Improvements. Building improvements now under way in the business part of the city are confined to Front street, with the exception of the rice mill going up at the foot of Chesnut. The new store on Front, adjoining the Express Company's office, has been fitted up for a druggist and is complete, save the finishing touches of the painter. It is handsomely finished in black walnut and is a model of neatness. The new store on the site of the burned building which was occupied by Mr. George A. Peck also approaches completion. When finished it will add much to the appearance of the street, and is a great improvement on the old structure that was burnt down. The skeleton walls of the old ice house adjoining still stand, but untouched since the fire. save for braces to keep them from falling in upon themselves, in very abjectness. The fire which started there several months ago still burns in the sawdust. A column of smoke was ascending from it yesterday. On the south side of Front, nearly opposite, workmen are busily engaged in tearing down the interior of the building belonging to the Tienken estate, preparatory to a complete remodelling of the structure. Further along, one of the stores in Granite Row-the Mozart saloon-is receiving a new front, which will add much to the ap-

We note as a matter of interest to parties intending to visit the western part of the State during the summer months that the Asheville papers state that railroad connections between that place and Wilmington, via Statesville, Charlotte and Hamlet, are perfect, there being practically no delay, it is said, at any point. Passengers from the South by the Air Line or the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, coming either by Salisbury or the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio Railroad, to Statesville, are not delayed, except three hours at Salisbury, which gives them ample time to get breakfast.

The corner stone of the monument to the heroes of 1780, to be erected on the battlefield of King's Mountain, will be laid today with imposing Masonic ceremonies. The monument will be thirty feet high, surmounted by the statue of a rifleman on top, something like the Confederate monument at Oakdale, barrifig the garb of the soldier. It is to cost $2,600. At the centennial celebration which takes place in October next troops will be present from all parts of the country. Will Wilmington be represented?

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winalow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still werse, and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands sleept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended with the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudices of the mother. Sold by all Druggists, 25 cents a bottle. 26th-possibly with flurries of snow in the

IN MEMORIAM.

DEATH OF MASON L. WIGGINS, Esq.

On Menday night, June 21, 1880, at his residence, near Ringwood, Halifax county, North Carolina.

MASON L. WIGGINS departed this life, aged 84 years. He survived his admirable Christian wife but a few years. He leaves sons and daughters to mourn their loss and to cherish his memory. An honest, a truthful, a sincere man has gone to his rest, full of years, and held in profound respect by all who knew him. Mr. Wiggins was ferty years a Steward in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He represented Halifax county in the State Senate for some eight or ten years, and was chairman of one of the most important committees. During the war he was mentioned favorably in connection with the Canfederate States Senate. He was a man of great personal integrity, was educated at the University of North Carolina. was well informed in many departments, was intelligent, and up to the last weeks of his life wrote with unusual vivacity and interest for one of his years. He was a great political canvasser, and had much influence and deservedly among his own people. He was a great tleman of fortune prior to the war, and entertained in a right royal way a great deal of company. He was decided in his convictions. There was no variableness or shadow of turning in him. He was conscientious, resolute, open, frank in all his dealings. Halifax county had no better citizen, and his name will be long held in honer and reverence by all the good and virtuous. The writer knew him intimately, esteemed him highly, and in common with hundreds of others laments his death. A true piecejof manhood is entombed where the mortal remains of Mason L. Wiggins awaits the final resurrection. Peace to his spirit.

The Field men are not wise in their generation. At Cincinnati they sent through the streets a brass band in a circus wagon, swathed in United States flags, and with the legend: "For President, Stephen J. Field. We Must Carry the Pacific Coast," on either side. They are doing some very indecorous and disagreeable button-holding, much to the disgust of gentlemen. He will hardly win. It has narrowed down to Seymour, Field and Bayard, seemingly.—Exchange.

It is Payneful to say that such will not probably be the case. The English of it may be another candidate, a sort of dark horse as it were. We will Seymour before this day ends. It may, however, prove a Field-day. A Bishop may be the choice. But who is wise enough to forecast what even one day will bring forth? The Convention adjourned early. At 2 o'clock it adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock. It means to deliberate calmly and consider well
