THURSDAY MORNING, Jan. 15, 1880

THE CLOUDS THICKEN.

The Maine difficulties thicken hour ly. What will be the final upshot would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer or the champion guesser. It is as sumed by Gen. Chamberlain, in his reply to Mr. Lamson, who claims to be the acting Governor, that the latter is not Governor either de facto or de jure, and that not being allowed himself, as he is of the military, to refer the question at issue-to wit whether he shall continue to exercise his authority or not which was conferred upon him by Governor Garce lon-to the Supreme Court for decision, he is left no alternative but to continue his trust in order that "anarchy and bloodshed may be prevented." This military genius proposes to follow strictly "the constitution and the laws." When was it ever heard of before in this land of law and freedom that in any State there should be a complete interregnum, that there should be no civil authority whatever for days or weeks, and that a militia offi cer-in this instance literally a soldier of fortune-should hold within his own right hand all the powers of the State? When before was it eve heard of that in a free country-in State boasting of its high civilization its morality, its obedience to lawwas there a real condition of anarchy such as often prevails in the ill-starred Mexico? The truth is Maine is now thoroughly Mexicanized. A Major General of the military force of the State, after seizing the reins of go vernment, gravely announces that he means to continue to exercise his functions, and that in doing so he is obey ing strictly the constitution and laws.

It is true Gen. Chamberlain justifies his course by assuming, correctly or incorrectly, that there is no civil government, and there is no other way for him to act. It is believed or in sisted upon by the Republicans, (and Chamberlain, no doubt, means to favor them), that there was no legally elected Senate of which Mr. Lamson claimed to be the President, and that, therefore, he could not succeed Gov. Garcelon as Chief Executive. In fact, the counsel for the Republican Advisory Committee, Mr. Baker, gives it as his opinion that since January ment, all the offices being vacant by limitation and no successors having been appointed. There is probably no doubt of one thing: that it is the duty of the Pres ident of the Senate to succeed the Governor when a vacancy occurs. whether by death, removal or any other way. It is said by those who pretend to know that this is the law of Maine as expounded by the highest judicatory of the State. In 1830 it was held by the Supreme Court, a vacancy having occurred in the Gubernatorial chair, that the President of the Senate must act as Governor until a dispute as to who had been elected Governor had been properly decided. Mr. Lamson now assumes to be Governor by virtue of his office as President of the Senate. General Chamberlain refuses to acknowledge his authority for the reasons already

The point is, is there a Legislature? The Republicans appear to have recognized Mr. Lamson as really and truly Governor, for they called upon him to perform an act which he had no right to perform if a usurper or pretender. They called upon him, it will be remembered, as the acting Governor, to qualify their Senators. But this was refused on the part of Lamson. He evidently did not wish to have the Republicans to qualify. He pretended to have doubts as to whether or not he had the right as President of the Senate to qualify as Governor. This was a trick -a dodge probably to serve his present purposes. At any rate, he soon after changed his mind, when there were no Republican claimants to be sworn in, and assumed the duties and functions of the Gubernatorial Chair.

Another point presents itself. Is there any force in the assumption of Gen. Chamberlain that there is an interregnum because there is no Legislature, and consequently no President of a Senate who can succeed to the Governor's office. The Philadelphia Times takes this view of the

"Looking to the equities of the case, it is manifest that Mr. Lamson has no claim ipon the Executive office, because he has been chosen President of the Senate by Senators fraudulently returned under color of law; but he is the legal presiding officer, and as such is the legal Governor, and without any one to dispute for the place. As he will hold only pending the election of a Governor, his assumption of the duties of the Executive office should be favored by all as the only refuge from anarchy. If his right to act as Governor is disputed on any ground, he should take the place at once and by the consent of all, and let the questions be promptly carried to the Supreme Court by writ of quo, warranto. The friends of honest elections have everything to gain by facilitating the decision of all isputes in the evidently honest courts of the State.

The distinction here drawn is fine. The Times takes the ground that a man who holds office against equity and through fraud may be nevertheess the legal Governor. It might have cited Hayes as an example. He was elected against "the equities" and by votes "fraudulently returned under color of law." He was none the less duly inaugurated as President, and for three years nearly has exercised its authority, during that time having drawn nearly $150,000 of salary that of right belongs to Samuel J. Tilden, who was elected to the office by a majority of the qualified voters of the United States. Hayes, thus coming into office, was recognized throughout the country as de facto the President, although no sane and unprejudiced man believed for a moment that he was such de jure. The Democrats, who had been cheated and violated in their rights, submitted to save the country from "anarchy and bloodshed."

The Maine Republicans ought to do likewise. If they would prevent scenes that will remain a stigma and a reproach through all time, they will recognize Governor Lamson, although he may never have been raised to the chair of Chief Executive honestly and fairly. We think the Times is correct when it says that he should 'be favored by all as the only refuge from anarchy."

