Fire in the Country.

A dwelling house and kitchen on what is known as the Petteway plantation, about four miles from the city, the property of Col. Roger Moore, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday night, about 9 o'clock. A man living about a mile and a quarter distant saw the light from the burning building and hastened in that direction, arriving just in time to see the family leaving the dwelling and the roof falling in. The fire originated on the roof, probably from a spark. The building was occupied by colored people, and was insured for $400 in the Merchants & Mechanics' Insurance Company of Richmond, represented in this city by Messrs. John W. Gordon & Bro. The Importance of Education-Address of Rev. Dr. Pritchard.

A very fair and intelligent audience greeted the President of Wake Forest College last night upon the occasion of his anpearance under the auspices of the Library Association of this city, in answer to the question of universal interest, "What is the One Thing Necessary to the Development of North Carolina?" After a large and patriotic survey of the necessities of our population, and an extensive and practical familiarity with their needs, recent foreign travels and successful labors in the pulpit, and as an educator of youth, the result of his observation and experience compeled the speaker to lament the paucity of our educational resources, and the lethargy which attends every effort hitherto made for the application of the material existing in our midst to the practical needs of our people. The State of Virginia, for example, which contains no larger population than ours, has no less than two thousand of her sons in the various colleges of that State, while North Carolina has five hundred only. Everything we wear and nearly all we eat comes from abroad. It is time to turn the attention of the educated young men of the State to the necessity of a special training for the mechanic arts, agriculture, mining and engineering, as well as the learned professions. Success in these departments of labor can be obtained only now by the application of the same skill and preparation as was formerly supposed to be necessary only in the learned professions. The Doctor enforced his views by numerous apt and practical illustrations, drawn from his own experience and observation. His address was eminently practical, and well calculated to awaken apprehension for the future of the State, unless immediate attention was drawn to this important subject.

We were glad to learn that it was his pur pose to devote a large portion of his attention to the business of arousing the public mind and stimulating exertion to the removal of the cloud of darkness and ignorance. We are satisfied that he will do much good. and wish him God-speed in his noble and patriotic undertaking.

For the Penitentiary.

The prisoners convicted and sentenced to the Penitentiary by His Honor, Judge Meares, at the late term of the Criminal Court, will be taken to Raleigh to-day by Sheriff Manning. Their names, offences and terms of imprisonment are given below. It will be seen that New Hanover gives Best a big lift. The terms of the convicts aggregate sixty-nine years, and they do not include Love Ann Jones, sentenced for ten years, in whose case an appeal was taken, and John Merrick, to be tried for other offences besides the one for which he was convicted:

Moses Pearce, false pretense, 6 years. George Hill, larceny, 6 years. Henry Cruse, burning an outhouse, 20

Shade Bannerman, larceny, 6 years, Lewis F. Lipscomb, larceny, 8 years. E. Walker, breaking into a storehouse, Frank Marck, larceny, 5 years. Ben Moore, larceny, 8 years.

The above are all colored.

Drawing a Pistol, &c. Charles Tate, colored, was arrested yesterday for drawing a pistol and attempting to shoot David Hale, the crippled shoemaker who was robbed a week or two since, for which Shade Bannerman was sent to the penitentiary for six years. The difficulty took place in Cape Fear Township on Sunday. Tate was ordered to give bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance before Justice Hill for the assault, and $50 for carrying a concealed weapon, in default of which he was committed to jail. The investigation will take place this afternoon, at 8 o'clock.

Its Importance as a Summer Resert--Proposed Establishment of a First-Class Hotel-Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of Citizens.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Smithville was held at the Court House on Friday night, the 9th of April with a view to form a joint stock company to erect and establish a first-class hotel.

The meeting was organized by electing Dr. W. G. Curtis President, and Philip Prioleau, Secretary.

The President then explained the object of the meeting in a concise, business like manner, insisting that it was to the interests of the entire community to encourage the enterprise and to aid in building up Smithville as a great Southern summer re-

Judge S. W. Watts being present was called upon, and urged the propriety and importance of erecting a first-class hotel, with a view to invite and accommodate the people of our own State and of other States at Smithville, as the most eligible, delightful and beautiful location on the whole Atlantic sea-coast, as not only a summer resort, but as a great-perhaps the greatest -sporting place on the coast during the

He stated that we had a climate equal to that of the Cyprian Isles, that we had, in summer, everything to delight, refresh and amuse the sojourner, and in winter, fish, oysters and wild game of every description. He showed that it was to the interest of the entire community and of the business men of the city of Wilmington, to take hold of the enterprise, take stock suffi cient to erect the hotel and to make Smithville a great summer resort.

At the close of his speech the following gentlemen were appointed by the chair to solicit subscriptions, viz: Dr. L. Frink, C. C. Morse, Philip Prioleau, I. L. Wescott, R. M. Wescott, T. M. Williams, S. W.

It was resolved that the committee on subscription be instructed to take subscriptions on the basis of $25 a share.

Mr. Prioleau stated, and he spoke by authority, that all the stock raised by the company could be devoted to the erection of the building; that as Mayor of the town and representing the Commissioners, he could assure them that an eligible water front would be donated free to the com-

The Late Difficulty at Moore's Creek -Death of the Wounded Man-Particulars of the Homicide.

Joseph B. Marble, alluded to in our last as having been dangerously wounded by a blow over the head with a gun in the hands of one Porter Malpass, at Moore's Creek, Pender county, on Friday last, died of his injuries on Tuesday morning, about 2

Marble, who received several severe wounds during the late war, has since been teaching school the most of his time. He was a man well thought of in the community, we learn, being the worst enemy to himself, as he would indulge to an excess occasionally in intoxicating liquors. On last Friday, as our informant states, he went to the house of Porter Malpass, who was absent, and being partially intoxicated, made some remark about kissing his (Malpass') wife, and it is further stated that he made an attempt, in a playful way, to seize her for that purpose, but she avoided him. He then left. Soon afterwards Malpass came in, when his wife told him what had occurred. Malpass immediately took down his gun from the rack and started in pursuit of Marble, saying he would kil him. He overtook him about a mile from his house, when, as reported by some colored men, who were near by at the time, Malpass raised his gun as if he was going to shoot Marble, saying that he was tempted to kill him, when Marble cried out; "Don't shoot me !" Malpass then lowered his gun, seized it by one end and struck Marble over the head with the other, knocking him into a ditch on the side of the road, where he left him. The wounded man subsequently managed to get to the house of a neighbor, where he lingered until Tuesday morning, when, as before stated, he breathed his last.

Up to last accounts Malpass was still at large, though efforts were being made to
