OUTLINES
A tremendous gale prevailed at Penzance on the 7th; eight fishing boats and several yachts were destroyed and several lives lost.

Gen. Grant is well understood in the South. His character is fully appreciated. He has been a wonderfully lucky man, but he is not regarded as a great soldier, or as a successful statesman, or as a safe adviser, or as a man of strict and unswerving integrity.

Leading Republicans are beginning to see that the bitter assault upon Gen. Hancock by Gen. Grant, in his semi-authorized interview, published yesterday, is a serious political blunder, and one which will be certain to react upon the Republicans and do them much damage.

Germany will refuse to join in coercive measures against Turkey unless all the Powers participate. The Commercial Convention at Boston continued the discussion of free ships yesterday.

A grand parade of colored Odd Fellows at Richmond, Va. New York markets: Money 2 3/8 cent; cotton steady at 11 1/2-16 1/2-16 cents; southern flour firm and quiet at $4 90-95; wheat 1 1/2-1 3/4 better, with a fair export demand, ungraded red $1 04-1 1/4; corn 2 1/4-2 1/2 better and fairly active, ungraded $3 53-54; spirits turpentine higher and strong at 42-42 1/2 cents; resin strong at $1 60-61 1/4.

Richmond, Virginia, liked "David Crockett."

California expects to export from this year's crop of wheat 27,000,000 bushels.

Virginia Episcopalians demand either a division of their Diocese or the appointment of an Assistant Bishop.

What is up? Don Cameron, accompanied by two Washington detectives, has gone to Indiana. Don is after no good.

General Baldy Smith has given Grant a black eye for what he said against Hancock. It is too good to be overlooked, so we will copy it tomorrow.

Grant complains of being greatly bored by being asked so often to eat. In old times he was never heard complaining when he was asked "to take something."

There is a new comet, not visible here. Do not become alarmed, as it is computed that it is at least 40,000,000 miles from the earth. Prof. Farrington discovered it at Ann Arbor on Thursday of last week.

We are very glad to see it stated that the Republican Congressional Committee no longer count on Virginia for Garfield, and abandon expectation of capturing the three Representatives they once hoped for. This is indeed encouraging.

The Philadelphia Times of Monday says that City Commissioner Martin left Sunday night for Indiana, leaving in charge a band of voters to help "take care of the Republican interests" in that State. And still the rascals cry, "give us a free, pure ballot."

It is thought the registration in New York city will reach 200,000. It ought to do so according to the rule, one voter for every five inhabitants. It has considerably over 1,000,000 population. The World says this means 65,000 Democratic majority, and the Times, Rad., says "it is favorable to Democratic success."

A New York letter of the 6th inst. thus glances at the dry goods market: The dry goods jobbing trade remains quiet, and business is only moderate with the package houses. Cotton fabrics are in light demand, but leading makes are firmly held, and stocks are well in hand. Prints are sluggish, and ginghams in moderate request; heavy woollens quiet, but light-weight clothing descriptions are more sought for.

The Richmond Dispatch says: Fowler was run out of the New York Christian Advocate office by Rev. J. L. Lafferty, editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate, "by his powers of ridicule." That may be true. Lafferty has more wit than any living American as far as we know, except Dr. O. W. Holmes. He is as full of points as a porcupine is of quills, but he is not "fretful" but a genial, big hearted man of fun and wisdom. His ridicule of poor Fowler was ceaseless and inimitable. We enjoyed it prodigiously, and were almost sorry when the General Conference kicked Lafferty's butt out of the editorial chair.

THE MORNING STAR

VOL. XXVII.—NO. 15.

WILMINGTON, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1880.

