A NORTHERNER'S VIEW OF THE

Mr. R. P. Porter, of Chicago, has been quite prominent as a writer upon the industrial interests of the country. A paper of his published last year concerning the manufacturing and other industries of the Northwest, and the contrast he made between them and the industries of the Eastern States, arrested attention. H showed that the growth of the industries of the Northwest was astonishingly great and was rapidly surpassing investigator and what he says is well worth considering.

He has been investigating the resources of the Southern States, and has prepared a paper for Bradstreet, that is being discussed by our exchanges. We have not seen the original article, but some facts gathered from it are now before us. A Northern man he writes fairly and endeavors to find out what progress has been made. He says the South needs immigration. In North Carolina, he asserts, there is only 25 per cent. of the land improved. Immigrants with money are desiderated greatly. Here are some of his facts

"New and immense beds of phosphates have recently been discovered in South Carolina, but capital is needed to work them. Georgia has hundreds of thousands of acres of good soil for sale at 50 cents an acre, and the financial condition of the State is so sound that its loans are quoted at 12 per cent. above par. The rich and comparatively unknown valleys that lie between the Blue Ridge and the lateral ranges of Virginia and North Carolina carry gold, iron, copper and coal below the ground, while the surface lands can hardly be excelled for grazing purposes and the hill-sides are clothed with valuable timber. Tennessee has received within the last two years 7,000 immigrants, who have not come as paupers, but as purchasers of homes. Arkansas has probably taken not less than 10,000 of the same class during that time, and Texas is likely to show by this census a population of fully two millions. Stock raising in Texas affords a magnificent field for enterprise and capitak" But the great interest—that which cotton manufacturing. To carry the mills to the cotton is the great idea. In 1879 the United States had 12,-500,000 spindles. This requires 800,-000 hands and one thousand million dollars. But the South only ran 700,-000 spindles. So the North does the ste eloquent figures truly! spinning whilst the raw material is it is grown. If the cotton were manufactured where it is grown, Mr. Porter thinks $50,000,000 would be saved annually in the matter of transportation alone. Iron ores abound in the South, and iron can be made just as cheaply here as in Pennsylvania. We give some other facts as presented by

"By employing its laboring population in manufacturing enterprises, the South | began to fully sealize how great the will not only return within its own bor- loss would be if so great, so righteous, pleted, but it will have products to sell to other countries; and the more it has to sell The Philadelphia Weekly Notes thus the more miles of railroads will be built, and the more certain and remunerative will be the home markets of its farmers, and the greater will be the ability of all its people to possess themselves of inxuries and comforts drawn from every quatter of the globe. In Louisians sugar culture is having a boom. In 1865 the State produced but 5,000 tons; this year it has marketed 172,924 hogsheads of sugar, and 274,440 barrels of molasta, for which nearly $19,000,000 was realized. Yet, there is still much sugar land that is not cultivated. Forty-one mills for extracting oil from cotton seed are being worked in the cotton belt, and there is much money in the industry." the more miles of railroads will be built.

for the South. In North Carolina | Prof. Mommsen, of Berlin, takes : there is a rich field presented for capitalists and immigrants with some money. No State really presents greater attractions or a greater diversity of employment for the industrious. JUDGE BUXTON'S CHARGE IN "A man of brains and character furnishes the Raleigh News with an account of a case tried before Judge Buxton in Granville Superior Court. It is too long for our columns or we would copy it. The facts appear to be these :

"A colored man was undicted under the statute for the removal of a crop of tobacco which he had made as a cropper on the lands of ... a white man unions a division of the said crop had been made. before Buxton, Judge."

It was mostly hanging on a scaffold. A day was appointed for division. A misunderstanding occurred. The landlord went in search of a Justice of the Peace to divide the tobacco. He warned the defendant not to remove a leaf of the tobacco. The landlord was a man of unimpeached character. A negro swore that there had been a division of the tobacco. He, however, on crossexamination, directly contradicted himself. The State showed him to be a most infamous fellow, utterly unworthy of credit. Judge Buxton charged with a decided leaning to the defendant, although he (the negro) said that the landlord said to the defendant, "Don't you move any of this tobacco. I am going after 'Squire - to get him to divide it."

