THE MAINE DICTATOR.

diminish. The organ of the Demo- the liberties of a free people was beemphatic and resolute. It tells the Republicans that they must submit to the lawfully ordained authorities of the State and obey the laws just as other citizens. We have seen nothing to lead us to change or modify our view of Thursday, that the Republicans, in the interests of peace and good order, should submit to the authority of the acting Governor, whether he was fairly and honestly elected or not, just as the Democrats of the United States submitted to Hayes in 1877 when he was inaugurated, although they knew unqualifiedly and absolutely that he had never been elected President, but held his office through the most shameful and unmitigated fraud and villainy.

The New York Herald's view of the matter we do not think the correct one, and for reasons we have given in former articles by way of anticipation. It thinks that it is a debatable question as to whether Mr. Lamson is the actual Governor or not, and this being so, that General Chamberlain may be justified in refusing to recognize him. It says:

"General Chamberlain does not assume to decide this question for himself. He has no authority to decide it, and awaits an adjudication of the judiciary. We think he stands on safe ground. The rump Legislature having been organized by the Fusionists in defiance of the opinion of the Supreme Judicial Court, the reasonable view for a military officer to take is that the opinion of the Court is entitled to more respect than the contested proceedings of a political faction. He is warranted in continuing to act in pursuance of the order he received from the late Governor until the controversy is decided by some proper and recognized authority. It is all nonsense to describe him as the acting Governor."

This is not the position taken by the Herald in 1876 and 1877. It insisted then that the Democrats should submit to Hayes however much they believed he was not elected. He was de facto President. How the Herald can justify for one moment Gen-Chamberlain's revolutionary and very extraordinary conduct we cannot see.

"By a formal written order of the late Governor he was put in his present command and required to guard and protect the public property of the State until Gov. Garcelon's successor should be appointed and qualified. He has not attempted to exercise any other function. He has not assumed any authority as Governor and does not pretend to any."

Here we see that the Herald correctly gives the source of Chamberlain's authority. All the power he was clothed with was derived from Governor Garcelon and from him alone. But is Garcelon Governor now? When Governor Jarvis appoints Mr. Johnstone Jones Adjutant General does he continue to hold the place under Governor Jarvis's appointment after the successor of Governor Jarvis occupies the Gubernatorial chair. In other words, from

to act now as Dictator in Maine with nis spurs on? If there was ever a usurper on this continent-in Mexico or Central America-that man is Joshua Chamberlain, "Major General." Why, he says he got his authority from Governor Garcelon. How can he hold authority thus derived after the Governor's term of office expires and of course his authority with it? The Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald, an Independent paper, thus puts the case clearly and correctly as we believe:

"Governor Garcelon's authority ceased on Wednesday last, and by the first principles of law he could not delegate to another a right which he did not possess himself. From the people? There has been no popular election. From the Legislature? The Legislature has not yet voted; it is to-day unable to get a quorum of its members together. From President Lamson? President Lamson himself, under an indisputable provision of the constitution, now claims to be acting Governor, and certainly is such de facto if not de jure. We are therefore driven to the conclusion that General Chamberlain has constituted himself dictator by virtue solely of the armed force at his command. If the Republicans do not make haste to stamp this usurper's pretensions with disapproval, they will have no ground hereafter for complaining of the conduct of Governor Garcelon and his Council in taking on themselves the duty of arbitrating where their constitutional functions were limited to ministerial ac

This Major General Chamberlain is petty usurper at best. He is but

"A poor player, That struts and frets his hour upon the stage, And then is heard no more."

The Republicans have played their hand in a poor and unskilful way They started a riot, stopped Gov. Garcelon in his efforts to remove arms from Bangor, thus defying his authority as Governor. Now that he is out of office and is only citizen Alonzo Garcelon, M. D., with no more power than an editor, and not a tithe of the authority of one of Jo Turner's "'squires," the Republicans say that Chamberlain must be obeyed because this very Alonzo Garcelon gave him authority to act. Blaine and the other leaders and advisers have sorely blundered from first to last. It is needless to refer again to their course in 1876-77, when the The excitement in Maine does not greatest crime of the century against usurpation and alarm these very fellows justified Grant, Hayes and the rest at every step in the march of fraud and despotism. They have found that the arrow they shot has rebounded with fearful consternation and effect upon their own pates.

