New York is still importing very heavily. Last week the figures were $12,273,708. This is said to be the largest for many years. The follies of 1873 threaten to be repeated.

Postmaster General Key thinks it ill-advised to mention his name in connection with the candidacy for Vice President. He appreciates the compliment, &c. He had never sought office, and never should.

The Hancock boom is growing. Louisiana is for him. Texas, it is said, will be for him also. Vermont is inclined to favor him. If Pennsylvania gives him its 58 votes he will go to the Convention with a very respectable following.

What becomes of the specie During the year 1879 eighty million dollars of gold was received from foreign countries alone. Some twenty-five million were coined. This, added to what was on hand, makes a big sum. Where is it hid?

The President has approved of the following Appropriation bills:

"The Pension bill for the next fiscal year commencing July 1, 1880, appropriating $23,400,000; the Star Route, postal, Deficiency, appropriating $1,250,000; the Indian Deficiency, $135,000; and the Defi-$24,012.

There is a better outlook in Virginia. It is thought that the coalition scheme is dead already. Grant is the favorite of the Republicans. It is believed that they will set up a straight out ticket of their own and will not coalesce with the Mahone

Philadelphia has a great curiosity. A baby boy, child of John Salter, once beautiful and white, changed its color completely, and its brown wavy hair became black and stiff. It looked like a negro. The Philadelphia Press has a long history of the case. We have only room for the following: "At last he became as black as a fullblooded negro. Then he was attacked by convulsions, which grew more frequent and violent until they threatened the child's life. It was in one of these that Dr. Revnolds, of Eighteenth and Poplar streets, was called in. He succeeded in curing the spasms and then devoted his attention to the strange disease which afflicted the child. He recognized it as melanosioa or pigmentation, which is mentioned in the books in a general way, but there is no case given where it had developed all through the body. This was over sixteen months ago, the child being then thirteen months old. Since that time the boy has greatly improved, by degrees becoming lighter, until now he is of a light chestnutbrown color. The hair has once more become brown and soft, and the eyes have regained their natural appearance.'

Senator Vance says that Tilden could not carry North Carolina if nominated. Representative Davis, opinion that Mr. Tilden's nomination would jeopardize Democratic success if Grant should be the opposing candidate. The negroes, he says, look upon Grant as their savior and would support him en masse. Tilden's nomination would discourage the Democratic masses, and very many, tired of being in the minority, and assuming Grant's election as a themselves with the Republican party. The State, close at the best, could not be held for Tilden.

In this opinion the other North Carolina Democrats concur.

We learn from the Richmond State's letter that the desk referred to on our second page bears the following inscription:

"Thomas Jefferson gives this writing desk to Joseph Coolidge, Jr., as a memorial of his affection. It was made from a drawing of his own by Ben. Randall, cabinet-maker of Philadelphia, with whom he first lodged on his arrival in that city in May, 1776, and the identical one on which he wrote the Declaration of Independence. Politics as well as religion has its superstitions; these gaining strength with time may one day give imaginary value to this relic for its association with the birth of the great charter of our independence.'

The Baltimore Sun's Washington etter of the 18th says of the Republican delegation from this State:

"The Republicans of the sixth Congressional District of North Carolina met on Thursday last, and elected O. J. Spears and W. R. Myers delegates to Chicago, and instructed them to vote for Grant. Eighteen of the twenty delegates from North Carolina have now been elected. The Grant men claim twelve, and concede six to Sherman. The Sherman men claim eight. The seventh district is yet to elect, and will probably send Grant men."

Our North Carolina inventive genius, Dr. Gatling, is attracting attention in England by his new gun. It was exhibited on the 27th of March at the offices of Sir W. Armstrong, the manufacturer, before a number of experts. The fearful weapon is capable of firing a thousand shots per minute and killing a man on a horse at a mile range.

The cherries, pears and several others are materially damaged, but think the apple crop is very safe thus far. — The wheat crop throughout the county was looking very premising-more so than the oldest farmers ever knew, but since the recent cold weather it is showing signs of being affected by turning yellow.

- Salisbury Watchman: Mr. John A. Snider informs us that he has discovered a new gold mine in about three miles of this place that promises to be as rich as any heretofore found in the county. — The mining business is rather looking up in this county. The Northern companies that begun operations at several of the Rowan mines last year are still working with fine prospects of success. Other mines and veins are opening up, all showing that gold greatly abounds in this section.

- Statesville Landmark: There is no doubt of the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad desires to secure control of the road from here to Charlotte, with a of the Fourth District, expresses the view to using it as a link in its proposed Southern connection, and it is quite well known that Mr. Garrett has proposed to Mr. Myers to give him what money he needs to finish to pay off all the debts of in the old North State, particularly | the Company and put the road in first-class condition, he (Mr. Garrett) to be reimbursed by the issue of new bonds to the amount of $200,000, which he will take.

- The Statesville Landmark gives graphic account of a fight that occurred between W. A. Bartley and Marcus Hooper. The latter shot Bartley through the arm, killing his mule. Bartley then advanced, got the pistol from his antagonist, and with it worked on the countenance of that gentleman. It is said that from his chin to the back of his neck there was no soundforegone conclusion, would identify ness whatever-nothing but wounds and bruises. In connection with this work he has received the appointment of Traveling Secretary for the State Association. Having stood his final examinations, by special permission of the Faculty, he leaves the village to-day for his work.