WHOLE NO. 4,104

Gen. Grant is well understood in the South. His character is fully appreciated. He has been a wonderfully lucky man, but he is not regarded as a great soldier, or as a successful statesman, or as a safe adviser, or as a man of strict and unswerving integrity. That he is capable of doing many mean and indefensible acts the South fully believes, for it knows his civil record far too well to doubt it. The following from the Washington letter in the Baltimore Sun, dated the 6th, concerns Grant's contribution to the dirty political literature of the canvass:

"Leading Republicans are beginning to see that the bitter assault upon Gen. Hancock by Gen. Grant, in his semi-authorized interview, published yesterday, is a serious political blunder, and one which will be certain to react upon the Republicans and do them much damage. A prominent official, in talking about the matter to-day, said that many Republicans were deeply pained that Gen. Grant had permitted himself to be drawn into the political campaign and to engage in the work of assailing the Democratic candidate—one who had earned the gratitude of the nation by doing his duty on the battlefield; in his opinion, the recent talk of Gen. Grant would lower him in the estimation of thousands of persons who take little or no interest in the political warfare now going on."

Indianapolis special to the New York Herald of the 5th, says some of the negroes are becoming demoralized under Democratic enticements. A colored barber—a man of influence among his race—in stating that he had been offered $300 to operate among them to counteract the influence of Democratic money, said "colored human nature, like other human nature, it's powerful weak when there's money to be had."

The Indianapolis correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes on the 6th that the prevailing sentiment among the leaders is favorable to Democratic success. Conkling, who is in Indiana now, says he thinks the Democrats will win. Speaking of English's manager of campaigning it, Conkling said he was a man "who did not hunt humble bees with a brass band." He thought English would carry his State.

A slip of pen or memory yesterday led us to refer to the Governor of New Jersey as a Republican. One of the best and purest of Northern Democrats is happily the Governor of that State. We refer to Gen. George B. McClellan. If the Governor had seen the STAR we should at once beg his pardon for the insult offered, but not with malice prepense.

The best news from Ohio is that the Democrats stand a good chance of carrying a majority of the Congressional delegation. This is what Moses P. Handy writes to the Philadelphia Times on the 6th. He says the Democratic lines are weakening and the Republicans are gaining in the State elections.

Capt. V. V. Richardson and Col. T. F. Toon, candidates for the Legislature in Columbus, addressed the people at Sidney on the 4th inst. in most effective speeches.

Hon. W. M. Robbins and James M. Leach and others will speak at the mass meeting to be held at Denver, Lincoln county, on Saturday, the 23d. A correspondent writes that Senator Ransom spoke at Hendersonville Saturday to one of the largest, most attentive and enthusiastic crowds that ever assembled there. A large number of Republicans were present. Mr. Noyes, the Massachusetts "yankee," who spoke in Charlotte Saturday, would be a Democrat if he lived in the South. He said so, Fred. Douglass intimated as much at Raleigh. It is time for Barringer to sneak in his hole and pull it in after him.—Charlotte Observer.

Messrs. J. D. Stanford and D. B. Nicholson addressed the people of Duplin at Kenansville Saturday. Both made forcible speeches.

Hon. James M. Leach, one of the Democratic electors for the State at Large, will address the citizens of Sampson, at Clinton, on Friday, October 15th. Capt. W. H. Kitchen addressed the people of Greene county on Tuesday. Gov. Brogden spoke there the same day. The Governor has evidently not yet abandoned the Congressional contest.

Col. D. K. McRae and our townsman, H. F. Grainger, Esq., will address the people at Mount Olive next Saturday. D. H. McLean, Esq., is also expected to be present.—Senator Ransom will make a thorough canvass of the 1st Congressional District.—Goldboro Messenger.

W. L. Hargrove's Snow Hill letter relative to Judge Fowler's very able and eloquent speech at that place: With this principle in view the eloquent canvasser, ignoring petty issues, went at once to the fountain head. He discussed the Constitution of the United States—that great palladium of our liberties, the strength and the very source of our political power. It is only by guarding that—by keeping it sacred and inviolable—that our union can be perpetuated; our rights as men and citizens preserved. He showed how completely it provides for our individual freedom in all that is just and proper—how perfectly it protects each citizen in his rights of life, liberty and property. It is, he said, the greatest instrument that human wisdom ever framed for the government of a people—an instrument that has elicited the highest praise of all nations—the astonishment, indeed, and admiration of the world. I do not give his exact words.