"We but teach Bloody instructions, which, being taught, To plague the inventor. This even-handed Commends the ingredients of our poison'd

To our own lips ---."

They sowed the wind of corruption and fraud in 1876, and now they are reaping the whirlwind. Both parties are gradually working themselves up to the fighting point, armed men are gathering in the capital, and armed organizations are forming all over the State. The present State authorities will not heed any decisions the 8 by 7 Supreme Court may deliver, and the Republicans are disposed to rally around the "Rump" and Chamberlain. All this looks as if bloody war might unfurl its banner yet among the icebergs of Maine.

THE NORTHERN RAID ON THE TREASURY.

There is no doubt about the heavy raids being made upon the U. S. Treasury by the tens of thousands of pensioners. We mentioned recently some facts connected with this constant drain upon the pockets of the people. So enormous has this grown that even Republican papers have been constrained to call attention to the matter and to insist upon its cessation, or at least upon its diminution. It is said that the pensioners or applications to pension are increasing immensely. After disposing of thousands of cases there are now fifteen hundred cases before the House Committee on Pensions. A special committee, to investigate the operations of the pension system, has been created in the House.

It is really a great outrage upon the pockets of the tax-payers, this pension business. Either there must be more discretion used in the bestowment of pensions or the burdens of the longsuffering tax-payers will be steadily increased. As we mentioned before, if the rate of increase continues before five years the annual tax will not be less than $60,000,000 for pensioners alone. The increase for 1881 is over three millions. It is estimated that there are 250,000 pension appli- Price $2.50. Heary C. Les, Philadelphia, cants whilst upon the rolls there are already 241,755. We copy the following somewhat startling statement from the Baltimore Sun: "The pension roll was increased by 18,757 names during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1879, and at the same rates for next year it will be increased between 80,000 and 40,000 this is offering too large a premium for fighting. We now spend more money for pensions every year than we spent for the entire annual expenses of the government during the first fifty years of our national existence, including the cost of the war of 1812. The appropriation for pensions for the single year 1881 covers more noney than the entire revolutionary pension roll from first to last. Between 1791 to 1860 the total appropriations for pension ccount were $78,652.925 01. Between 1791 and 1883 the same appropriations aggregated $27,689,134.51. In the last eight years we have paid $234,189,522 42 for pensions, being more by $13,060,000 than was paid in all the previous years in our history up to 1870. The payments for pensions now amount to 15 per cent, of the entire revenue of the government, and the rate must necessarily increase as the roll

Now here is a fair opportunity for honest statesmanship. Thousands of so called Union men have been raiding on the Treasury with what is known as "Southern Claims." great howl has been made by such lying and disingenuous sheets as the New York Tribune over this heading, the true people of the South being falsely charged with the sin. It is known well that scarcely a Southern man who fought the blue-coats has ever had a claim for a dollar. In the Northern raid now making on the Treasury there is good solid ground for a howl, and if the Tri. bunes were honest in the least, and really desired to guard the Treasury, they would rattle away night and day until they had stopped the systematic robbery of the taxpayers that was going on continually. Some of the organs have spoken out, but they ought to give line upon line until the outrage ceases.

THE C. F. & Y. RAILROAD.

A gentleman connected with the Cape Fear & Yadkin Railroad, in a letter before us, asks how it is that Wilmington takes so little interest in this very important feeder to our growing city. We are unable to give a satisfactory reply. We have stirred the matter in these columns, but without any apparent results. It is certain that Wilmington will be signally benefited if the road is ever completed to Mt. Airy, in Surry crats at Augusta, the capital, is very ing consummated. In that hour of county. The following extract from the letter, concerning the progress in the construction of the road, is of interest. The writer says:

> "We are working 275 hands on the grading, 150 on the lower end in Chatham, and 125 on the Greensboro end. We have six and a half miles done on the Greensboro end, and there are uncompleted, between the two forces, but twenty-six miles, which we will complete by the first day of September, which will leave the entire track. from Greensboro to the Gulf, ready for the I suppose we will then move our forces and begin the work from Greensboro to Mt. Airy. When that is done it will be the best North Carolina Road in the State. and Wilmington will receive almost all the

"I am working 125 convicts and they are the best hands I ever saw. They do more work, are easier managed, and are more obedient and of less trouble. We have no sickness. I feed them well, clothe them well, and work them well.

