Nothing can intimidate me from doing what I be tieve to be honest and right.—Hancock in 1868. The right of trial by jury, the habeas corpus, the liberty of the press, the freedom of speech, the matural rights of persons, and the rights of property, must be preserved.—Hancock in 1867.

When insurrectionary force has been overthrough and peace established, and the civil authorities are ready and willing to perform their duties, the mili-tary power should cease to lead, and the civil adminion resume its natural and rightful dominion -Hancock in 1867.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET. For Governor-THOMAS J. JARVIS. " Lieut. Governor-Jas. L. Robinson.

" Sup't of Public Instruction-J. C. SCARBOROUGH FOR JUDGE OF THE 4TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

R. TYLER BENNETT. FOR JUDGE OF THE 5TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT,

JOHN A. GILMER THINK OF THESE PHINGS.

Let every Democrat in the Third District remember three very impor-

First, every vote is necessary. No man can stay away from the polls and thus fail to do his duty without self-condemnation, whether we win or are defeated. If we are victorious, and we hope we shall be, then the delinquent has no part or lot in the rejoicing, for the victory was none of his. If we are defeated through his culpability then his consolation will be that he helped to restore to power the corruptest and most treacherous party known to Second, the election of the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Third District may be necessary absolutely in order to give the Democrats a majority in the next U. S. House of Representatives. Be sure to do all you can to prevent such a sad and damaging catastrophe as the election of Collector Canaday as the Representative of 18,000 Democrats in the Third District. How can he represent one Democrat, much less 18,000?

Third, be assured that the Radical managers in Washington and New York will make a strong effort to capture this Congressional District. and other Districts in the State, and also to place North Carolina in the Garfield column. Are you prepared for such a result? Are you willing that North Carolina's ten electoral votes shall be given to the base and ignoble fellow who was mainly instrumental in stealing the vote of Louisiana in 1876, thereby defeating Mr. Tilden who had carried that State by at least 8,000 votes; who gave the eighth vote in the Electoral Commission which consummated the great outrage and defrauded the people of the United States of the right of choice and placed in the Presidential chair a man who was never elected by a majority of the voters or by a majority of the electoral votes; who wanted to place a cordon of bayonets around the South, to give up its lands to the victorious soldiers, and who would dishonor every true man in the South by forcing him to acknowledge bimself a traitor; who stands convicted before the country by the records of his own party and by the voice of the leading Republican papers, as a bribe-taker in two instances, as a professional friend of subsidy schemes and jobberies; who is a free trader in one section and a high protective tariff advocate in another section; who is now in the hands and under the control of the extremest men in the Radical party? Are you prepared to see such a base creature, without honor and without manliness, the tions and the uncompromising enemy | the South could prophesy or desire of the honest laboring man-are you would be realized fully. It says: prepared to have such a fellow as this to be the President of fifty million people? If you are not, then do your duty. Go to work now for Hancock and reform and a restored brotherhood. Go to the polls and flourished under slavery. The politician tent that prompts the bloody-shirt gence, and makes them grow more sanguinary the farther we are removed from the days of the war and the scenes of strife and carnage.

Four years of rule under a wise, hu-any abuse of the South by the evil-minded fellows who feed upon hate

Executive would have a wonderful effect in assuaging all sectional animosities. This we believe most steadfastly. Let us try it. Why should the North hate the South?

Why should that section be regarded with suspicion and jealousy that keeps every promise and is so largely forever. Their harp, so far from hav ing a thousand strings, has but one string now. They say if the Democrats are elected all that was accomplished by the four years of war and the results of reconstruction will be lost. They know that the Democrats of the North furnished more soldiers than the Republicans did, and they know that the Democrats are as much resolved on carrying to a final issue what the war brought about as the Republicans can be possibly. Then why make such a foolish charge? Why attempt to deceive and bamboozle the North? It is all for party and nothing for country, and that is the matter with the Re-

But, say the Stalwarts, the Demoocrats cannot be trusted. If Hancock is elected he will allow the Southern Democrats to run the machine. Even the lordly Roscoe Conkling grows excited over the remote prospect of some future, imaginary domination of the South, and venom flows from his fangs in a continuous stream. But this is all gammon. He knows, and every Stalwart knows, that Gen. Hancock is the very embodiment of patriotism, honor, decision, and good sense, and that he will do all he has promised to do in his letter of acceptance. They know he would gather about him only prudent, wise, honest and honorable advisers, and that his administration of the Government would be constitutional and truly republican, without favoring this party or that, this section or that. He would be President of the terests will probably from this time forth break up the anomaly of a 'solid' South.

The patriot should rejoice that admission to a share in the nation's splendid material prospects will destroy the last vestiges of bitterness and resentment over the 'lost cause' in the South. Perhaps most of all the city of New York, as the commercial metropolis for the products and the distributing point for the supplies of a large part of the South, is concerned in its new and glorious departure. Already mony throughout the country. The the merchants of New York have resumed their old ante-war relations of commercia asperities and antagonisms and haintimacy and sympathy with the South. treds of sectionalism have been kept They no longer depend for their prosperity upon the abundance or the price of wheat alive by just such fellows as Conkin the Northwest. prosperity of New York."

CONKLING'S LOGIC TURNED AGAINST HIMSELF. The Rochester (N. Y.) Union has been feeding Conkling out of his own dirty spoon. It takes up his figures and theory as applied to the South and brings them nearer home-to New York. Coukling insists in his New York speech that "the superior property-owning and tax-paying power" of the North should dominate the Government of the Union. His idea is that wealth should have political control-that the "bulk and substance of the nation's wealth and business," should be all-controlling in matters of Government. The Union directs him to two counties-New York and Kings--and shows that according to his theory as applied to the South, these should control the legislation of New York and shape its policy entirely. He shows tributary to the immense wealth of | that these two counties pay in State, county and town tax $33,380,858, But the Northern Radical papers | whilst the remainder of the State pays have one key upon which they play only $13,757,241. That is to say, these two counties pay $29,613,241 more taxes than the rest of the State. These counties are very largely Democratic, giving as much as 80,000 majority, we believe. The Union asks Conkling if his argument be good for anything why he does not step down and out and allow the preponderating wealth centres to name his successor? But Lord Roscoe will fail just here to see the force of his own argument, He will not, however, be able to answer the Union's interrogation.

> Mr. E. B. Anderson, a Republican of Boston, has been examining patiently and fairly into the record of James A. Garfield. He has published in pamphlet form the result of his investigations. He desired to find out the precise truth and to fairly consider all the testimony. We can only make room for a brief passage, in which Mr. Anderson records his conviction of Garfield's character and guilt. He says:

> "Who ever said Garfield sold himself for $329? Who ever thought so? If it were clearly proven to me that he had sold himself for $3,000, I should be strongly inclined to excuse him on the ground of temporary insanity. On no other ground could I beieve that the Credit Mobilier was the first case in which he had used his position for dishonorable purposes. Men at Garfield's age, and in his position, do not sell themselves for $3,000. But what has that to do with the case? Sell him for $329! The chances are fifty to one that he had sold himself a hundred times before, and escaped with impunity. Had he dreamt that this time he would be found out it would have taken a high price indeed to tempt him. But, under ordinary circumstances, $2,000 or $3,000 to a corrupt man is not to be thrown away, especially when there was but little to be done for it! and Oakes Ames was a safe man to do business with. I have no doubt Garfield's jobs generally were bigger than this."

And yet this is the man the honest intelligent Republicans in the North are asked to support in preference to Gen. Hancock, the truth-teller, the doer of good deeds, the patriot and statesman, upon whose fair name no spot or wrinkle can be found.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- To have the tariff flung into the canvass at the last moment, as though a new discovery had been made of designs upon the country, is absurd. When a Republican orator draws his sombre picture of a tariffless nation he invites attention to the fact that his candidate is one of the foreigners of distinction who have been chosen honorary members of the Cobden Club. Now the Cobden Club is a body of very intelligent men-devoted to one object-the dissemination of free trade. It elected Gen. Garfield a member because it supposed be was in sympathy with its views. - New York Herald, Ind.

-- Mr. Edwards Pierrepont, in an address at the Cooper Union, was so indiscreet as to take up this report of Gen. Grant's Fowler interview, apparently without inquiry, and quote its very unbecoming attack on Gen. Hancock as "ambitious, vain, and weak," as words of wiedom. But, bad as it was, it was not quite so bad as the respectful quotation of the following extraordinary language of Gen. Grant's in this same Fowler interview, or rather the corrected cause of it: "If Gen. Hancock should be elected," he said, champion of the moneyed corpora- cock all that the sincerest friends of "the North would submit quietly and

As soon as things began to grow wrong every North-ern Legislature would be convened "That the South's turn at last has come to share the benefits of the wonderful material development that is characteristic to modern Westers civilization need cause nobody slarm. of a man who must be charitably sup. posed not to know his own meaning; but its adoption by an elderly Republican lawver and politician, at a public meeting called to protest against the alleged secessionist, anarchical, and state right tendencies of the South, is certainly extraordinary. Suppose a Southern politician were to call on the State Legislatures | friends were known or believed to be on to meet when they thought "things | board, when to-day's news not only failes were going wrong" in Washington, and recall the members of Congress, what name should we give their action ?-- Nation, Republican.

--- They are boasting that the Republican party cannot be ousted from its entrenchments. They do not intend that elections shall elect any more in this country. They mean to hold on to power in any and all contingencies, and they omit no opportunity to show their lordly contempt for "the vulgar populace," for "the turbulent and dangerous are not strong and brave enough now or perhaps twenty in number. to vote down these plotters against liberty, they never will be. And if having voted them out in November, the people do not see that they get out in March, we may say farewell to liberty. - Waihsngton Post, Dem.

About Frauds.

Cincinnati Commercial, Rep. CLEVELAND, October 14.-E. V Smalley, of the New York Tribune, is in the city, on the way East from Indiana, where he made a careful study of the campaign. In an interview with a Leader reporter, he stated that the Republicans made more than one thousand votes by colored importation. New York Truth (Independent), Oc ober

In Columbus City, Ohio, one thousand more votes were recorded than the census returns as the number of male inhabitants. There is nothing surprising in this, in view of the Republican majority in the State. The only wonder is that the Republicans did not colonize ten thousand instead

Gen. Butler on Indiana Frauds. "Aside, however, from the local issues, which will not enter into the next election, the loss of the State to the Democrats is largely attributable to 'repeaters' brought there by Republicans."

"How many 'repeaters' do you suppose there were?" "It is impossible to tell. If their name is not legion, they did a legion of harm. I met a gentleman from Alexandria, Va., who confessed to having taken fifty there.'

"And I know a man in the Custom House here who took twenty from this city," interrupted a gentleman.

A dispatch from Alexandria, Va., says: "For the past two days squade of negroes have been arriving in this city from Indiana. Friday morning a company of ten arrived. Those arriving did not hesitate to my that their passage from North Carolina to Indiana had been paid by a gentleman from the North.'

Remember that Jarvis has been at the belm of the State two years, and has made a most excellent Governor. Under his ad ministration the laws have been enforced the rights and powers of the cours have not been curtailed, the people have prospered as never before, and the two races, inder his advice, bave cultivated feelings of good will and harmony. No disorders have occurred; the public schools have been kept open; the taxes kept down, and honesty, efficiency and a faithful discharge of duties have marked his administration. Why, should there be a change ?- Raleigh

The present road law, as amended duing the late extra session, is doubtless the best ever enacted. It bears alike upon the rich and the poor. The only persons exempted from road working are the township trustees, otherwise all able-bodied male persons between the ages of 18 and 45, are required to do and perform each year four days' labor on the highways, or instead pay the sum of four dollars to the use of the roads. There are certain designing demagogues, we might more justly call them fools, who are making every effort to misrepreseot the road law and to prejudice the ignorant against it .- Golds-

WRECK OF THE ALPENA FULLY CON-FIRMED--LOSS OF ENTIRE LIST OF PASSENGERS AND CREW. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. 1

CHICAGO, October 19.—The excitement and suspense which for the past three days have been hourly increasing respecting the fate of the Alpena, were changed to profound serrow on the part of those whose to report her safety, but announced the cetainty of her destruction. The offices of the Goodrich line have been filled with mournful faces. It is not deemed possible that any one could have been saved from the wreck. Had a raft been made it could hardly have lived five minutes amid the fierce beating of the waves, and none probably will ever tell the story of the wreck. Vesse men believe she struck a rock somewhere off the east shore and went to bit ces some distance from the beach. There is much complaint of the laxity of the Company in having no list of passengers. The crew was thirty strong. It is stated when the vessel left Muskegon she had seventy passengers and at Grand Haven she took on five. mostly women. Goodrich, however, thinks masses." State bonds dul!, Governmente State Central Committee and numerous quiet. candidates for Presidential electors, met bere last night for consultation as to the eligibility of the electors. Stanly Matthews presented an opinion that persons holding offices other than Federal offices, were eligible as such electors, but that to avoid all semblance of objection from any quarter, he deemed it desirable that persons holding any office, elective or appointive, should resign either those positious or their places on the electoral ticket. A resolution to this effect was adopted and the entire evening occupied in inducing the candidates for electors to accept the decision of the Committee. Generals Grosvenor and S. S. Warner, candidates for electors at large, decided to resign their places as directors of the Soldiers' Orphaus' Home and the Northern Ohio Asylum, respectively. Dr. Beaman retired rather than resign his place as member of the Assembly. Several other candidates resigned minor offices.
