WILMINGTON, N. C.:

TUESDAY MORNING, Jan. 6, 1880.

BISMARCK'S PEACE PLANS. Whether the European Governmente shall favor Bismarck's new peaceable scheme or not; or whether or not they are disposed to give him credit for his pacific propositions, there appears to be some grounds for believing that he is sincere at least in desiring to have the armaments of the Great Powers reduced very considerably. It is stated by the London correspondent of the Scotsman that "the attention of the English government has lately been directed to the projects of disarmament put forward by Prince Bismarck; that despite the recent qualifying statements Prince Bismarck has projected a scheme for gradual disarmament, but Austria is the only Continental Power which has yet given absolute adhesion to the scheme. In diplomatic circles, the correspondent savs, it is expected that Prince Bismarck will make a declaration on the subject shortly, but there does not seem to be much confidence felt in the integrity of his motives."

We had occasion to say recently that Bismarck had discovered at last that the main cause of the great prostration of trade on the Continent was owing to the immense armies and the expenditures incident thereto. When we look at the military strength of the various countries it is not difficult to see why their prosperity should be imperriled by the vast cost thus entailed upon them. Russia has a military force number ing 3,046,800 men, of whom 600,000 belong to the reserve and 2,446,800 to the standing army. The regular army of France comprises 1,089,000 soldiers of all arms; the territorial army, 1,208,000; total, 2,289,000; to be increased in 1892 by the addition of 300,000 reserve men to 2,723,000. The German power, of all classes, is represented by 2,004,300 men, of whom 1,00 6,200 belong to the standing army, 307,200 to the landwehr, and 620,900 to the reserve. Italy has an army of $98,000 and a militia of 310,000. In 1892, when the reserve will number 1,016,200, her total strength will reach 2,024,200. Austro-Hungary possesses a standing army of 800,000, a landwehr of 999,-318, and a reserve of 95,000 men: total, 1,194,318. The grand total of all these forces amounts to 16,471. 918, the standing armies alone numbering 6,925,000.

Think of sixteen million men being withdrawn from all hinds of production and becoming consumers merely. These men are learning nothing by which to make a country great and prosperous. Their sole business is destruction. The Manchester (Eng.) Examiner, considering the magni-tude of European armies, says:

are bound to re-enter the ranks when quired. The mind refuses to grasp the full significance of these portentous figures, but it may safely be affirmed that so long as these bloated armamus are suffered to exist Europe can count neither on lasting commercial prosperity nor on a long continuance of peace."

As we understand it, there are not more than 7,000,000 who are on duty the remainder being on furlough But they are not producing; they are merely consuming what the labor of others produces, so they are a burden upon society. Bismarck's plan ought to be met in a spirit of fairness, and if Germany will set the example of reducing the army the other Powers ought to follow willingly and in good faith.

SANITARY ENGINEERING.

We referred before to a pamphlet by Wm. Cain, published by the North Carolina Board of Health for the information of the people, with the title written at the head of this article. It gives just such information as every community needs. The remedies and necessary instructions how to use them are laid before the reader in a plain, concise manner.

The North Carolina Medical Jour al for November has a short article upon the subject of sanitary engi neering, from which we copy a paragraph or so for the benefit of all concerned. It says:

"The dry-earth privy system as set forth in this pamphlet should attract the attention of the officers of every municipal corporation particularly, and the public in general. The utter neglect of any system, and the vile and disgusting way the great majority of privies in our towns and vilages are allowed to remain, is a sure sign that our boasted civilization has not reached ts acme. There is bardly a town on the Southern Atlantic coast, where the night air is not loaded in the summer and fall months with noisome effluvia. The dry earth system is a remedy for this evil, and should be generally adopted. The people should not wait for corporation officers to get it through their slow brains, but each citizen should commence for the reform for himself, for poverty could hardly be an obstacle to this improvement, as the whole cost would be exceedingly small. Once initiated the dry-earth system will take firm hold upon those communities having no general water supply or sewerage system. The way to make this reform general is for its adoption by a citizen here and there, and soon its superiority would be so appaally a healthy public opinion would be

If what the papers tell of the shooting of young Morgan in Washington is true, then the sympathy of the public will be with the injured young lady. Miss Horton, who fired the shot, is a daughtar of the late Gen. Horton, of Alabama. Here is her own story, as told to the correspondent of the Baltimore American:

"In 1877, when she was in her seventeenth year, young Morgan paid his addresses to her in Alabama, and they were soon betrothed. Under the promise of mar riage he wronged her. Subsequently young: Morgan came to Washington as private se-cretary to his father, and left her to disgrace. She wrote to Senator Spencer and Senator Conkling, detailing her wrongs; but, accomplishing nothing, came to this city last spring. After entering her suit she obtained a position in the Treasury, from which she was removed a few weeks ago. She subsequently learned that her discharge was due to the influence of Morgan's friends. His friends have persecuted her beyond endurance because she has refused to deiver them the love letters written to her by Mergan, which she intends to introduce as evidence in the suit. Wherever she has obtained lodgings they have come and represented to the owner of the house that she was an improper character.

