Last Saturday night the Radicals in Washington fired two hundred guns because they had succeeded in counting out General Plaisted. On Monday night the Democrats fired two hundred guns because Blaine and his patent Bulldozers got scared and did not count him out.

Col. A. M. Waddell made a political speech at Portland, Maine, on Monday night. It was the first of a series of public meetings to be conducted during the campaign under the auspices of the National Democratic Union." A dispatch reports Col. Waddell as saying:

"If I were a Northern man I should be sshamed to talk of the Solid South. It is pusillanimous. Truly, the South is solid for our flag, it is solid for Union, solid for good government, and solid for Gen. Hancock. [Cheers.] The iniquities of Republicanism made us solid in these respects. It is unique to state that we are solid in any It is untrue to state that we are solid in any wicked sense of the term. We are but a fraction of the Democracy and it is discreditable in the Republican leaders to hold us up as a scarecrow to affright the ignorant. They tell their hearers that if Gen. Hancock is elected the rebel debt will be paid and rebel soldiers pensioned. The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution bars any such payment and this peramount law cannot be changed without the consent of three-fourths of the legislatures of the States and two-thirds of the voters of the members of both Houses of Congress. In the name of common sense and simple arithmetic, how can such a thing be dione? The Southern States can certainly not accomplish it?

The Approaching State Fair.

In a letter to the STAR, covering a complimentary ticket to the State Fair, commencing on the 18th and continuing to the 23rd of October, for which we tender our thanks, Capt. C. B. Denson, Secretary, says he is gratified to report that the prospects for a Fair valuable to the interests of North Carolina and successful in every point of view were never so bright as at present. The displays of stock and variety of machinery, he says, will be unusually fine, while the trades' procession will be a great feature on Wednesday, and trials of speed throughout the week are expected to be on The displays of stock and variety of maan extensive scale.

Bishop Atkinson's Health. Col. J. W. Atkinson received a letter from his father, Bishop Atkinson, yesterday morning, dated at Rawley Springs, in the Valley of Virginia, where is now sojourning, in which he says his health has very much improved, and that his appetite is also much better than it was. This news will be gratifying to the many friends of the Bishop throughout the State.

The Fire Yesterday Morning.

The alarm of fire yesterday morning, about half past 11 o'clock, was caused by the burning of a small two-story frame building, the property of Ann-Waddell, widow of the well known drayman, Geo. Waddell, lately deceased, who occupied it. The house was situated on Fifth, between Harnett and Bladen streets, in the part of the city known as "Brooklyn." Notwithstanding the distance, however, the engines and hook and ladder truck were promptly on the spot, water was gotten upon the flames in an incredibly short space of time, and the firemen, notwithstanding the heat of the weather, to say nothing of that of the fire, worked with as much apparent zeal and earnestness as if the building they were trying to save had been the palatial residence of a princely nabob or millionaire, coming out of the contest with soot-begrimed countenances and clothing dripping with water and perspiration and colored with smut and cinders, each a living and breathing personification of the fact that the life of a fireman who does his duty, (as ours have always done,) when called to its performance, is anything else but a pleasant one, especially in hot weather. The upper part of the building was entirely destroyed, but the lower part was not so very badly damaged, and even the shade trees and creeping vines were preserved from destruction. The house was insured in the Phoenix, of Hartford, Mr. Norwood Giles, agent, for $300. The furniture on the lower floor was saved, but that on the upper floor was mostly destroyed. No insurance.

Ann Waddell, who is apparently a woman beyond the middle age, made a narrow escape from perishing in the flames while trying to save her bedding on the upper floor, and had to be taken out of the build-

The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the chimney, as the woman was engaged in ironing in the shed room adjoining the house, where the flames were first discovered.

Mayor's Court. John Williams, colored, was arraigned on the charge of disorderly conduct. Mr. Charles Murphy and Capt. John Fitzgerald testified that the defendant, on Saturday last, in the neighborhood of Seventh and Bladen streets, used very profane and abusive language, in a boisterous manner, so as to prove a serious annoyance to the neighbors, and that when remonstrated with, and a threat being made to report him to the authorities, he became still more boisterous, abusive and profane. The witnesses further testified that the defendant made it a habit frequently to act in the manner described, to the great annoyance of peaceable citizens. This was all the evidence, but other persons stood ready to give in testimony to the same effect, showing that his disorderly proceedings have not by any means been confined to the ocality mentioned. Mayor Fishblate ordered Williams to pay a fine of $50 or to be sent to the city prison for thirty days, being the full penalty of the law. Alice Hall, colored, had a hearing on the charge of disorderly conduct and resisting the police on North Water street Tuesday night. She was required to fork over s "ten dollar William" or go to the city prison for thirty days.
