FRIDAY EVENING, March 12, 1880

EVENING EDITION

THE LEGISLATURE. The General Assembly of the State will meet at Raleigh on next Monday, the 15th. It has been called to meet in this extraordinary manner by the Governor, who, backed by his Council, has thought it proper to take this step in the face of the failure of the directors of the Western North Carolina Railroad to authorize or indorse the call. The STAR has opposed the extra session because it believed the step was fraught with danger, was unwise, impolitic, unnecessary and costly. It opposed it because the 250,000 voters of the State could not possibly understand the just legislation. The STAR has steadfastly opposed the Best bill for the reasons already stated and which we do not propose to repeat to-day or to add thereto. It is not unwilling that the sale shall be made if the conditions are equitable and just to the interests of the State, and if the guarantees are ample.

questions involved in the very limited time allowed-some three weeks.

The STAR is opposed to snap-judgments, and hasty, imprudent and un-

The Legislature meets without one in ten of the constituents having any proper knowledge of the points involved or the interests jeoparded. It meets to perform a very important work and to assume very grave responsibilities. It stands in this great matter, in which millions of dollars are involved and the presperity of large sections of the State are to be considered, as the guardian, the protector of the people. We trust that every member will so bear himself in this extraordinary session as that the Commonwealth shall receive no detriment at his hands.

The STAR believes that the very best legal talent should be secured to scrutinize the bill indorsed by the Governor and framed by some lawyer probably acting in the interest of the New York Syndicate. It believes that the Legislature should pass the bill only after every guarantee neces. sary has been secured, and the terms are adjusted to the demands of fair dealing, equal showing and proper refurther that after having disposed of the matter of the sale in some satis—

Governor Jarvis, Judge Fowle and Col. Holt stand together upon this issue, and we think that the position of these gentlemen will go far to remove any apprehension of an internal conflict within the lines of the Democratic party upon this question.—
Raleigh News.

Is the News certain that these po-

Does he favor, in other words, the sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad upon the terms as laid down in the Best bill without amendment or alteration of any kind? There are thirty or forty thousand voters in this section of North Carolina who are interested in this question. There is a tremendous difference between favoring or agreeing to a sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad upon some terms, and favoring or agreeing to the sale upon the Best

> The one proposition-to sell-may be accepted provided the interests of North Carolina are duly protected.

The other proposition-to sell upon the terms of the Best Syndicate-involves the best interests of the taxpayers, gives no adequate return for the property to be secured, furnishes no sufficient guarantees of good faith, contains no satisfactory forfeitare of money in case of failure to perform, opens up a good prospect of endless litigation, and offers no assurance that after all the excitement, expense and danger to the prospects of the Demogratic party, the State will not have to take the property back and complete the roads, thus becoming a builder of railroads

If the gentlemen now coveting the high places in the State are in favor of the Best proposition as it stands, we hope candidates for all of the State offices will be nominated and be pressed before the Convention who are not in favor of the Best sellout, but will only agree to the sale after ample guarantees have been given and the sale is made final and Certain Democrats recently met in New York to consider the political situation. Erastus Brooks and ex-Lieut. Governor Dorsheimer made speeches. The latter belongs to the Kelly set. He spoke in the interests of harmony in the Democratic party. He denounced the third term movement, and declared it was "the great est peril that ever assailed the government of this country, and the only way out of the difficulty was for the Democrats to unite. He would be very sorry to be a man to stand in the way of such a union. If they would unite he felt certain that a victory would take place in New York. The eye of the whole country was looking toward New York and awaiting the union of all Democrats."

The Democrats throughout the Union can only hope to succeed by a united front, and by determined action. Energy, pertinacity, enthusiasm, harmony are essential to victory. Prudence, tact, wisdom must preside, and then if the American people are net really fascinated with the tinsel and fripperies of Imperialism, and have not lost all love for civil liberty and the rights of humanity, they will rally to the overthrow of Stalwartism in all of its aggressive and insolent assaults upon the peace and prosperity of the people and the perpetaity of genuine republicanism on this great

We correct an error as to the first introduction of the two-thirds rule into Democratic conventions which we made recently. It was in 1844 when Gen. Saunders introduced it. Its adoption then prevented Van Buren, who had been beaten badly for reelection in 1840, from being the nominee a third time. He actually received a majority of the votes, but under the operations of the twothirds rule Mr. Polk was nominated and was elected, defeating Mr. Clay. The Baltimore Sun's special from Washington says of the operations of

"In 1848 and in 1852, both times at Baltimore, the conventions each for itself adopted the two-thirds rule. In 1852 Gen. Cass on one occasion received a majority of the votes, and it was not until the fortyninth ballot that the requisite two-thirds vote was cast, and Franklin Pierce, who had scarcely been thought of at first, received the nomination. In 1856 at Cincinnati, in 1860 at Charleston and Baltimore, is 1864 at Chicago, and in 1868 at New York, there does not seem to have been any adoption of the two-thirds rule, or, in some instances, any mention of it. In 1872, only four appear to have adopted the two-thirds rule, and, therefore, although it did not seem to be thought proper at the time, there really appears to be no reason why it would not have been perfectly proper for the St. Louis Convention in 1876 to adopt ble legislators would do well to heed what the Book of books says God Bears," is wiser then all the law-makers un-

General Frank Blair had a pretty thorough knowledge of Gen. Grant. It is worth recalling what he said of "the strong man" in 1868, nearly welve years age, and before Grant had become President. Said Gen. Bieirenay thablers, thoughtony

"The man who established military desn all the States is ready to establish it "I tell you he has a policy as much as Bonsparte had. His poncy is permanent ictatorial power. If you think he has no policy, you make a great mistake and en-danger our country. I do not believe he would consent for the Presidency for four years to resign an office he holds for tife. He has no idea of that at all. He has the military instinct about him." A writer in the Raleigh News says that the railroad from Salisbury to Asheville cost $7,000,000, exclusive of interest and $600,000 worth of work done by Swepson and Little-on this, says: ' "This correspondent, 'Wake,' is under-stood to be in favor of the Best proposition, which is to give the State for the entire allroad $550,000 of bonds under a second mortgage, stipulated in the body of the in-strument as unforeclosable, and no guaran-tee whatever for payment of interest.

