A colored woman was out cutting wood just beyond the southeastern limits of the city, near Jumping Run, yesterday morning, when she discovered a spot where the ground had been considerably disturbed recently, as if something had been buried there, and upon probing about with her axe finally came upon a wooden box. Her first impression was that she had hit upon a big "bonanza" in the shape of a box of money, but upon removing the lid she found that the contents was nothing more nor less than a young baby, which had been buried only a little over a foot beneath the surface of the ground. She immediately came to town and reported the circumstance, when Special Coroner A. H. Leslie summoned a jury and held an inquest over the remains, which proved to be those of an infant, supposed to be white. The verdict of the jury was, that it was placed there by some unknown person, and that the cause of death

Capt. Walker, of the British brig Maria Lamb, which arrived here from Port Natal, Zululand, on Monday, was exhibiting to his friends yesterday one of the famous Zulu staffs, which was picked up on the battle-field, and which is said to have pierced the body of a young British lieutenant two days before the Prince Imperial was killed. These staffs are of wood, tipped with poisoned steel, the poisonons sub stance being beaten into the steel. Even scratch on the hand is said to be dangerous, and the person receiving such a wound is usually put to a great deal of trouble to get rid of it. The one in question, which attracts a great deal of attention, has been relieved of its poisonous properties.

Capt. Walker says he enjoyed the acquaintance of the Prince Imperial.

Money Diggers. Yesterday morning, while Mr. J. F. Stolter, in company with his insurance agent, was examining into the damage sustained by his building by the fire of Sunday morning last, a little boy found under the house, near where the fire was first discovered, an iron rod, about five feet inlength, such as is commonly used by "money diggers" in their searches after buried treasure. Mr. Stolter says he run off a party who were digging for money under this house on one occasion, and has had several applications from colored people since for permission to try their luck there. It is likely that some one was engaged in probing for money pots under the house (which is unoccupied) Saturday night and that it was through some carelessness on their part that fire was set to the build-

The Mayor then announced that the Board was ready to take up the case of Mr. Nutt, and Mr. Junius Davis, one of the counsel for that gentleman, came forward and read Mr. Nutt's petition and the affidavits accompanying the same.

the whole suit, and that he desired to state a few facts in connection with the matter. He explained the nature of the suit, and argued in favor of the Board compromising the judgment with Mr. Nutt.

Mr. Cutlar, former City Attorney, stated that he was still of the opinion that the Board had no right to make any compromise of the judgment with Mr. Nutt.

Col. D. K. McRae, of counsel for Mr. Nutt, argued in favor of the right of the Board to compromise the judgment, and stated that Mr. Nutt was ready to pay half the amount of the judgment; otherwise, he would move for a new trial, which, in view of the new facts comprised in the affidavits presented to the Board, he had no doubt would be granted.

Mr. Darby, City Attorney, being present, was requested to give the Board his views of the case. He stated that he had looked in vain for authority by which this Board might relieve or compromise with Mr. Nutt, and still held to his opinion that the matter

NOT WITHOUT PERMISSION.—It is a pity

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and beceming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the, father found the baby still werse, and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some demestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and sald nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended with the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudices of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle.

below. A description says:

The telegraph announced the death of William Hepworth Dixon, one of the most entertaining of recent Eng- in the South on his "Prison Expelish authors. He was the writer of rience in Libby." He is a warm histories and of books of travel, and friend of the South, but his best all were enjoyable. He was born in Yorkshire in 1821. He was for some own people who do not understand years the editor of the London Athenœum, one of the best of the English literary weeklies. We copy from an exchange the following, which gives his chief works, if not all: "Personal History of Lord Bacon,' the 'Lives of the Archbishops of York,' the 'Holy Land,' and 'New America.' In 1868 he published 'Spiritual Wives,' which was soon followed by 'Free Russia,' 'Her Ma esty's Tower,' the 'Switzers,' and the 'History of Two Queens; Catherine of Arragon and Anne Boleyn.' His most notable book concerning American subjects is 'White Conquest,' published in two large volumes."