"The meeting to-day on G street was entirely accidental. She had had the pisto some time. When she saw Morgan she could not resist the impulse to shoot him for, she said, 'I would rather be hanged for murdering him than continue to lead a ife of misery. "Miss Horton, who has a very preposses sing face, with dark hair and eyes, was neatly attired in black. She appeared to be very cool and unconcerned, and answered the usual inquiries of the station-keeper very concisely. She said she was eighteen year

The price of coal appears to be reg alated to some extent by the demand for iron. Just as there has been an increased demand for the latter has there been an advance in the former. During 1869, 4,000 miles of new track were laid, and some 3,000 miles of old track were replaced. The Baltimore American says of the prospects in

"This means the consumption of 2,500, tons of iron this year by the railway interest alone. A year ago there were less than 100 iron furnaces in blast; now there are 275, and if present preparations are carried out, this year there will be nearly 700. Last year the anthracite coal product was about 16,000,000 tons, and this year over 25,000,000 tons; and unless some unforeseen disaster shall check the tide of prosperity, it is only reasonable to suppose that coal mining and transportation facili-ties will this year be drawn upon to the utmost of their capacity."

Menlo Park is lighted nightly with Edison's new lamps. He is having eight hundred constructed. He has one lamp that has been burning uninterruptedly for seventeen days, and still the sceptics say it is a failure. In the meantime the great genius is experimenting and testing his lamp so as to remedy any defects that may be discovered. And now Dr. George W. Bagby has been heard from. He too has written a letter-an open letter at that and he is for Grant and thinks the South ought to be. Good bye dictatorial role of monarchival au-"They form the first line, and all would, of course, he at ones called out in the event of a general, that is not only direct that the great milliary powers have at their only intended to be a sort of "Mexis or are now learning, the soldier's art, and Addums" production, all just for fun.

George. George is tired of cold thority, the sic volo sic juneo manner of an autocrat, that is not only directly opposed to the apirit of our institutions, but is highly insulting to the bales, of which 38,401 were to Great whole people, not alone of Maine, but Britain, 9,200 to France, and 27,517

The best joke in regard to the negro exodus is perpetrated by that wart sheet, the Indianapolis Journal. It is fully per suaded in its own capacious mind that the exodus business is all a Dem cratic plot. Just so. It is the same kind of Democratic plot that enabled them to give Haves the seat of Tilden in order that they might charge corruption and fraud and carry the country in 1880. It is the same kind of Democratic plot that created the Electoral Commission with eight Radicals to out-vote seven Democrats. It is the same sort of Democratic plot that sent Grant abroad and keeps him abroad that he may be nominated for a third term.

If Grant is nominated he will succeed in accomplishing one good deed: he will arouse the best elements of the country in determined opposition. Every man who loves civil liberty and has at heart the safety and welfare of the country will put on his armor to do battle against the great despot and blunderer. There are signs to show that even the old Greeley Liberals of 1872 will antagonize the Grant movement. It has been announced that the old Liberal Republican League of 1872 will hold a conference in New York early in February. Among them are Bristow, Schurz, Halstead, W. F. Storey, George William Curtis, Horace White, and others.

Col. Wm. J. Clarke, in his new Republican paper, The Signal, made some comments unfavorable to the whites, in which he charged that the negroes were not treated fairly and with justice in the courts. We did not see his article, but we find the following reply in the Kinston Journal, which, at the close of an editorial, headed "Slander," says:

"This charge of injustice comes with peculiar grace from Judge Clarke, who while holding Superior Court in Leneir county a few years ago, is openly reported as having made, in substance, the following charge to the Jury, not to take up the time of the Court in finding bills on petty and frivolous matters, as for STEALING A CHICKEN OR A PIG."

The white population of Wilmington is 6,776; colored 10,288. Deaths among whites 154, or 22.7 in the one thousand. Deaths among colored 341, or 33.1 in the one thousand. It will thus be seen in what excess are the deaths among the negroes over those among the whites.

CURRENT COMMENT.

-- Gen. Grant in coming to the South emphasizes this policy in bringing with him Gen. Sheridan, a man as different from the ideal soldier as Gen. Grant is from the ideal President of a Constitutional Republic. The chosen companion of Gen. Grant in his Southern tour is the barn-burner of the Valley of Virginia; the bully who branded the people of Louisiana and Mississippi as "banditti," and invited the President so to proclaim them, and leave the rest to him. It is just five years ago that Gen. Sheridan sent the infamous telegrams to Secretary Belknap. The answer swiftly came on January 6, 1875: "The President and all of us have full confidence, and thoroughly approve your course." Nothing is wanting on Gen. Grant's part to show that he comes to the South as a soldier, and that barrack-room methods and parade-ground rules are as dear to him as evel - Charleston News and Courier, Dem.