The Raleigh News and Observer's Wadesboro letter of October 2 says: Mr. Callender, a Republican speaker from Massachusetts, spoke here yesterday afternoon. There was a pretty fair crowd to hear him, but his speech amounted to nothing. A Radical negro was heard to say after the speaker, "if that is the best the Northern Radicals can do, they had better not send any more speakers down here." Another correspondent writes: Col. Kenan, our candidate for Attorney General, spoke in Columbus, Polk county, to-day to a very large crowd. He was greeted in Columbus by two hundred mounted men, who escorted him in the town, where I listened to one of the best and most practical addresses of the campaign. Gen. Ransom also spoke, and with the same effect as at Hendersonville, changing, as I fully believe, the political complexion of both counties. He has certainly changed Henderson, and the vote to be cast in November will show it.—Letter from Yanceyville, of October 2d: Governor Jarvis, by appointment, spoke to a large number of the good people of Caswell county to-day. He was met about a mile from town by a body of one hundred and fifty horsemen, and was welcomed to Caswell by shouts of applause and a short address by Colonel Williamson. The Governor was then escorted to the courthouse, one of the finest buildings, the Governor says, in the State, and in a short time began an address to the most attentive audience, replete with good, hard sense and deep argument, at times eloquent and convincing. One old darkey remarked, "I never heard our folks talk dat way." His speech was about two hours' long, and many thought it was the best speech of the kind they had ever heard.

The Best. Warsaw Brief Mention. The Wilmington STAR, the best newspaper in this State, if not in the South, has entered upon its twenty-eighth half yearly volume. Continued success to it.

Spirits Turpentine.—Revenue collections in Fifth District for September $96,425.33.—We made the correction as to Mr. Long's speech the New Bernian justly complains of. The error occurred as it supposed.—The New Bern Record is again out, this time under the editor's management of Mr. A. C. Latham. It has our best wishes.—Robesonian: We learn that Dr. J. B. Brown, (the Physician of Baptist Ashpole), has upwards of fifty cases of fever within five miles of said place.—Raleigh Visitor: Ex-Gov. Holden, now in his 63d year, came to this city on the 7th of October, 1880. He has, therefore, been here forty-four years.—Master Marshal Haywood, a son of Dr. R. B. Haywood, fell from a ladder this morning and broke his leg.—Revels in the Raleigh Advertiser. We condense: Guilford circuit, 9 professions; Wentworth circuit, 10 professions; Randolph circuit, over 30 professions; Neuse circuit, over 85 accessions during the year; Stokes circuit, 16 accessions; Stanley circuit, 49 professions; 43 accessions.—The N. C. Presbyterian publishes a four-column address by G. A. Wilson, M. D., of Granville county, delivered before the Presbyterian Union, Shiloh church, in that county, on August 28th. Dr. Wilson is a young man of fine abilities and has set an excellent example for his elders in the medical profession.—Winston Leader: Never before in the history of Winston was there such a demand for houses as at this time. Both dwelling and store houses are wanted, more especially dwelling houses. Our population is rapidly on the increase. New buildings continue to go up in every direction—a large number are contracted for, and yet the supply is not equal to the demand.—Raleigh News and Observer: The chief marshal, Col. A. B. Gorell, of Forsyth, has requested the corps of assistant marshals of the fair to assemble in Raleigh Saturday, October 16.—Trains are now running through to Asheville. The winter schedule is now as follows: Salisbury at 10:20; leave Salisbury at 6:30 A. M., arrive at Asheville about 6:00 P. M.—The storehouse and entire stock of goods, belonging to Mr. J. C. Williams, of Black River township, Hatteras county, was destroyed by fire at about 3 o'clock A. M.—We are glad to learn that the Goldsboro Rifles will be here at the fair.—Goldboro Messenger: The annual conference of the Disciples of Christ is being held this week with the church at Bethel, in Lenoir county.—A very painful accident happened Wednesday to Mr. Cicero Cuttlinger, a worthy and industrious farmer of Pikeville township. He was hauling a bale of cotton to town, and on the road his cart shafts broke suddenly, throwing the bale forward and to the ground. Mr. Cuttlinger was caught under the cotton and had his thigh badly broken.—The next annual Conference, of the Methodist Protestant Church, is to be held at Tabernacle, ten miles south of Greensboro, on Wednesday, Dec. 1st, 1880.