The jury was composed of seven negroes and five whites. The five whites and six negroes at once agreed. One negro hung them and they were out all night. Next morning his Honor sent for them. We quote from the News's correspondent:

"He said to them that he was surprised at their failure to agree. That the evi-dence against the defendant was so slight that if they had found a verdict of guilty he would have been compelled to set it aside, and he regretted he had not on the afternoon preceding charged that there was no evidence of removal before divicluded: 'I think I ought now to give you that charge'-and another pause, as if for reflection, and he said: 'Gentlemen of the jury, I will now charge you, that there is no evidence that this tobacco was removed before division.' And this in the face of sworn evidence of the State's witness to the contrary; in the face of the naguasted corroboration of this witness by the defendant's own witness, and in the face of the charge of his Honor on the preceding afternoon. His Honor then directed the Clerk to enter a verdict of 'not guilty,' and discharged the defendant."

We give this because it shows that Judge Buxton is a partisan on the bench-that he rules according to party sometimes and not according to evidence. It shows that Mr. Fuller's report of his official conduct in Cumberland does not stand alone. Will a partisan Judge make a good Governor? Will he not be the Governor of one party?

In 1869, $203,411.01 was expended of the Educational Fund. Of this sum but $39,000,000 was paid to teachers. Radicals did that. They did worse in 1868. They expended $167,156.18 of the Educational Fund, but not one dollar was paid for school purposes. This is the way the sacred fund was abused and misapplied. By way of contrast see what the Democrats did. For the year ending September 30, 1877, $289,213.32 was expended for legitimate school purposes. For the year ending September 30, 1878, $324,287.10 was expended for the same necessary and useful purpose—to educate the chil—Harper's Weship for March 15, 1873, with a dren, white and colored. For the double page cartoon, in which Garfield was a conspicuous figure, among other last fiscal year ending. September 30, Radical 'statesmen,' arranged under a 1879, $326,040.85 was expended in placard as follows: is attracting the most attention, is pended for the same necessary and education. There was a balance in the Treasury of $147,170.94. These wishes to put the Radicals back in raised in the South. The great idea power? Does any honest Tax-payer now is to develop manufacturing: to desire such a calamity to befal the their father, and insist that he was a have the cotton spun and wove where | State? Why should any man be willing to hand over the State Go. vernment again to such unfaithful and ravenous hards.

The restoration of Premier Gladtione gives great satisfaction to the English people. When he was stricken down by an attack that was feared might prove fatal, a pant of fear shot through the nation. They so popular a man should pass away.

refers to the matter : ILE 2011 'It is given to but few men to show themselves the reservoirs of such social and political force that their sudden removal by death, like Richelieu's or Cromwell's, would turn the current of history in new directions. Such a man was Cavour; such are Bismarck, Gambetta and Gladstone. But of the three it is only the Englishman who commends himself to the world's moral sease—as a man who has inbored for onds nearly unquestionable, by means which are altogether above question. Perhaps this the cotton belt, and there is much money in the industry."

It must be confessed that these details, and he gives many others, are full of encouragement. Work, in terprise, resolution, will do wonders altogether above question. Perhaps this sudden illness will convince the English people that their great leader is entitled to more consideration than he has received at the hands of his political opponents. Seldom has a Premier been more badgered than this man in whom the English people have declared their fulless confidence, and there is no doubt that this has affected his physical health.

rank with the greatest of modern historians His great "History of Rome" is regarded as by odds the and Euglish Club in San Francisco, ablest and most important work ever written on that subject. It will not supercede Globon's splended work but it will be preferred to it as an authority. Gibbon's work is immortal. Its great ability and its magnificence will always perpetuate it. But Mommsen is indispensable. We refer to him because of his great loss by fire, when he lost his very large and extremely valuable library that can never be replaced. The London Globe says of his loss: tProf. Mommses, almost ceside himsel could with the utmost difficulty be with-hold from rushing into the flames in the value hope of saving some of the precious documents hearded on his shelves. He was particularly anxious to get hold of those invaluable parchments handed down from remote antiquity, and lent to him as a special favor by the Papal authorities, or the libraries at Vienna, Paris and Berlin, for the purpose of being included in his grand work on "Roman Inscriptions," nearly finished when the awful conflagration put such a sudden stop to the labors of many years. An eye-witness, who saw the Professor just after the discovery of the fire, relates that he never beheld anything more touching than his agonizing grief. Besides the above-mentioned work on 'Roman Inscriptions,' all the materials for continuation of his famous 'History of lome,' destined to describe the time of the first emperors, have been utterly lost. By a singular coincidence Prof. Mommsen has undergone the same trial as Niebuhr, his great predecessor in the Professorship of History at the University of Berlin, whose library in his old age also fell a prey to the devouring element."

