

MORNING STAR

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARY.

The railroads will engrave their due share of strength on the Great Western. No charters and amendments in either case will be the order of the day. The question of railroad commission authorized to look after the public interests and see that the railroads do not violate their charters nor infringe on the rights of the public will probably be considered. A school law will also among the measures of greatest importance to be introduced. All Myrtlewood Examiner

Now that the Legislature is in session, we hope that it will be able to be said by all correspondents that it is time to turn our attention to important matters in the subject of education. It is the most important question open for discussion, and if the existing law contains defects that can be remedied by amendment, the suggested improvements ought to be freely discussed. Let us seek to popularize education in the State and extend its benefits, seeing that every interest of the people should be promoted by the education of public schools on an equal scale, and by the employment of more competent teachers. We should awaken every neighborhood to the importance of the movement, and enlist the sympathies of all earnest people in its success.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Froude, the historian, has written M. Edwin Boott very interesting news in praise of his Hamlet.

—About half of Queen Victoria's subjects are descendants of our husbands or descendants of Lord Granville's grandmothers.

—It is expected that Sir Garnet Wolsey will be sent to South Africa to quell the latest insurrection of the Boers in the Transvaal.

Gen. Sir Frederick Roberts doesn't think he paid a penny for his services in Afghanistan. He is a comparatively poor man, and feels that he cannot properly support the dignity of a peer.

—Henry D. Huntington, the well known publisher, worked in a printing office when a boy, and began his college course at Burlington, Vt., with twelve cents in his pocket. He was $300 in debt when he graduated.

Mile. Bernhardi evidently is losing upon the people of Chicago as a south wind. The sale of season tickets to a Bowditch engagement caused one of the stores to close up shop because the bowels, as their arrangement is rectified by the action of the Bitter, mental despondency reproduced.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Davis will go to Europe.

—Since writing the above I regret to inform you that he has since sold his horse, and his face badly beaten by his master's riding horse, but by the skillful management of Dr. McGuill and Dr. Drewry, he is out of danger, but badly disfigured.—Cor. Richmond Star.

A Mr. Richardson, of Cresson, Mississippi, is the largest cotton planter in the world, and is the cotton king of America. He has worked hard all his life, and is still working. He is believed to have accumulated from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. Eight hundred hands are employed in the cotton factories he owns, three-fourths of whom are women, the remaining fourth are men and boys. He works 400 hands and 18,000 spindles.

N. Y. Financial Chronicle.]

Friday, P. M., Dec. 31, 1880.—The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, is given below. For the week ending this evening, (Dec. 30), the total receipts have reached 196,435 bales, against 237,980 bales last week, 238,490 bales the previous week, and 243,137 bales three weeks since, making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 3,454,093 bales, against 3,166,855 bales for the same period of 1879, showing an increase since September 1, 1880, of 287,244 bales.

The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 115,099 bales, of which 60,394 were to Great Britain, 27,165 to France, and 26,940 to rest of the Continent, while the stocks as made up this evening are now 974,184 bales.

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that, compared with the corresponding week of last season, there is an increase in the exports this week of 39,932 bales, while the stocks to-night are 93,772 bales more than they were at this time a year ago.

A Little Girl Frightened to Death.

The Hartford Democrat contains the following: Last week the children at public school No. 3, near Carson's Run, proposed to play ghost, and selected Annie Sibley, a little girl about 11 years of age, as their victim. They accordingly organized, and without the knowledge of Annie posted one of their number in the pines enveloped in a sheet. To this place they led the unsuspecting little girl, and at a given signal the sheeted figure made its appearance. The children who were in the plot ran and hallooed "Ghost" and, with them ran little Annie, believing she had seen a real ghost. She reached the school room door and fell insensible, literally frightened to death. She was taken to her father's house, near by, and died the next day.