Thus, if Best & Co. paid setual cash, they propose to pay for the whole road, including $609,000 of grading done under Swepson & Co., the cost of eleven miles of he road from Salisbury to Asheville!"

The more the Best proposition examined carefully the more onesided it appears, and the less deserving of indorsement it is.

It is the style to hint that you are not soundly Democratic-possibly not Democratic at all-if you denounce the snap judgment taken in calling the Legislature. Well, there are Democrats here who do not indorse the snap-judgment and who voted that ticket before those who would question their Democracy had ever kicked in their little cradles. The STAR cannot show any record at office-holding, but it can compare records in the way of voting and working with any that may be pleased to question its fidelity. It does not propose to surrender its right of opinion, and it means to speak out when it thinks proper without fear or favor, taking care to be governed by principle and truth in what it may say.

It is gratifying to see able Republican Judges delivering dissenting opinions from the Radical idea that the States have no right to punish U. S. Revenue officers who violate State laws.—Goldsboro Mail.

Twice has the Rafeigh Observer excused its refusal to publish my letter, on the plea that I assumed "that the $850,000 mortgage bonds outstanding are State bonds, whereas they are the bonds of the Railroad company," and that in se doing I was misleading the people.

The meaning of the Observer is that I have described these bonds as of the "State issue," and in that sense thing in the letter to justify this as-sertion or impression. In other words, they hold a lien on her property which the State must lift, and they are hers by this liability. CURRENT COMMENT.

Conkling remarked the other day, at Utica, that Grant "must be peacefully and legally inaugurated". ven if the Democrats elected their candidate for the Presidency. That is suggestive of Grant's own method in 1876. "Send," telegraphed Ulveses o Tecumseh, "all the troops to Gen. Augur he may deem necessary to insure quiet and a peaceable count of the ballots actually cast." Conkling and Grant think alike on this subject. They want matters "quiet" in a Napoleonic sense-through bayonets and soldierism generally .- Louisille Courier-Journal, Dem.

> NTATE CONTEMPORATERS We have expressed ourselves as being in favor of the sale, but at the same time we want the Best proposition thoroughly sifted and the interest of North Carolina jeniously guarded. There may be loop-holes in the proposition. We are not lawyers enough to find them out just now. We say sell the road. Sell it for a fair compensation. And when sold let it be a final and genuine

> We would suggest that when the Legislature is convened that a committee on the sale of the Western road be appointed, to whom all propositions to buy be submitted, and that the services of some of our most learned lawyers be secured.—Raleigh Dispatch. The Legislature most assuredly will raise just such a committee as the Disputch suggests; and we think it would not be at all amiss for it to get the advice of the most learned lawyers in the State, whose opinof legislation pertaining to the good of the State without a retainer's fee. We favor the sale, but want the papers fixed up all right that they will be, we have no doubt. Goldsboro Mail.

> Then why shall the people of North Carolina and the State sacrifice two and a half or three millions of dollars to the Ducktown idea? Completed to Paint Rock, Governor Jarvis says the Salisbury and Paint Hock line is worth $8,000,000 or more. And he is willing and urges that this property, and the advantage of its possession by the State, shall be sacrificed to extend a road for Mr. Best to Ducktown. Let us see how this thing looks: Value of 183 miles of road from Salisbury to Paint Rock, at $20,000 ner mile, $8,660,000. But the road is short of Paint Rock, say $660,000, leaving present value $3,000,000. Take from this sum the mortgage of $850,000, and the unincumbered property is still worth $2,150, 000. Take from this $1,300,000, the compromised State bonds issued to build the road, and $500,000 expended since 1875. making $1,800,000, and that sum from $2,150,000, present unincumbered value of the road, and there is still a surplus of $350,000 over and above all the road has ever cost the State. The proposition of our State authorities is to throw away State authorities is to throw away Ducktown idea. Better by far keep on paying the annual tax of $70,000, for thus it will take thirty years to aggregate the present sum proposed to be thrown away at one swoop, and about fourteen years support of convicts, apprepriations and all. — W. A. Hearne, in Raleigh Observer.

Action of the Sugar Interests Relative to the Tariff-Appeal to Con-(By Telegraph to the Morning Star.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 12 .- The sugar refiners, planters and merchants held meeting last night and adopted a preamble and resolutions protesting against the con-demnation of the Ways and Means Com-mittee by the New York importers and refiners. They state that many of those composing the New York meeting were before that Committee and failed to convince them that the public interest required the changes in the tariff advocated by the mporters and refiners. We appeal, say the resolutions, to Congress, through the Ways and Means Committee, not to jeopardize by adverse legislation the Louisiana sugar industry, affording, as it does, the principal source of support to over 300,000 people, and thus to advance the prosperity of the Cuban planters by securing a market to the slave-grown angars of that island; and, further, that while the existing legislation on this subject is not adequate to our ants, because Louisiana, in the present depressed condition of the sugar industry, needs all the protection that the revenue taxiff, strictly enforced, incidentally affords, still we acquiesce in it rather than continue the agitation which threatens changes which would seriously affect the credit and energy of the producer and tend to ruin an industry la Louisiana.