The STAR days ago referred a length to the serious results that might follow the action of the House of Lords in rejecting the Irish Eviction bill by such an overwhelming majority-282 to 51. There is but little doubt that it will increase whatever hostility exists to an hereditary peerage. The Philadelphia Weekly Notes, of the 7th instant, says of the House of Lords:

"But since the last election, the Peers eem to have been in a state of exasperation. They repudiated their own former liberty in the matter of burying dissenters in churchyards. They passed a resolution declaring that no public money should be expended in public education higher than the teaching of what the alderman called the 'three R'a.' And now they have deignied 'society' and the landlords every where, but provoked an Irish insurrection, by delivering famine-stricken tenants into the hands of grasping agents and landlords. "The consequences may be serious to themselves. The number of English radicals who desire to see this last of hereditary legislatures remodelled after the French or American Senate, is by no means

And now the papers are saying that Nast, greatest of living caricaturists, who has done the South a deal of harm and the country too, is for Hancock. He cannot stomach the fellow who was bribed by De Golyer and Oakes Ames. We find the following in the Raleigh Observer:

"Disgraced in the excot the public for owning Credit Mobilier, stock, which was in fact and intent a fraud upon the government. Also for deceit and evasion."

Oakes Ames left three sons. They have published a letter in defence of purer and more honest man than Garfield or any of the seven or eight Congressmen who received Credit Mobilier stock and then lied about it. They show up the meanness and cowardice of Garfield in trying to save himself at the expense of the man who befriended him. They are all Republicans. It is no Democratic funeral,

The Chairman of the Democratio National Committee, ex-Senator W. H. Barnum, has spent two weeks in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The Democrats, he reports, are very active and united. CURRENT COMMENT.

- The people are rapidly de-ciding that Hancock shall win the field. The enthusiasm of New England for Hancock is explained by the fact that Garfield has put his whole party in that quarter on the defensive; the enthusiasm of New York is explained by the fact that thousands of Republicans from that State served under Handock in the army; the enthusiasm of the West and the Pacific Coast is explained by the fact that Hanoock was born in Pennsylvania, and that thousands of Pennsylvanians and their children, are now living in the West and in California, and remember the story of Gettysburg; the enthusiasm of the South for Hancock is explained by the fact that the soldier who fought them so bravely in that historic battle forgave them most magnificently .- Forney's Philadelphia Progress, Ind. Rep. - This letter to Sherman will be read and studied with special interest

by intelligent citizens of all parties.

It will command attention not only because it relates to an extraordinary event in the history of the Republic, but because it must be accepted as the free, unbridled, heartfelt expressions of a soldier writing in the confidence of trusted friendship to his superior officer, who had, in like confidence and freedom, sought the judg. ment of his subordinate. It was written when no politicians buzzed about the soldier to halt his convictions or qualify his expressions. The intrinsic value of the letter consists in the fact that it was not written for the public eye, and that it gives free expression to the settled convictions of the writer. It is emphatically his own production. and not only the product of his own pen, but it is an honest declaration of his duty as a soldier and citizen in an emergency that made politicians of all sides quake with fear. It is most fortunate for General Hancock and equally fortunate for the country that partisan organs have so distorted this letter as to make its publication before the Correctional Triumal for attacks a public necessity. That it will be a campaign document of priceless advantage to General Hancock, is his for harvests. just advantage, for he merits all the considerate approval that such a letter must command from both friend and

What are the issues that the Republican party in North Carolina present for the consideration of the people? Are they not entirely on the same line as the issues presented ever since reconstruction? From the beginning they have sought to instil into the minds of the more ignorant part of our population a bitter prejudice against the better class of people. They have never cessed to misrepresent the views, purposes and practices of the Democratic party. The negroes have been taught from year to year to believe that Democratic success would be the death knell of their freedom.—Raleigh Observer.