One work of his which we have read, not mentioned in the above, is his defence of William Penn, it being a reply to Lord Macaulay's strictures as contained in his splendid historical torso. His "New America" is well worth reading. He throws considerable light on a phase or two of New England society. When one remembers the experiences of the Democrats in the Electoral Commission business, and the 8 to 7 count, it is a little bit cool in ex-Senator Morrill to invite Gov. Garcelon to go before a Republican Supreme Court to decide a question involving election returns. This is the way the Philadelphia Record regards it and says: "The Supreme Court Judges of Maine are every man of them Republicans, and they owe their places to the Republican party. The questions they would be called upon to arbitrate are of a political character. It would be hard for them to forget partisan interests in deciding them. Judges which once enveloped the judicial office with the glamor of infallibility has been rudely dispelled by too many melancholy ustauces of infirmity, cowardice and corruption on the part of those who wear the metaph rical ermine The temptation in is case would be great." No man can read the Republican spers just now without hearty disgust. As far as we have noticed they justify the course of the Bangor mob. The New York Journal of Commerce, a paper of honesty and convictions and independence, says most truly of the threatened insurrection: "The fact that it is approved and de fended by Republican journals and speak ers outside of the excited community where it occurred, shows the arrogance and selfjustification in wrongdoing which are born of a long lease of power unscrupulously exercised. If the position of the parties were reversed in that State, the General Government would have been called upon for troops to aid in the suppression of that 'rebellious and treasonable' demonstration, and to escort the arms to the capitol." Hart, or the "Smoked Irish man," as he is called, in the six days' walking-match in New York that ended Saturday night last, beat Rowell's time, and made a score ahead of all others with the exception of Weston's in London in 1879. He made 540 miles. Krohne made splendid score, making 536; Faber followed close, making 531, and then came others close up-Pegram making 527, Fitzgerald 520, Hughes 520, Williams 502, Campana 500, O'Brien 484, and six others, all making 450 miles and upwards. The winner got How is this? The papers said Grant refused Belknap an audience The New York Sun tells a very different story. Not only Belknap, but another fellow of Grant's cabinet, more corrupt but smarter, Robeson, once Secretary of the Navy, had long private conference with their old boss. The Sun well says: "Grant's managers have grown more confident than they were. They no longer pay the public the poor compliment of keeping these men in the background until after the nomination. They are brought to the front, where they really belong, and henceforth there will be no attempt at concealment." The farmers are indeed the backbone and stay of a country. In the South fortunately they are the controlling power in politics. The products of American farms for 1879 are alued at $1,904,480,650. That is to say, they are three times more than the manufactures, great as they are. It is a little sungular that the latter must be nursed at the expense of the former. Why not have a tariff to protect the farmers? What say the bandment of the Cape Fear Light Our attention has been called to the languishing condition of our military companies, and more especially to that of the Cape Fear Light Artillery. This company was organized in 1875, and since that time the individual members of the company have been to a great deal of expense in order to keep it up. The labor incident to an organization of this particular character is pretty heavy, and as a necessity the uniforms are nearly all worn out, and many of them do not feel themselves able to procure new ones. A city of the size of Wilmington should be able to sustain at least three first-class white military companies. All of us would like to see these military companies kept up and the splendid guns of the Artillery retained in Wilmington. Now, in order to insure all this, our citizens of means must come to the rescue with material aid. NOT WITHOUT PERMISSION.—It is a pity that the names of all the persons who each month draw all the prizes in the monthly scheme of the Louisiana State Lottery Company cannot be published for then it could be seen exactly where every dollar goes to. This could be done but for the reason that some winners object to having their names made known, and it is a rule of the Company not to divulge these without permission. Full information can be obtained in reference to past drawings, or the next mouthly one to take place on the 13th January, by addressing M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or New York,
