In 1879 there were 250,565 immigrants to the United States. During the first quarter of 1879 at New York there were 10,858 immigrants landed. The Democrats in Congress are constantly engaged in personal spats for the amusement of their adversaries. The latest was between Sparks, of Illinois, and Clymer, of Pennsylvania. The former shook his fist in the latter's face and called him a liar. No blood. We are not sure if the code is not an improvement on such hoosier manners.

Mr. George C. Gorham, a well known politician about Washington, has been interviewed by the Post. He says Grant alone can prevent his own nomination. He says his will be the only name that will be heard at Chicago. He says it is ridiculous to claim more than 220 votes for Blaine, and that Sherman cannot get more than 100. He says Grant will be nominated, when the bloody-shirt will be furled in Grant's pocket.

It is believed in Washington that the dirty slander of Senator Hill is promoted by prominent Republicans, and that the dirty work will be kept up as long as the Kellogg contest is unsettled. The Richmond Commonwealth's correspondent writes:

"Mr. Hill has not yielded one inch to this infamous conspiracy, and will not do so. He has not sent any one of his friends to this creature to buy her silence or ask it on any terms. The proof of conspiracy to procure this woman to make a false charge against Mr. Hill is, I hear, in the possession of Mr. Merrick, and will be made public at the proper time. I am told that this woman has accused at least half a dozen other gentlemen in Georgia of being the father of her child, some of whom were foolish enough to pay her hush-money to get rid of the affair."

Robeson, Hiscock, blow-vour-horn Conger, and other Stalwarts have already given notice that they wil speak on the Army bill amendment concerning the employment of troops at the polls. These are the fellows who want a free and honest election, but they are, however, bitterly opposed to all amendments that will keep the bayonets from surrounding the polls. This reminds us of the anxiety to build the Ducktown road but the opposition of the anxious was steady to all amendments guaranteeing and compelling the same. Some

OPERA HOUSE.

Mrs. Scott-Siddous. Owing to the political meetings in the various wards of the city the audience was only fair. Under more favorable circumstances there would have been a full house. The entertainment was the most elegant and refined we remember to have seen. Mrs. Siddons is a lady of very beautiful and engaging presence. We have never seen a handsomer woman on any stage. It was worth the price to see her in her rich and exquisite costume. She is a most versatile and accomplished reader. She is intensely realistic in her various impersonations. There is nothing ordinary or common place about her. She is full of grace, dramatic fire and thrilling power, and shows herself a perfect artist in every truth. We cannot stop to criticize. It was certainly a charming entertainment, without flaw or break, in which elocution and grace or beauty were all combined in a most fascinating degree. Her "Creed of the Bells," her walking scene in Macbeth, the plaintiff, thrilling pleading of Arthur with Hubert-these and all! were given with wondrous effect. We are not extravagant in all this, as every lady or gentleman of taste who was so fortunate as to witness her impersonations in which genius and versatility were manifold from first to last will heartily agree. We could promise her a full house if she were to appear again in Wilmington. We hope to see her again in our midst before she closes her final tour.

Found in a Dying Condition.

Yesterday morning, about 5 o'clock, as Capt. Goodman, of the police force, accompanied by Sergeant Bender and officers Green and Capps, were on their way home after performing night duty, they were informed by a colored man named Jack Forbes that a man was lying on the sidewalk, near the corner of Seventh and Castle streets, apparently in a dying condition. The officers went to the spot indicated and found the sufferer to be Orrin Cumber, a member of the street force in the employ of | issued from the Signal Office in this city: the city. He was taken into the store of Mr. Klander, corner of Seventh and Castle Augusta...... 59 Key West,..... streets, where he died in a few minutes afterwards, notwithstanding the efforts of Capt. Goodman and his companions, who rubbed him thoroughly with camphor, etc., and applied other restoratives. Coroner Hewlett was notified, who soon afterwards held an inquest over the remains as they lay in Mr. Klander's store. The evidence was to theseffect that he had been drinking considerably during the evening, but was supposed to have started towards home about 11 or 12 o'clock. Being exposed, while in a helpless condition, to the storm of cold wind and rain that prevailed Thursday night, it is not to be, wondered at that the unfortunate man was found in a dying condition. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death from exposure, &c. Deceased was about 40 years of age. He enlisted at the commencement of the late war in Company D, Third N. C. Infantry, under Capt. Edward Savage, and served during the entire war, being wounded two or three times, and making a good soldier. He had been in the employ of the city for some time, and worked as usual on the day preceding his death, leaving the City Hall about half past five o'clock in the evening. After the inquest the remains were removed in a wagon, by direction of the Chief of Police, to his home on Eighth, between Dawson and Wright streets.

Irwin Moore, the old colored man who was found in the woods near Greenfield mill-pond, in almost a dying condition, a few weeks since, was again picked up yesterday morning, on the sunnyside of havstack, in the neighborhood of the Messrs. Kidders' mill, in almost as bad a condition as before, having evidently been exposed to the severe storm of the night previous, as his clothing was very wet. He was partially covered up with straw, and was apparently almost speechless. He was taken up, placed in one of the city carts, and carried to the station house, where his identity was discovered, and he was then ordered by the Chief of Police to be taken to his home in the neighborhood of Ninth and Market streets. His propensity to stray away from home is a little mysterious.