In Connecticut 94 2-10 per cent of the children are in attendance upon the public schools. This is a good showing. But when we learn that in that small State the school fund amounts to $1,390,972 54, we see how this large per centage of pupils is maintained. The amount actually expended for school purposes was $1,475,881 01. When North Carolina with its twelve hundred thousand people awakens fully to the absolute necessity of educating the children upon whom are to devolve the responsibilities of citizenship a much larger fund will be appropriated, a much larger attendance, a much hgher grade of teachers, and a much larger per centage of children of pupil age will be found in our public

The exodus among the negroes of North Carolina and Mississippi continues. They are steadily moving by hundreds. The evil spirit has been among them and sown the tares of discontent. The harvest will be reaped in suffering and tears and groans. Well, we are clearly of the opinion that all should go who wish to go. There is no teacher like ex-

COLUENT COMMENT.

General Chamberlain continnes to occupy his position of military dictator, and Governor Lamson is without the authority which the constitution and the laws confer upon him. Both Legislatures continue to hold their sessions. The lower house of the legal body still lacking a quo rum, the Fusion majority propose to shortly declare the seats of Hale and Young-two Republican members who took part in the legislative proceedings the day of the organization but afterwards deserted -vacant, and by that means obtain the necessary number of sitting members. - Wash.

- Mr. O'Conor would have the State governments abolished; would dispense with the Federal Senate and odge all legislative power in the House of Representatives; would have the President chosen by lot from the members of the House, and his term of office limited to a single month; would abolish the postal service; would abolish the army and navy and depend on the militia; would allow none but general laws to be passed; would forbid Congress to meet for purposes of legislation, except in some great exigency; would so simplify the government and abridge its functions that official prizes would not be worth contending for, and thus annihilate political parties by withholding the "spoils."-N. Y. Herald, Ind. - The Fusionists possess the advantage of holding the certificates of election issued by the Governor and Council, while the Republicans rest upon the decision of the Supreme Court. But, as we said in the premises, Gen. Chamberlain possesses the key of the situation at last. If he recognizes the Fusion Legislature as the legal body and uses his police or militia to eject the Republicans, the Fusionists will, in all probability, secure control of the government and proceed quietly to the exercise of its functions. If, on the other hand, he inclines to the Republicans, there seems to be little hope left for the Fusionists. This new General Monk on a small scale, therefore looms up as an important personage at this time, and fifty millions of people will wait for his diction with some curiosity, if not anxiety. Perhaps Mr. Hayes may again have presented to him the uestion of interposing the arm of the General Government in settling the matter of State government and providing that he is "a biger man than old Chamberlain." The South can afford to watch the progress of events complacently. - Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, Dem.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES

It ought to be a fundamental principle in any political party in a representative government that the intention of the voters. where it can be clearly made out, must This doctrine was earnestly conended for by the Democracy in 1877 in the Presidential contest, and should not be abandoned now because there may be a chance to force upon their opponents some of the dregs from the cup held to Democratic lips at that time. - Kinston Journal.

In the darkest days of Democracy Seymour alone of all others was able to carry the electoral vote of his State against the then most popular candidate who has ever aspired to be President of these United States, and in the coming campaign the thirty-five electoral votes of New York might even be counted now if the name of Horatio Seymour heads the ticket. Connecticut and New Jersey would almost certainly follow in the wake of the "Empire State," while Indiana would be car ried by storm .- Charlotte Observer.

POLITICAL POINTS

- Make way for the strong man, or the strong man will make way for himelf. - Lamars 'Sentinel, Stalwart.

- The fortunes of a Presidential candidate depend very often on the character of his opponent and the esteem in which he is held. - N. Y. Herald, Ind.

- The man who attempted to do the bribing act in Maine was seen to enter Blaine's house when he went after the money. It is now suspected that he carried Mr. Blaine a recipe for a fit. - Atlanta Con-- We desire the nomination of Grant, not by the South, however, but by the Republicans, that we may have the pleasure of seeing him defeated by Seymour and Hendricks or some other good nominations. - Staunton Spectator, Dem.

Extract from the Book of Queens. M. D. Conway, in his London letter to the Cincinnati Commercial, quotes the following paragraph from the Indian Mirror, which, though they look a little suspicious, are said to have been taken from an uncanonical book which ought to be in the Old Queens, chapter 21.—And it came to pass that the Amir of Afghan had scientific frontier, which was in Asia, hard by the land of Victoriana, Empress of India. And Victoriana said to the Amir:
