- The Asheville Citizen of the 16th says that during the month of October 140 feet of the bench of the Swannanoa tunnel were removed, leaving only 140 feet to be removed, and then the tunnel will be passable for trains. The trains on the other side of the mountains are now running within eleven miles of Asheville, and in six weeks it is thought they will run within six miles of Asheville.

- Durham Recorder: Died, Hillsboro, on the 15th instant, after a lingering illness, Mrs. Sasan, wife of Isaac Reid, Esq , and eldest daughter of the late Hon. Frederick Nash, in the 74th year of her age. - We learn that in Person county the cures of bright tobacco are regarded as the best ever known in the history of the ndustry; and that bright yellow bears an unusually large proportion to the crop. -Granville county items: Oxford is a beautiful town, with its broad, well shaded streets, its handsome and commodious mansions, retired with impressive dignity back from the streets, embowered in foliage and adorned with shrubbery, its clean gray soil, and its prettily undulating surface; and with its cultivated residents must make struction of barns by fire curing has been very great this fall. It is thought that at least one hundred barns have been burned in the county.

- Hale's Weekly: Sheriff Wag-goner, of Rowan, brought down four conricts, all sentenced to three years' imprisonnent, and put them in the penitentiary. - Two brass 12-pounder guns, with equipments, were sent to Salisbury for use at the soldiers' reunion. - Only about $50,000 in old bonds came in for redemption during the week. — The Attorney General is busy preparing the 81st volume of N. C. Reports. — J. E. Pogue, of Durham, took the premium on plug tobacco, and J. R. Day & Bro., of Durham, took the prize on smoking tobacco at the Fair. Jas. Norwood, of Orange county, took many prizes on stock. John Robinson, of Wadesboro, showed the best cotton ever exhibited here. Mr. Jas. M. Lamb, of Fayetteville, took premiume on rare flowers and hothouse plants, of which he exhibited a fine selection. Mr. W. T. Battley, who is in charge of the carriage and buggy manufac-tory of Tyson & Jones, of Carthage, showed specimens of work in that line which were most excellent, and received the highest premium. The Tokay Vineyard, near Fayetteville, sent specimens of its fine wines of many brands, which took the highest premiums; Col. Wharton J. Green, of Warrenton, is the proprietor.

- Charlotte Observer: The Sparanburg & Asheville Railroad was considerably washed by the rains of last week. The train which left Spartanburg Saturday did not reach Hendersonville until Sunday night. The damages have, however, been repaired, and the trains are again running regularly. - It is learned here that as the result of the destruction of the Atlantic Hotel by the storm at Beaufort, last summer, two new hotels will in all probability be put up, the one on the Morehead side of the sound, and the other on the Beaufort side, both of which will excel in architecture and appointments any seaside resort ever built on the North Carolina coast. -A very singular accident happened to the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta passenger train as it came in yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. As the engine passed over the frog of the switch it jumped the track, and striking the side track ran along on the erossties of this for a distance equal twice its length, and then mounted the track. So when the train was stopped by application of the air brakes, the engine-all the wheels of it -was on the side track, the cars on the main track and the tender of the engine between the two tracks. In all the confusion and changing around of things, nothing was broken and no one was hurt. There have been second growths this year of many kinds of fruit, but it has remained for a pear tree, on the premises of Mr. M. P. Pegram, of this city, to put itself beyond the reach of all competition. This tree is now bearing its third crop of pears for this year. The pears of this third crop vary in size from a hickory-nut to a walnut, but they are green and hard, and two months of sunshine and freedom from frost would hardly suffice to bring them to perfection. For all that they are pears, and not bad sized pears, either.

The Marboring and Abduction Case The cases of William Fisher and John Fisher, father and son, the former charged with harboring the outlaw, Tom Johnson, and the latter with assisting in the abduction of his wife from the house of one Ida Macks, some time last year, came up for hearing before Justice Gardner yesterday afternoon.

John Fisher's case was first taken up. The testimony against him was to the effect that he went to the house where Mary Ann Johnson was, in company with Tom Johnson and Simon Haggett, the escaped murderer, on the night in question; that they pointed their guns in at the door, and finally Tom Johnson entered and seized his wife, remarking to Haggett and Fisher, "Boys, keep your guns in action," and took her by force from the house. John Fisher was fully identified by Mary Ann Johnson as the man who was with Johnson and Haggett when she was kidnapped. Justice Gardner required the defendant to give a justified bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at Court, in default of which he was committed to jail.

William Fisher was next arraigned on the charge of harboring the outlaw, but, had been a rise in the river up to that time when confronted with Johnson's wife, or widow, she declared that he was not the man, and he was therefore discharged.

The case of Arthur Fisher, brother of William Fisher, who has been arrested on the charge of harboring Johnson, will be heard this afternoon.

Solicitor Moore, of the Criminal Court appeared for the prosecution, and John L. Holmes, Esq., for the defence.

'Oil on the Proubled Waters." We find the following in the scientific column of the New York Ledger, being condensed from an article in Chambers Journal, to which it was contributed by Alex. Sprunt, Esq., British Vice Consul at this port. Mr. Sprunt's reason for sending the paper to Mr. Chambers was the fact that he had already broached the subject in his columns:

"The British Vice Consul at Wilmington, N. C., has sent to Mr. William Chambers, of Edinburgh, the deposition of a sea captain, tending to confirm the view that oil may be advantageously employed to calm a stormy sea, and thus evert shipwrek. In April last the brigantine Gem, of Sackville, New Brunswick, Richardson, master, encountered a heavy gale about one degree east of Bermuda. It blew a burricane from the northwest about thirty-six hours, with a cross sea, so that the hatch was stove in, the boats received much injury, and the try-sail was blown away. As the sea rose higher the captain resolved to resort to the oil experiment. He had a canvass bag prepared holding a small quantity of kerosene oil, and trailed it in the sea to windward, with a rope six fathoms long. 'The oil leaking through the canvass,' says the deposition, 'greatly broke the topping sea, and made matters much more favorable for the ship. The mate, who had himself lashed to the rigging during the whole of his watch, believed, with the captain, that the resort to the oil saved the ship.' The most extraordinary part of this story is that only about three quarts of oil are said to have been used, and that this quantity could have produced any appreciable effeet is marvellous indeed. According to Mr. Chambers, however, the waves are not lessened in size by the action of the oil, but are prevented from breaking."

The Drowned Man.

We mentioned in our last the fact of the drowning of an unknown colored man from Hutchings' flat, at the foot of Princess street, on the night of Tuesday last. It has since transpired that the man who had been seen on the flat was one John Ray, well known about the wharf. He had been employed on a lighter during a part of the day, but left it and went on board of the flat, from whence it is supposed he fell over board and was drowned. He was last seen sitting on the corner of the cabin, and soon afterwards a splash was heard and some one on shore cried out, "Man overboard." Parties in the cabin of the flat rushed out, but saw no signs of the drowning man except the bubbles on the water. Ray lived on Eleventh, between Market and Dock streets, and his wife, who was down the street enquiring about him yesterday, says she has not seen him since Tuesday morning. He was about 40 years old, came here from Texas on the schooner Ajaz, which arrived here with a number of "Mustangs" a year or so ago, and got married about two or three months since.

Magistrate's Court. Lucinda James, colored, had a hearing before Justice McQuigg, yesterday morn ing, upon the charge of committing assault upon one Lucy Jones, colored, both of Middle Sound. Case dismissed on the
