Gen. Grant has decided not to visit New York this winter.

Senator Ben Hill is in his seat. Blame has not yet returned. Peace reigns at Warsaw.

The new Secretary of War, Ramsey, is a Pennsylvanian by birth, and is one of the old Grant regime.

Several resolutions have been introduced into the House expressive of American sympathy for Ireland.

Richmond, Va., with 70,000 inhabitants, had 115 deaths in November, divided as follows: whites 56, colored

The ladies of New York are strongly moving against the practice of tendering spirituous liquors to male visitors on New Year's day. Good.

It reads a little curious that Maj. A. E. Richards, formerly of Col. Mosby's famous horse, was the Chief Marshal of the Grant reception at Louisville. He at least is reconstructed.

Representative Blackburn bas a way of his own in saying things. For instance, he says of the Grant boom in the South: "I think it is a sublunary insane inspiration of a few

Whilst the papers and some of the members of Congress are urging that nothing be done as to the finances this session, a flood of resolutions proposing all sorts of legislation on the subject is being poured into both houses.

The Richmond State is often pointed and felicitous in its paragraphs. Read this:

"It is suggested that we ought to prepare for a yellow fever epidemic next spring, as the Readjusters will probably be taken with the black vomit about the first of April.

ALA near personal relation of Mr. Tilden authorizes the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger to tell the country that Mr. Tilden has not abdicated, and will not abdicate in favor of Mr. Randall or any one else. He believes the people will stand by him.

The Washington Post has a special correspondent in the Second district on Saturday night. of North Carolina writing up the exodus movement. We publish under the head of Current Comment what is offered. dent writes from Goldsboro on the 8th inst. He says:

"The negroes have been told that until the 1st of May, 1880, they will be allowed transportation gratis from Washington, from which point a special train will run weekly for their accommodation. These and many other equally ridiculous and false inducements have been held out."

He makes a strange mistake as to the population of New Berne. He gives the whites at 22,000, negroes 4,400. We suppose about 3,000 whites would be correct. It appears that two negro emissaries of the Emigrant Aid and Colonization Societies, named Williams and Perry, went among the negroes and started the movement. Mr. A. J. Galloway told the correspondent:

"I am satisfied that Perry and Williams were carrying them to Indiana for political purposes. They exerted great influence over them, and worked on their duplicity. Perry at first secured a fee of twenty-five cents each for registering their names, but subsequently increased the price to two dollars, which he compelled them to pay, ostensibly to meet his expenses to Indiana as their advance agent. He was afterwards indicted for forgery, and was compelled to deposit a collateral of $100 before a magistrate's court at La Grange. This he compelled the negroes to pay by assessment. He finally defaulted and ran away, leaving his $100 behind. The second movemen of those part of whom are now in Washngton) was by pre-arrangement.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnston's appointment by the Military Committee of the House to reorganize the United States army, gives much satisfaction, we are told. He is eminently qualified, but the Stalwart organs will howl over it, or we are no prophet. The Richmond Dispatch's Washington correspondent remarks:

"it seems strange to many that even the greatest surviving captain of the Confederacy should be called upon to reorganize the army now under the command of the general to whom he surrendered. This shows what a wonderful country this is, and how rapidly we would be one people if the politicians would only let us alone. The army officers will be better satisfied that General Johnson should do this work than that it should be committed to civilians who do not understand when changes and reducitons can be profitably made.'

The Philadelphia Times's special says Speaker Randall is not so much ooking out for Mr. Tilden's chances as for his own. He is for serving, it seems, the Pennsylvania Samuel J and not the New York Samuel J The Tilden men are said to be hopeless of securing him, so they "are looking at the Speaker as the best man with whom they can beat Mr. Bayard." If Seymour does not prevent his own nomination, all such movements as that indicated above will be futile and unnecessary.

Some of the tobacco men are in Washington endeavoring to get a tax on tea and coffee, that a further reduction may be made on tobacco. They would do well to move slowly in this direction. Members who drink coffee and tea, but do not use tobacco, may take a notion to remedy any deficit by a return to the old tax on tobacco. The present Congress will hardly gratify the tobacco men.

Messrs. Thurman, McDonald, Bayard, Garland and Lamar are the Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee who recommended the confirmation of Secretary McCrary to be United States Judge. In what his peculiar fitness consists we are not told. They must have been satisfied that he would do.

We copy the following bit of testimony from Mr. Keogh, which we find in the Washington letter to the Richmond Dispatch:

"Mr. Keogh, Chairman of the North Carolina Republican State Committee, was at the Capitol to-day, and in commenting on a case in the Supreme Court said the western towns and corporations had repudiated a thousand dollars for every hundred repudiated in the South."

The New York dry goods market is excited. Cotton goods are steadily advancing. Woollen goods and carpets are firm and active.

The jailor refused, and said if they would come in the day-time they could see him. The jailor then hid himself, thinking they would leave. But they were bound to have the prisoners, and therefore took axes and broke the doors and lock and released him, and also another prisoner by the name of Shehan. The Great Oak of Brunswick.

A correspondent at Supply, Brunswick county, tells us of the "Great Oak" of Brunswick. It stands at the junction of the roads leading from Wilmington and Smithville, twenty-seven miles from the first named and seventeen miles from the last named place, and one mile from the Lockwood's Folly river. It has probably for upwards of fifty years past furnished the weary traveller, as he plodded his way through the scorching sands characteristic of that portion of the road, with an ample and inviting shade beneath its spreading branches, which, by a recent calculation. has been ascertained to cover an area of ten thousand square feet, (nearly a quarter of an acre). The trunk of the tree just above the ground measures in diameter seven feet and six inches. It is of the red oak species, andlis familiarly known as the "Big Oak." Notwithstanding the great age of the venerated tree it still presents to the eye of the beholder the appearance of being perfectly sound and healthy, and will probably for years to come continue to be the King Oak of Brunswick county.

Attempted Sutcide. A colored girl by the name of Fanny Hayes, who lives on the premises corner of Fifth and Mulberry streets, went to a drug store a few nights since and called for five cents worth of laudanum, securing which she went home, swallowed the contents of the bottle, and laid herself down to die. She had been asleep probably an hour, when, upon an attempt being made to awake her, the soundness of her slumber aroused the suspicion that something was wrong. It then transpired that a little girl saw her bring something from the drug store in a bottle and drink it, whereupon the druggist was applied to and confirmed the statement, assuring her friends, however, that there was not enough of the laudanum to prove fatal, and advising them to get her upon her feet as quickly as possible and keep her stirring until the effects of the poison had passed off. At last accounts she had very nearly recovered. Jealousy is said to have been the cause of the attempt upon