We must add one other remark. We rejoice that the scenes that have been enacted did not occur in any Southern State. We are delighted in the reflection, that if such turbulence and threatened anarchy must ocour, that they occurred in New England. In that section, as all informed persons know, the first threats of secession were made and the first revolt against the United States government occurred. From 1800 to 1820 there was but little real attachment to the General Government cherished in New England. In 1861 the people of that section became the hottest persecutors of the South, and that, too, because the South attempted to do what New England threatened for years to attempt to do -to leave the Union. Since 1865 the South has had but few friends in New England. Its ess has fairly teemed with denuncia tions, slanders and falsehoods. The Maine people are now showing to the country that with all of their long training in the school of liberty, with all of their educational advantages and familiarity with history, they are a lawless, turbalent people, moved by impulse and passion, and wholly incapable of self-government. will be interesting to watch farther the unrolling of the political panorama.

not have the circulation it claimed. This induces Mr. England, the business manager to propose to put up $5,000, Kerry to do the same, matter of the circulation referred to a committee of three, to be composed of Sinclair Tousey, Esq., President of the American News Company, the Hon. John Kelly, Comptroller of the City of New York, and David M. Stone, Esq., editor of the New York Journal of Commerce. If the Sun fails to establish its case then it forfeits its money. If it succeeds then Kelly's $5,000 is to go. In either case the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum of that city is to receive the money The Sun has a very large circulation and is a paper of rare ability. Its fault is it is extreme, ultra, one-sided, and, it is suspected of not being any more honest than it ought to be. It hits hard and heavy, but it does not always hit in the right place and the right person. It is not a Democratic paper as is thought by some. It often aids the Democrats and it often aids the Republicans. It is no real friend of the South. It has shown often that it had no appreciation of the South or its people. It sometimes says things that are kind, but it is more apt to be malignant. It is a powerful ally that parades its honesty and independence. Its chief editor was once a conspicuous Republican. As a foe it is dangerous.

PATHER RYAN'S VOLUME.

Father Ryan is one of the few writers of verse in the South who has the genuine gift of song and the divine afflatus. His volume of poems recently published will have a large sale in the South we cannot 'doubt. The North knows but little of him or any other man of genius who is not "native and to (its) manner born." The first notice of the new volume appears in the New York World, which, like the Tribune, bestows no little care upon its literary feature. It is a sort of damning with faint praise. It begins with this very know

"Father Ryan" is a Southern poet who is known by name, and by one or two of his pieces, to most readers of newspaper

A gentleman of culture in the South knows the poets of all lands and times. He is as familiar with the writings of Dans, Bryant, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Taylor, Stedman, Saxe, Piatt and all the others of the singing brotherhood as he is with the Victorian poets or those of his own beloved sunny land, Poe, Tickner, Wilde, Thompson, Timrod, Hayne and the remainder of the gifted few. But the World critic has heard of such a man as Ryan and has read in the papers "one or two of his pieces." Father Ryan has written some exquisite verse-some passionate and meditative productions that will live long among his own people, and will finally take their place among the choice inspirations of this era of American literature. It is not partiality or sectionalism. that leads us. to indulge this bit of prophecy. We think we know the difference between clever verse wrlting and genuine inspiration, between literary experiments and that royal apparel in which the thoughts of genius enrobe themselves. To us the Mobile Priest is a singer who has truth to utter, and with a poet's instinct and art "bodies it forth" in words of melody and strength.

We have not read the volume, but we have read scores of his minor poems as they have appeared from time to time. The World critic

"Father Ryan's poems of the war are the best known of his verses, but they are not, we think, the best, and they form only a small portion of the whole. Stirring lyrics, by which he is most known, are not so sincere an expression of the author as more meditative verses. The preface apologizes for the lack of poetical finish in them. This apology seems to be quite sincere, but the occasion for it is mainly evident in the meagre character, and the small capabilities of many of the metres which he has cho-This defect is not to be ascribed to a lack of sense of the music of verse, which s shown very often in an unusual degree. It may be that the author is right in attributing it to the haste in which most of the

The financial condition of Mississippi appears to be healthful and satisfactory. The Governor, in his message to the Legislature, makes satisfactory and hopeful exhibit. The State debt has been reduced $220,000 in the last two years; active present indebtedness, $379,000; balance in the Treasury, $800,000. He refers to and approves the codification of the laws lately prepared by Justice Campbell, of the Supreme Court, under direction of the last session of the Legislature.

The last count from Indiana Republicans showed that out of 4.036 heard from, 1,406 are for Blaine, 1. 152 for Grant, 1,018 for Sherman, 75 for Hayes, 65 for Washburne, 32 for Garfield, and the rest may be called lished that the New York Sun did scattering.

The scientific man who calls himself Sawyer has invented a lamp he claims to be on the same principle as son's. He and others are trying o prevent the great inventor from obtaining a patent. A Washington special to the New York Sun says: "They allege that Edison's so-called inrention is not new, and assert that precisely the same principle—the carbon arc-was used in the Sawyer-Man lamp over eighteen months prior to Edison's first experiments with it They have filed with this application for an interference one of the lamps so used by Sawyer and Man in public exhibitions more than a year ago. There promises to be as vigorous and well-contested a fight on inteferences in electric light patents as there has been on telephone interferences."