- The Biblical Recorder repeats its statement that there are 189,000 Baptists in North Carolina. It says . "The Baptists of North Carolina have seventy-five District Associations. Each of these associations holds an annual session. To these annual sessions each church belonging to the association sends two or three delegates and a church letter containing a statement of its spiritual and financial condition, with the changes in its membership during the previous year. Those baptised, received by letter, dead, dismissed and expelled are all put down, and at the end of the line is given the total number in full fellowship at the time the letter is written. So there is no difficulty in knowing exactly how many Baptists there are in North Carolina, or the United States. There is no guessing in the matter, nor any room for a guess by any

- Statesville Landmark: Last Sunday week Rev. Dr. W. A. Wood preached at Rev. P. P. Winn's church Concord), and Mr. Winn preached at Dr. Wood's church in Statesville. Last Sunday Dr. Wood occupied his own pulpit and preached from the same text that Mr. Winn had preached from the Sunday before, delivering a sermon which was identically the same, in all of its leading ideas, as that of Mr. Winn's, the Sunday previous, the pastor even quoting several of the pas-sages of Scripture which his substitute had employed the Sunday before. — Mr. J. A Visitor's Impressions-Literary. Mr. Henkel, of the New Market (Va.) Shenandoah Valley, who was recently here on a visit, writes an interesting letter to his paper from Wrightsville Sound, in which he says: "Wrightsville is destined to become an Atlantic City. Already many hundreds of people come here and spend the hot summer months. They rough it, finding good, plain table board at $24 00 per month. Many sleep in hammocks out doors, and the dress is very plain. The bathing-men, women, children-is almost constant, and most all are excellent 'swimmers.' Men are to be seen with broad brimmed straw hats, in rough loose fitting flannel suits, which are used for 'dress and bathing suits.'"

The writer was evidently very favorably impressed with Wrightsville. In a postscript he says: "Since writing the above, we have had the pleasure of reading several initiatory chapters of a most charming and fascinating novel, descriptive of sound and ocean life. It bears the name "Ocean-Side; or, Life on the Sound," if we mistake not, and will be completed and perhaps published this coming Fall. If published, which we hope will be done, we think every reader of it will be charmed, and will not be slow in giving due praise to its author, one of the South's most gifted young from the Second Ward, or wherein we were

The Fishery Interests. A Mr. Earle, in the employ of the United States Government to look after the fishery interests, has been on a visit to Wilmington during this week, and on Saturday went down the river to the fishery of Mr. W. E. Davis, in the neighborhood of Fort Fisher. He has travelled quite extensively in the South Atlantic States, including Florida and South Carolins, where he has gathered valuable statistics and obtained much useful information touching this imHISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Judge Cantwell's Lecture-Fort

The rooms of the Historical Society were filled last evening by a very large audience to listen to the lecture of the above named gentleman. His subject was Fort Johnson. at the mouth of the river, and its connection with the early history of this section, and was exceedingly interesting and instructive. His description of the Fort and its surroundings, in the opening portion of his address, was extremely graphic; the numerous islands that dotted its front, the shipping riding gracefully at anchor, with their twinkling lights, and the sound of their tinkling bells appouncing the hours, while in the far distance the "light-house blazed like a star in the midst of the ocean." But in describing the interior of the Fort, with its gravelled walks, its verdant shrubbery. and the rustic seats, where maidens sat and looked out upon the deep with eyes that rivalled the stars in brightness, it was evident his heart was in his theme, and that he had written that portion of his address at least con amore.

The lecturer stated that Fort Johnson, named after Gen. Gabriel Johnson, was built in 1745, and since then it had witnessed the passing away of five different governments: the Proprietrry, the Colonial, the State, the Federal and Confederate. Many new facts in our early history were mentioned, among them one not generally known, namely, that it was Cornelius Harnett who marched at the head of a body of amed men, numbering nearly six hundred, to Brunswick, and demanded of Gov. Tryon in person that Pennington, who had been appointed Stamp Master in place of James Houston, should be delivered up. This account, taken from Gov. Tryon's letter book in the Executive Office at Ra-leigh, clearly shows that Harnett was the master spirit in the movement.

Inst will please say advertised. It has called for within thirty days they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

ED. R. BRINK, P. M.

Many other incidents, evincing great research and laborious industry on the part of the lecturer, and of great interest to our people, not only in this particular locality, but in the State generally, were mentioned, but we have not time in this hurried notice to refer to them, as we would like much to do.

The lecturer closed his address by drawing a parallel between the life of man and of States and governments, which was well conceived, eloquently expressed, and impressively delivered.

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 20, 1880 Mr. C. H. Robinson :

DEAR SIR-Will you do me the kindness to state, as presiding officer of the Demo-cratic Convention, held on Saturday evening, April 17th, whether any point of order was raised, or decided against me, during the session of that Convention, or whether you ruled my declension of appointment as committeeman out of order.

Yours, truly,
Roger Moore.

WILMINGTON, April 20, 1880. Col. Roger Moore: DEAR SIR-I have your note of this date asking if a point of order was raised and decided against you during the sitting of the New Hanover Democratic Convention. I do not consider that the point of order was raised or desided against you. When the Convention named the Executive Committee, you moved to substitute two other names for your Ward. The Convention voted this down. When you declined to serve, and as Chairman, I remarked to you he committee could fill any vacancy occurring, and so the matter was left. I am sure it was the wish of the Convention that you should serve on the commit tee, on account of your well known ability and your desire for the harmony and suc-

Your statement as made in your card l consider correct, but I understood the Convention did not act on your declining to serve, hoping you would consent, after due consideration, to serve.

Yours, truly, C. H. Robinson. We have yet to see wherein we did Col Moore an injustice in publishing his name in our report of the proceedings of the recent Convention as having been appointed a member of the Executive Committee wrong in so doing. By the testimony of the Chairman of the Convention "so the matter was left;" his declination was not accepted, and no action taken on the subject. When the Chairman took the position that the Convention had no right to accept his resignation, and that the committee had the right to fill its own vacancies, we understood it as ruling Col. Moore's declination out of order.
