proceeded to enter a plea of former conviction before said Magistrate, which was had the same morning. The plea was not admitted by Justice McQuigg, who found the defendant guilty and imposed a penalty and costs. The defendant appealed to the Criminal Court, and, upon the case being called in said Court during the late termand fully argued by Solicitor Moore for the State, and M. Bellamy, Esq., for the defence, the judgment of the lower Cour was affirmed; and it was determined by the Court that the Magistrate whose warrant was first executed on a defendant acquired jurisdiction in the case, and no other Magistrate could subsequently assume jurisdiction in such case.

This settles an important point, as it has heretofore been the opinion among the Magistrates that a case could be tried a any time before final conviction before another Magistrate.

Criminal Court. In addition to the trial for burglary, al luded to elsewhere, very little business was transacted in the Criminal Court yesterday, beyond hearing motions, &c.

In the case of Francis Holmes, convicted of false pretense, defendant was sentenced to five years in the State Penitentiary, from which he appealed to the Supreme Court and was ordered to give bond in the sum of $400, justified, for his appearance at the February term of the Criminal Court.

WHOLE NO. 3,797 THE BURGLARY CASE.

Trial of Wm. Tate Murphy, Colored, for Burglary-His Acquittal of the Charge.

The case of Henry Murphy alias Wm. Tate Murphy, colored, charged with burglary, came up before the Criminal Court yesterday morning. The following jury were drawn and impanèled: Hugh Mc-Laurin, William Pratt, Uriah Sullivan, Thos. P. Sikes, John T. Wilkins, Elvin Artis, L. B. Huggins, D. M. Smith, C. P. Lockey, A. D. Love, Edward Howard and L. C. Williams.

It will be remembered that Daniel Richardson was arrested and had a preliminary examination before J. C. Hill, J. P., some eight or ten days ago, first, on a charge of larceny, in entering the house of one J. E. Walker, colored, of this city, and stealing a pistol and some other articles; and, secondly, on the charge of having subsequently burglariously entered the house of the said Walker and stolen a gun, shot pouch, powder flask, and a quantity of clothing. During this examination the accused implicated Murphy in the transaction. Richardson, who was sent to jail, subsequently made a confession, and turned State's evidence against Murphy, by which he saved his neck, a verdict of guilty of larceny being entered against him in the Criminal Court on Friday last, for which he was sentenced to ten years in the State

Penitentiary on the following day. The case of Murphy, as before stated, was taken up yesterday morning. It was shown by officers Carr and Strode, who arrested Murphy at his home about a mile this side of Rocky Point, on Thursday night last, that the clothing stolen from J. E. Walker, on the night of the 29th of September, at which time his house was broken into, were in Murphy's possession, but that the articles were hanging up about the room, with no indications of any attempt ly handed to the officers when called for, and that Murphy manifested no uneasiness or undue excitement when arrested. It was further stated by the officers in question, on their examination, that Murphy declared, when he was arrested, that Daniel Richardson had left the things at his house, saying that he was going to work at the Rock Quarry, and that he wanted to Richardson was called to the stand and told his story, some of which was quite plausible, but his manner during his examination, and the frequent hanging of his head when hard pressed, was all against him, and very few in the Court House at the time believed that he were telling the truth. His testimony was to the effect that the larceny and burglary was committed between them, and that they both entered the house together, and together shared the spoils. He also denied that he had ever seen Murphy since the morning after the robbery, when he was in the neighborhood of the old Union depot, making his way out of the city, and that he had not since then been nearer Rocky Point than the four-mile post.

The Solicitor managed the case well, but from the first confidence seemed to be depicted in every lineament of the countenances of Messrs. M. Bellamy and T. H. McKoy, Jr., counsel for the defence; and when the State rested its case, and a num ber of respectable witnesses for the defence were called, who proceeded to prove complete alibi in favor of the defendant. as well as showing that Daniel Richardson had been seen and recognized in the neighborhood of Murphy's house on Tuesday, the 30th of September, the day succeeding the robbery, with a bag of what was supposed to be clothing in his possession, Solicitor Moore quietly rose and stated that after hearing the evidence just given he was unwilling further to prosecute the defendant, and that he would submit to a verdict of not guilty; whereupon the defendant, William Tate Murphy, was discharged and joyfully left the prisoner's box.

Solicitor Moore then prayed judgment against the prisoner, Daniel Richardson, for the additional case of larceny, and he was sentenced by His Honor to ten year's additional imprisoment in the State penitentiary, to take effect immediately upon the expiration of the term of ten years for which he had already been sentenced, remarking, in substance, that the prisoner, Richardson, deserved hanging for attempting to swear away the life of an innocent

A similar accident is reported to have happened on the road the day previous.
