The Elevated Railroad stocks in New York have tumbled.

Johnny Roach is again trying to get a subsidy bill passed for his Johnny is modest and savoury. The Democrats would do well to let alone all subsidy projects.

The well informed Philadelphia Press thinks that "the venerable old University of William and Mary" is located at Charlottesville, Va. See us issue of April 3d. Send it a history of Virginia.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has more lying correspondents than any other paper in the country. It has one or two employed hands in the South who have a way of taking any sensational stories that are adrift and telegraphing them as true, dating always at or near the place where they are located. The latest effort of this kind is an account of "A Tarheel Romance," dated at Lumberton, North Carolina. The correction has already appeared in the STAR.

The news from New York is that John Kelly is weakening and there is a big surprise for the country in a few days. When this all happens we we will believe it. As a piece of news we give it. The reconciliation between the two factions is to be brought about through the agency of what is known as the "Democratic Union." The New York letter in the Philadelphia Ledger of April 1, says: "The report at the Democratic club houses to-day is, that the situation has taken a sudden turn for the better, and that 'John Kelly is weakening.' This report comes from several sources that should have correct information, and it is worth printing accordingly. It may be proper to say, however, that Mr. Kelly's friends deny that he is weakening, but the average City Hall politician, in delicate cases of this kind, usually acts upon the Talleyrand principle, that 'language was made to conceal, not to express one's thoughts.' As the matter stands, I am inclined to think that the next few days will be prolific of interesting events, the outcome of which will affect the political situation far beyond Gramercy Park or the Comptroller's office in the City

All this may turn out to be only a great "April fool."

The House Elections Committee have declared that neither Donnelly, (Greenbacker), nor Washburne (Republican), was elected from Minnesota. Speer, of Georgia, voted with the Republicans for Washburn; and Springer, Speer and Phister voted with the m against Donnelly The Richmond State's Washington correspondent gives this account of what occurred in the committee : "There was an exciting scene in the committee room when the sub-committee's report in favor of Donnelly was rejected. Manning, of Mississippi, said Springer of Illinois, had promised to vote for his report and had broken his word. Chairman Springer replied with dignity that the gen-tleman was mistaken, he had not promised to vote for Donnelly. Manning sprang up excitedly and shaking his index finger at the chairman, exclaimed, "You did! you did!" and intimated pretty broadly that Springer had changed his mind under the influence of Tilden during his recent visit to New York city. Springer again protested that he had not made any such promise, and Manning called him a liar. Springer, retaining his self-possession, said the gentleman from Mississippi will retract that. Manning said he would for the present, and Springer said he must retract at once and forever. Other members of the committee interposed peaceful counsels and Manning withdrew the charge, saying, in effect, that he did not mean all he said." Donnelly is wealthy and uses "cuss words" freely.

-- A dog fight on Front, between Market and Dock streets, yesterday afternoon, attracted a crowd of nearly a hundred persons. A big dog jumped upon a smaller one with a vim that apparently meant mischief, but the little dog finally got the better of his huge antagonist and was about to "chaw him up" when his master interfered in his behalf. So the sporting editor reports.

Convention of the Democratic Party An Incident of "Alf Pool's Day "

A very pleasant and amusing incident of 'All Fool's Day" Thursday last has just come to our knowledge. A sprightly young lady in the southern section of the city, having made up her mind to have a little innocent amusement, dressed herself out in some of her brother's cast-off clothing, dusted her face to disguise her features, donned a hat befitting her general costume, and started out for an adventure, her shorn locks, the result of a severa spell of sickness, assisting materially in carrying out the deception which she was destined to practice with such consummate success. By jumping fences she soon found herself at the back door of the residence of a relative who lived in the immediate neighborhood. She rapped at the door, and the knock was answered by Mr. Smith, as we shall call him for convenience, who saw before him what appeared to be a seedy tramp, suffering from hunger, who launched forth at once into a description of his wants and necessities, representing that he came from a point about fifteen miles up the river on a fist or raft had been left behind without means to relieve his necessities, and begged Mr. S. to give him something to eat, after which he would try and walk home. Mr. S. wanted to know why he didn't come to the front door instead of the rear one, but the evident distress of the "needy person" prevented him from pressing the question, and he finally told the "young man" to come in. He then explained the matter to his good lady, and as there was not enough "scraps" to make a decent meal, she went to work and cooked him a good square one, to which the "tramp" were invited to "sit up and help himself." Ample justice was paid to the substantial repast, and at its close the "tramp" arose, removed the covering to her head and disclosed the features of the mischievous young lady, who politely bowed, and, with ohe of her sweetest smiles, exclaimed, "Thank you cousin ---, for my nice dinner!" The astonishment of the worthy couple, who had been completely deceived, can be better imagined than described.

A Tobacco Thief Comes to Grief. Lewis F. Lipscomb, colored, was arrested Friday night, at his house in this city, on the charge of stealing a box of tobacco, containing some sixty-five pounds, the property of Messra, Brunhild & Bro. It seems that a drayman in the employ of the above firm was going along Water street, in the latter part of February last, when he put off the box of tobacco and some articles to relieve his horse, leaving the goods in one of the business houses. Upon rewas missing, and suspicion rested upon Lipscomb as being the thief. Upon the affidavit of the drayman a warrant was issued by Justice McQuigg for his arrest, and also a search warrant for the recovery of the tobacco, which were placed in the hands of officer C. H. Strode. Upon being confronted by the officer, and charged with knowing something about the tobacco, Lipscomb offered to pilot him to the spot where the box was concealed, and the stolen property was subsequently found in a gallberry thicket just beyond Seventeenth street. The tobacco was placed in charge of Special Deputies J.W. Whitney and Jno. Slatcher, while officer Strode started off with the prisoner, but had gone but a short distance, it being at hight, and quite dark, when Lipscomb suddenly took to his heels and made his escape. This was on the until Friday night, Lipscomb was ordered to give a justified bond to appear before Justice McQuigg when wanted, in default of which he was committed to jail.

The performance of Hayes' Juvenile Opera Troupe in Richmond, Va., Is thus spoken of by the Dispatch of that city :

The juveniles are very attractive, and, take their performance as a whole, it is the best readition of Pinafore we have ever had here considering they are children. Master Willie Du Bois as Sir Joseph Porter; acquitted himself with great credit. Captain Corcoran, Master John Smith, was here with Mr. Ford's company early in the sesson and fascinated the large number of our people who witnessed his performances. He is a smart, clever little fellow, and has made a hit as Captain Corcoran. Rack-straw, Master Charlie Minchin, has improved a good deal since his first visit to Richmond, and sang his part last evening very acceptably. Josephine, the Captain's daughter, was personated by Miss Lillie Balley, a pretty girl, who is quite a host with the company. She is a "most attractive" little lady and sang and repeated her lines with good effect. Miss Ida Conquest, who plays Little Buttercup, is most appropriately named. She is a quaint little body, and was repeatedly encored during the
