We copied yesterday what the Richmond Dispatch said of the first reading of the peerless Scott-Siddons. We reproduce what the State said editorially of the second night:

"Mrs. Scott-Siddons bad a much better house last night to hear and enjoy her sec-ond reading, and we have seldom seen a better pleased audience. She possesses rare and diversified powers of voice, tone and expression to please, and we are no longer surprised at her wonderful success in reading, which she has brought to the perfection of an art."

Representative Taylor, of Tennessee, made an earnest speech in the House in behalf of the Mexican veterans. He pointed to the fact that only one-fifth survived and that the territory acquired by their valor was worth now $600,000,000. He said, in conclusion:

"If there is one spark of humanity in us, one throb of patriotic love and sympathy in our hearts, one pulsation of pride in our country's glorious past, we cannot afford to let this bill die on the calendar-cannot resist the appeals of these old veterans."

Crawford, brother to our worthy Mayor,

- The Charlotte Observer reporter has been visiting the Gaston county Monastery. He says he could not help some involuntary surprise on approaching a few substantial but plain frame buildings, surrounded by the old familiar North Carolina landscape. Solemn high mass was being celebrated as the visitors entered the neat but unpretentious chapel. After mass the visitors were introduced to the brothers, and again the reporter's illusion was exposed by their gental manners and piquant remarks. They sustained, however, their ancient reputation for hospitality most nobly. Refreshments were set forth, and when the dinner bell rang the visitors were invited into the refectory, where the boys of the school were enjoying a holiday dinner, and a good one, too. The school has increased rapidly since the establishment of the monastery three years ago. Mrs. Scott-Siddoms. The Troy (N. Y.) Press says of this lady, who is to appear at the Opera House in this city this evening:

There has not been so elegant an entertainment in Troy for many a day as the readings by Mrs. Scott-Siddons last evening, and Music Hall never held so large and so high-toned an audience. Mrs. Siddons has lost none of her beauty or grace since she appeared in this city four years ago; indeed her personal attractions have an old men's Bible class, which meets once every week. It is conducted by Rev. C. trails, where she has been for three years. Not only is her beauty fresher, but she has inhabitants are members, with one or two young men. —Winston is to have two ministerial gatherings this year. The Episcopal Convention and the Methodist E. developed greater powers of voice, as was shown in her admirable rendering of "The Creed of the Belle." Hundreds of friends in Troy are delighted to see again their favorite returned from her long absence, and that Conference South both meet in this place this year. —It is thought by some of our farmers that the peach crop will prove a failure this year. The police report that a fire broke out yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, in the still-yard of Messrs. Wilder & Morton, in the northern section of the city, but the flames were extinguished by the private watchman and Officer Woebse, of the police force, without starting an alarm, thus, in all probability, preventing a destructive conflagration.

Since writing the above we have obtained fuller particulars of the fire. Mr. Sylvester Burrows, the watchman on Mesers. Wilder & Moston's distillery yard, reports that when he first discovered the fire he thought it was on a flat, but as it continued to grow larger he investigated further, and came to the conclusion that it was among a large lot of rosin. Under this impression, and knowing how unable he would be to cope with fire among such a pile of rosin, he hast sued to the office and telephoned the alarm for five minutes without getting any answer. He then hurried back, and found that the fire, instead of being among the rosin, was rapidly consuming the division fence between the still yard and the W. & W. Railroad, together with about a half cord of wood piled up against it. In the meantime he had been crying "fire" lustily as he ran, and soon had to assist him Officer Herman Woebse, from the "Paddy's Hollow" beat, who heard the alarm, and Mr. Dallas Orrell, wetchman for Messrs. Chess, Carley & Co., and by their combined exertions the flames were extinguished, after consuming about five feet of the fence, and burning and charring the

After nipping the incipient conflagration in the bud the three men were looking around when they discovered a bottle containing a small portion of kerosene oil, on the side of the fence next to the railroad.

Some idea of the narrowness of the escape from a serious conflagration may be formed, when we state that within about ten feet of the flames were piled eight thousand barrels of rosin and forty cords of pine wood, while the oil works of Mesrs. Chess, Carley & Co. were close by.

Anson Williams, a colored man from Jacksonville, Onelow county, left his little five-year-old son, named Joe, in a store on Market street, yesterday afternoon, about half past two o'clock, while he went across the street for a moment, and when he returned the boy was missing, and up to the last accounts he had not been found. The father, of course, was very much distressed at the disappearance of the little fellow. Information of his whereabouts can be left at the store of Mr. G. R. Ward.

For the STAR. Public Meeting in Onslow. Pursuant to previous notice a large number of the citizens of Onslow, and some from Pender and other counties, assembled at the Court House in Jacksonville, on Monday, the 5th of April, 1880. The object was to further the cause of the construction of the proposed Burgaw & Onslow Railroad. Mr. Franklin Thompson was called to the chair and Mr. Richard Canady was appointed Secretary. The Chairman endorsed the enterprise. He showed that for the want of suitable transportation it costs one-half of the value of the exports of Onslow to put them in market. James G. Scott, Esq., then followed in an eloquent appeal in behalf of the road. He then introduced Dr. S. S. Satchwell, of Pender, who was the principal speaker on the occasion. He set forth in a plain, practical manner, the advantages of the road, the ways and means by which it is proposed to be built, its prospects, and the hopes of its friends. The amount necessary for organizing the company, under the charter, had been nearly raised by subscription. Build this road, said he, to New River, secure an appropriation from Congress, as could be ione, for improving its navigation, and Onslow would leap forth with renewed prosperity and enhanced value of her real estate, and would have an easy and cheap ingress and egress to the markets of her own choice. The relief afforded by the recent extra session of the Legislature would better enable our people to engage in these local measures of development and progress. In this relation he endorsed the action of the General Assembly in selling the Western N. C. Road, and complimented Governor Jarvis for his patriotic manliness and thorough uprightness of purpose for what he and other State officers had done under the injustice and wrong heaped upon him and them in the course of the recent excitement upon this grave question of State policy. Time and better understanding among the masses would dissipate the disaffection of his own and other eastern counties upon this subject. While we ought to desire the good opinion of our fellow-citizens, we should have courage enough not to be turned from the path of duty and right by any fear of popuar disapprobation. He spoke of the strong claims for support of the enterprising city of Wilmington. As her friend he could but think that if she would avail herself of passing opportunities for improving her mate-

WHO IS MRS. WINSLOW?—As this question s frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of thirty years has untiringly devoted her time and talents as a Female Physician and nurse, principally among children. She has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup for children teething. It operates like magic—giving rest and health, and is moreover sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this article Mrs. Winslow is becoming world renowned as a benefactor of the race; children certainly de result of the sheriestory. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are DALLY sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow has immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed.