-- No sane human being can doubt that if the votes legally deposited in the ballot boxes could be legally counted the Republicans would have a majority of the Legislature. The citizens honestly did their part in depositing their votes in a strictly legal manner. They ought not to be defrauded of their choice by the negligence of the returning officers, unless the law is so explicit and absolute that no way can be found for making the popular will effective. When technicalities are made to obstruct right and justice, Governor Garcelon himself should rejoice to have a way pointed ont to him by which the intentions of the voters could be respected without any violation of law. There is nothing which he should so much desire as to be relieved from the odious responsibility of nullifying the votes which were legally and honestly put into the ballot boxes. He will make a great blunder if he refuses to submit the points to the Court .- N. Y. Herald, Ind.

- The Maine difficulty does not appear to have been brought any nesrer a pesceful solution by the submission of the several points to the Sapreme Court which Governor Garcelon has made, particularly when we are informed in advance that he will not consider himself bound by its decision, and only seeks it as he might the advice of any num-ber of lawyers. This is trifling with the matter, and in some States or communities the Governor would find himself playing with fire. It looks to us as if, instead of acting the part of peace maker himself, as every Governor of an American State should in such cases, he has in the most insolent manner assumed the

HIS PIRST DRUNK

An Influence that the Governors of North and south Carolina Had.

[Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette.] "I am sixty years old, and never got drunk till day before yesterday," remarked old Uncle Jesse White, as he sat on a salt barrel in front of a grocery store. "I have lived in Arkansas for forty year-cum hear from East Tennessy-and the thought that I got drunk in the evening of my life, when I can just see my gray hairs shining in the twilight, is enough to make me throw myself into the river." "Tell us how it occurred, Uncle Jesse," asked a bystander.

"Well, some time ago, up is our neighborhood," and he stopped talking and drew his pipe vigorously to see if the fire was out; "a Good Templar's Lodge was organized. All the young people in the community jined, and pretty soon they camme after me.

My son Ike was the leadin' man, and he says to me, 'Pap, I want you to jine this thing.' 'Ike,' says I, 'I don't know the taste of liquor, and I don't see the use of jinen.' 'Pap,' says he, 'we want your influence. We are gwine to vote on the local option law pretty soon, and we want you publicly identified with the work.' Then my daughter Susan, she come around and begged to jine. 'Susan,' says I, 'you never seed your old father take a drink.' 'No, pap,' says she, 'but we want you to help us frown down the curse of intemperance.' Next our parson come around and sot my wife on me, and when they all got to drummin' I had to jine. I jined on a Friday night, and on the following Saturday I got on the boat to come down here. Somethin' ailed me. Somethin' kept sayin' Jesse White, you ain't a free man. It bothered me, and when I saw one of the deck hands turn up a jug I wondered if he had ever taken the pledge, and when he set down the jug I walked around and looked at it, took hold of the corn cob stopper, walked away and smelt my fingers. I went up on deck and sat down in front. Pretty soon two men come out and sat down. After a while one of them remarked: 'The Governor of North Carolina said to the Governor of South Caro lina,' and without finishing the sentence both men laughed and drank out of a big black bottle. Thar was somethin' in that Governor business that took me. had heard my father talk about it and laugh. I had often heard it but no one had ever been positive what it was that the Governor said, only that the time between had been rather long. Pretty soon one of the men reached down, took up the bottle, took out the cork, and said: 'The Governor of North Carolina said to the --. ' Then both men laughed and drank. I never felt so curious in my life. I looked around at the trees on the bank, and at women who waved their handkerchiefs at us as we passed. Those Governors had a ring about them that tingled through my old blood. Just then one of the men turned, held the bottle toward me, and said: 'The Governor of North --. Before I knew it I had hold of the bottle. I turned it up and drank. All I thought about was the Governor, and when the shadows of Ike, Susan, the parson, and my wife flitted through my brain, the two Governors, tall and grand, stalked right up and ran over them. 'The Governor of North Carolina' and I had taken another pull, and a long one. I began to see the Governors in their true light. I thought that they were the best fellows in the world. The boat seemed to be runnin' a mile a minute, and I didn't care what she did so long as the Governors were with us. Well. boys, the Governors kept a remarkin' and I kept a pullin', and by the time I got to Little Rock I was as drunk as an owl. Oh, I was as drunk as a mule-a mink. I got off the boat and yelled, 'Hoorah for the Governor of North Carolina l' and the first thing