Lenoir Topic: The Wilmington STAR, one of the best edited papers in the South, has entered its twenty-eighth volume. Last Saturday the tobacco barns of D. D. Coffey and Mr. Leonard, of John's River Township, accidentally caught fire and were consumed. They were both full of tobacco.—At "Fort Defiance," the old family residence in Caldwell county of the Lenoirs, is still preserved, the sword of General Wm. Lenoir, which he captured at the battle of King's Mountain. This sword is of high tempered steel, and has upon its keen blade an inscription in Spanish, which translated reads: "Never draw me without reason"—"Never sheath me without honor."

Charlotte Observer: Henry Rhoads, a young man living in Charlotte township, recently picked 520 pounds of cotton in one day, working from sunrise to sunset.—A small, but appreciative audience heard Miss Clarke at the Opera House Tuesday evening. Miss Clarke evinced rare talent and gifts in the beautiful art of elocution.—Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock Mr. J. B. Franklin, an old and respected resident of this city, died at his residence of consumption, after a long and protracted decline.—Daylight yesterday morning disclosed on the railroad near the town of King's Mountain the shocking evidences of a terrible fire, which must have occurred sometime during the night before. It was the mangled and disfigured remains of a man whom a party of friends soon identified as those of Mr. John Mattrey, a citizen of Cherryville, N. C. It was learned that he had started towards King's Mountain from the Centennial grounds the night before in company with a party of friends who were drinking and the dead man straggled behind the rest and got lost from them. It is supposed that he lay down on the rails, sunk into a deep sleep and was run over by the train.

The City. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS IN MUMSON—"King" shirt. J. C. MUNDY—German Cologne, &c. HARRISON & ALLEN—Something new. P. CUMMING & Co.—Duck street mills. Local Items.—Cotton receipts yesterday 571 bales.—The storm-flag was displayed at the Signal Station yesterday.—Our weather bulletin shows heavy rains at Charleston, Jacksonville, Punta Rasa, Savannah and Cedar Keys.—The Grand Jury of the Criminal Court were discharged yesterday, and the Court will probably adjourn for the term this morning.—The wind was brisk, 24 miles per hour, at Charleston, and blowing a gale, 44 miles per hour, at Savannah at 8 o'clock, P. M., yesterday.—The latest intelligence from Dr. DeLoates reports the indications of his condition more encouraging, and the good news has had a corresponding effect upon his relatives and friends here.—The fourth and last Quarterly Meeting for the present Conference year for Fifth Street Methodist church, South, of this city, will be held by the Presiding Elder, Rev. Dr. Burkhead, to-day and tomorrow. The public is invited.—Col. Jas. M. Robinson, of the Seaboard and Roanoke railroad, and Maj. Jas. C. Winder, of the Raleigh and Gaston railroad, were here yesterday. They informed us that they came here to hunt coots. We told them it was a coot joke, whereupon they "scouted."

By reference to our report of the nominees of the late Brunswick county Democratic Convention we find that the name of the candidate for Surveyor, John W. Bennett, was omitted. The name of the candidate for Coroner is Julius W. Taylor, not Julian, as it appeared in our report.

Daily Weather Bulletin. The following will show the state of the thermometer, at the stations named, at 8:00 P. The following are the indications for the South Atlantic States to-day: Threatening weather and rain, winds generally from north to east, falling, followed by rising barometer and a slight rise in temperature.

Bladen County. The Democratic Convention of Bladen county met at Elizabethtown on Wednesday last. We are informed that Mr. N. A. Stedman, Jr., was nominated for Representative, Mr. George Melvin for Sheriff, and Mr. T. M. Benson for Register of Deeds. The names of the nominees for the other county officers our informant was unable to give.

Ward Meetings. The continuous rain which prevailed yesterday prevented a full attendance at the Democratic Ward meetings last night, and in consequence no action was taken beyond an adjournment to next Tuesday evening.