Who ever heard of Sawyer and his light until Edison startled the world with his new horse-shoe light?

We regret to see it announced that Frank Leslie, the noted publisher, is dead, aged 59. He was an enterprising man, and was a pioneer in the publication of cheap illustrated periodicals in the United States. · He gave his name to his half dozen or more periodicals, and hence it was a household word. An exchange says:

"Mr. Leslie's name was originally Henry Carter. He was born in Ipswich, England. where his father, Joseph Carter, was a glove manufacturer. He learned that frade, and at the age of 17 was sent to London. He then devoted himself to art and became a sketcher on the London Illustrated News, and subsequently on the Pictorial Times. Three sons, Henry, Alfred and Scipio, were born to him in four years. He came to this country in 1848 He became, in 1850, permanently connected with Gleason's Pictorial in Boston, and from 1851 to 1852 had charge of Barnum & Beach's Illustrated Newspaper of New York. In 1853 he began business as publisher on his own account.'

It is thought that Justice may be induced to resign and Sena tor Edmunds will then succeed him. It is said some Democratic Senators are averse to voting for any Republican and may refuse to do it. We do not credit this. The Democratic Senators did not hesitate to make McCrary, a bitter partisan and violently opposed to State Rights, a U. S. District Judge, and they will not refuse to vote for Edmunds, who is a very able lawyer and is not unpopular with them.

The only ground for paying the absentee Senator Sharon his $3,000 of uncarned salary, is that there are a good many Congressmen whom the country could afford to pay for staying away from Washington.

—Baltimore Republican, Rep.

Yes, Blaine, Hamlin, Conger, Garfield, and other fellows of the same stripe can be very well spared, and the country could well "afford to pay" them "for staying away from Washington."

CURRENT COMMENT.

- The Democratic party can make Grant's "calling and election sure" by nominating for the Presidency any man who cannot secure the united support of the Democratic and Conservative voters of the coun-The enthusiastic support of the Democracy of the entire Union to their candidate is absolutely necessary to secure Grant's defeat. If they select a man whose character does not command confidence and universal respect, one whose views do not accord with those of Democrats in large sections of the country, one whose patriotism has been suspected, or one who has been tried and found wanting in any case of great public emergency, they but enter the field to meet certain defeat,-Norwalk Conn.) Democrat, Dem.

-We are gratified to notice that in every section of the country the Democratic press is speaking out in favor of Mr. Seymour. The movement in his favor should assume shape and organization. There is no question he is to-day the choice of the Democracy of the country. In the hour of defeat and disaster, when the Democracy were in the minority, he bore its standard gallantly and fearessly, and now when so much is at stake and when he can lead our hosts to victory he should be put forward as our leader. Let the Democracy speak out at their primary meetings. Let the people come to the front and we have no doubt Mr. Seymour would accept the nomination, and we are equally sure he would be elected. -

Paris (Ky:) Citizen, Dem. Our readers have noticed by our dispatches that Emmons Blaine, son of James G. Blaine, a youth of remarkable precocity and conceit, on the day of the organization of the House attempted to wrench the gavel rom Clerk Gibbs' hands in defiance of the assembled members of the House. Of course this reckless youth knew better, and of course was instructed what to do. The leaders of he mutineers didn't care to hazard heir reputation or personal safety, hence they shoved to the front a hold bad boy, who had no reputation to ose, but if successful it would mak a hero of him. It is well understood that Blaine and Boutelle had long since determined to accomplish by force and usurpation what they should fail of by lawful and peaceful methods. They had been firing the public heart for such an emeute by ncendiary appeals to the lowest passions of the human heart. - Bangor (Me.) Commercial, Dem.

The North Carolina Negroes in Indinna.

| Alexandria Gazette.] There was at the depot of the Alexandria & Washington Railroad this morning a young colored woman trying to make her way back to North Carolina. She stated that she had been induced to leave a pleasant home, in her native State, and go to Indiana. Arriving at Indianapolis she was stationed in a church, packed with emigrants of her own color, from her own section, where she was weeks, receiving only one moal a day and that a very poor one. In reply to an inquiry as to how the emigrants were treated, she said they were treated like dogs, and if the people were disposed to treat them otherwise, they were not in a condition to do so, for they had as much as they could do to take care of themselves. The emigrants cannot procure work, and are suffering and dying from cold and starvation.

Possibly the mischief done by such men as the late deceased Bishop (Haven) may find compensation in some way not yetrevealed to short sighted mortals. He could at least be spared from the politics of the country. - Greensboro Central Protestant.

It is with regret we learn that the North Carolina State Guard are on the decline From every quarter we hear of this com pany and that company going down. The Legislature should have done something for them. The Legislature ought to have passed an act exclusing members of the organization from jury duty, working on public roads and from paying poll tax. Our legislators were remiss in not doing something for this necessary organization.