Mayor's Court. Fred. Bradley was arraigned on the charge of drunkenness and resisting the police. Officer O'Brien stated that he found the prisoner drunk in the neighborhood of Seventh and Chestnut streets, about 7 o'clock Thursday evening. He persuaded him to go home, but he declined to take the advice, and when the officer finally attempted to arrest him he resisted. The policeman summoned parties that were passing to assist, but they failed to respond, and in the meantime a struggle ensued between the officer and the defendant, during which they fell to the ground. Officer O'Brien found it necessary to use his club on the man, but with little apparent effect, though Bradley yelled "murder" so lustily that policemen some distance down the street heard the cries and hurried in the direction of the sound. In the meantime, however, the officer had succeeded in securing assistance, and was about starting to the guard house with Bradley when the reinforcements arrived. He appeared in Court quite bloody, and stated to the Mayor, after the evidence was all in, that he was so drunk that he "didn't know the policeman from his wife," and when he awoke in the morning he was surprised to find that he was not at home. He craved the mercy of the Court, which was extended in the shape of a fine of $25 or thirty days in the city prison for resisting the police, judgment being suspended in the case of drunkenness.

Scipio Hill—poor Scipio!—was up for being down with his old complaint, and was sent below to reflect upon the mutability of human affairs and the probable chances of a reduction of the tariff on "shorts."

An Unwary Country Darkey makes a Narrow Escape from Hefeg "Fieceddy" by a City Brother. A colored man from the "rural districts," who had been trading somewhat extensively with some of the merchants in the neighborhood of the foot of Princess street, yesterday afternoon, and placed a bundle of goods, worth about eight or ten dollars, on the cap of the wharf, while waiting for the steamer Busy Bee, which was to take him part of the way home, remembered in the meantime another purchase he had to make, when he hurried up the wharf a few steps to accomplish his errand. All unsuspecting though the countryman was, eager eyes were watching his movements, and no sooner had he disappeared than "a man and brother" had grabbed up the bundle, and, thinking himself unobserved, hastily tripped into an unoccupied flat lying at the wharf, carried the package into the cabin, where he left it, and then hurried up the street, no doubt with the intention of returning for it at the first convenient season; but other eyes had been watching his movements as well, and when the country darkey returned and exclaimed "O, my Lord, where's my bundle!" he was informed by a gentleman who had witnessed the whole transaction that his precious package was in the cabin of the flat alluded to, and there, greatly to his relief, he succeeded after some difficulty in finding it, stowed away under a box.

Carolina Rice Mills. The new Carolina Rice Mills, erected near the foot of Chestnut street by Messrs. Norwood Giles and Pembroke Jones, are about completed, and on Wednesday the machinery was put to a practical test and found to work to the entire satisfaction of the proprietors. They expect to have the mills permanently at work in a week or two. The engine is 70-horse power and the capacity of the mills about five hundred bushels per day. The miller in charge, Mr. Butts, of Charleston, gives it as his opinion that the mills are as complete in every respect as any in the country. The machinery was erected under the superintendence of Mr. Brotherhood, of Charleston, S. C.

The building is of brick, 40x50 feet in dimensions and four stories high. We wish the enterprising proprietors the most unbounded success in their new and important venture. Now bring along your rice.

The Speaking To-Night. We are authorized to announce that if the weather this evening should be too inclement for an outdoor meeting the address of Hon. W. M. Robbins will be delivered at the Opera House, instead of from the porch of the Telegraph office. Mr. Robbins is expected to arrive this morning on the steamer Passport from Smithville, at which place he spoke to the Democrats of Brunswick yesterday. There were no arrivals from that place last night and consequently we have no account of the meeting.

Mr. Robbins has served several terms in Congress from the Seventh District of this State, is a gentleman of decided ability, and is represented to be a very entertaining speaker. Come and hear him.

The Amendments. In a letter to Col. John D. Taylor, of this city, Capt. Oct. Cook, Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, says: "I thoroughly examined the laws in relation to the amendments, and have no hesitations in giving it as my opinion that 'there should be a separate box for each of the amendments.' The other boxes will be arranged as usual.

Barque Kintracht, hence, arrived at Antwerp yesterday. Up to Thursday afternoon there had been a rise in the river of about two inches, but yesterday morning no further improvement had been noted.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE is particularly recommended for Wakefulness, Hysteria and other diseases of the nervous system.

OUR WATER.

Another report from Dr. Wood. The following are analyses of water made at the Laboratory of the Agricultural Experiment Station for the North Carolina Board of Health, of waters from Wilmington, as below designated:

Table with columns: LOCALITY, Total Solids, Chlorine, Free Ammonia, Albuminoid Ammonia. Rows include Greenfield Pond at the Mill, Greenfield Pond 1 mile above Mill, Smith's Creek at the Bridge Mill, and Smith's Creek at Millton.

According to the above analyses of the water of Smith's Creek, a marked difference is observed in the results as compared with my last report. The difference is probably due to the season of the year in which the specimens were collected for analysis. The previous analyses of water collected in the Spring, showing a considerably smaller proportion of solid ingredients, &c., viz:

Specimen No. 27 grains solids per gallon; 1.3 grains chlorine per gallon; .08 parts per million free ammonia; .18 parts per million albuminoid ammonia.

Specimen No. 28 0.0 grains solids per gallon; 1.3 grains chlorine per gallon; .08 parts per million free ammonia; .20 parts per million albuminoid ammonia.

The chlorine present is in very small proportions, clearly indicating that the free and albuminoid ammonia is the result of the decomposition of vegetable matter, rather than of animal matter. The increase of vegetable decomposition in the Fall satisfactorily accounts for the increase of ammonia, as well as of solid matter.

Now as to the analysis of the water in Greenfield Pond there are also like differences to be noted, as compared with Prof. Kerr's analyses given in my last report. I am not aware at what season his specimens were collected, and cannot say why Prof. Kerr's analyses gives "2.68 solids," not clearly stated in his report as to the ratio, and the present report to the both of our specimens in excess of 4.0 grains per gallon.

These variations are noticed as regards all waters, of which analyses are made publicly. The water companies in several cities in Great Britain make careful periodical reports of the chemical analyses, and they are regularly given to the public.

One has just come to our notice. The Loch Katrine water, which is supplied to the city of Glasgow, shows the following: Total solid impurity (in parts per 100,000), 2.90; organic carbon, 0.174; organic nitrogen, .014; ammonia, 0.00; nitric nitrogen, 0.007; total combined nitrogen, 0.021; chlorine, 0.65; hardness, 1.68. The statement of the analysis is rather different after the method here adopted, but it shows the Loch Katrine water to have far less impurities than our specimens. Or, to speak more accurately, take the best specimen in our list, which is the water in Greenfield Pond, one mile above the mill. It has in this specimen 4.6 grains of solid matter to the gallon, that is, in 61,430 parts by weight of water, we have 4 parts of solids. In the Loch Katrine water, though the adjective "harmful" is prefixed to "solid constituents," it is manifestly the harmless parts are not estimated—and this idea is confirmed as we notice that the "hardness" of the water is estimated separately as 1.68. This hardness is due to lime and in our analysis the lime is estimated in the total solid constituents. If the 1.65 lime be added to the "solid impurities" it would give a proportion bearing a closer relation to the specimen, viz: 4.50 parts solids to 100,000 parts of water.

Since my statements have unintentionally drawn me into making a comparison, it is proper to state that I have placed the waters of a pond not at all prepared as a water-supply in contrast with a beautiful lake upon which large sums of money have been expended to make its water pure.

At some future time, with your permission, I will give the standard method of determining "hardness" of water, and at the proper time compare the sources of our natural water supply.

THOMAS F. WOOD.

Criminal Court—Report of the Grand Jury. The following is the substance of the report of the Grand Jury of the Criminal Court, now in session, made to His Honor, Judge Meares, yesterday: "We, the Grand Jury for the October term, beg leave to say 'hat, in the discharge of our duty, we have visited the Jail and Poor House and find both in good condition, and from what we could see, well kept, and the prisoners and occupants properly cared for."

No cases of importance were disposed of yesterday, the time of the Court being taken up principally in considering a case of alleged extortion on the part of a township constable.

These are the days when the man with the shot-gun goes out hunting and gets back with a bad cold. Then Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup takes the place of the gun every time.
