"The rumor is that Fred. Douglas wil be sent as Minister to Hayti and a promiuent white Republican given the marshalship of the District of Columbia."

We would like to know if this change will be pleasing to the aged Fred, who is more than seventy years old, we suppose? Possibly Garfield prefers a man of another skin to fill an office that brings its occupant in such near relations to the President.

Captain James M. Waddell, o North Carolina, well known in this city, has memorialized Congress to remove his political disabilities. In his petition he says that he is now fifty years of age; that he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1848 as passed-midshipman. In 1861, when he held the rank of lieutenant in the navy, he resigned. During the war he served in the navy of the Confederate States as commander of the Shenandosh. Since then he has held a commission in the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

Bishop Atkinson attained his prime during his ministry in this city, at old St. Peter's Church, Sharp and German streets, the site of which is now occupied by the McCreery buildings. He leaves many warm friends and admirion acquaintances in this community. Dr. Atkinson, Virginian by birth and originally trained to the legal profession, belonged to that same class of calm, argumentative, dispassionate reasoners of which the late Dr. Faller was an exemplar. The Puneral of Bishop Atkinson.

The funeral obsequies of the late Bishop Atkinson took place yesterday morning at S. James' church. Long before the arrival of the body at the place of interment, the building was crowded to its utmost capacity, except the seats reserved for the family and their immediate friends and the vestries of other churches. At a few minutes before 11 o'clock the vestries of St. James', St. John's, St. Paul's and St. Mark's assembled at the Episcopal residence, and when the tolling bell announced that the hour appointed for the ceremony had arrived. formed in procession, the vestry of St. Mark's in front, followed by that of St. Paul's and St. John's and St. James'. Immediately behind the latter came the casket containing the body, with the following clergymen in their robes who acted as pallbearers: the Rev. Mr. Ambler, Rev. Dr. Patterson and Rev. Mr. Pitts, of this city: the Rev. Dr. Marshall, Rev. Mr. Rich and Rev. Mr. Smedes, of Raleigh; the Rev. Mr. Larmour, of Goldsboro, and Rev. Mr. Bronson, of Wilson. The body was carried to the church by the younger friends of the family, who were eager to testify in this way their respect and affection for the departed prelate. As the funeral cortege it passed were hushed as if to listen to the footsteps of those who thus bore their dead bishop to the grave. Never within our recollection have we witnessed such universal respect shown and such deep emotion exhibited. Arriving at the church the procession was met by the rector of the parish. the Rev. Dr. Watson, accompanied by the Rt. Rev. T. B. Lyman, Bishop of North Carolina, and Bishop Whipple, of Virginia, The casket was borne up the aisle by the clergymen already mentioned and deposited within the chancel, a portion of the railing baving been removed for that purpose. The church was draped in mourning, not to any extreme, but with great simplicity and beauty, our native moss blending most harmoniously with the dark symbols of grief. Above the alter and on each side was shield; on one was inscribed the words,"At rest," and on the other, "I am the resurrection," both most tastefully arranged. The sublime service of the "Burial of the Dead" then commenced by the choir singing the anthem. After its conclusion the Rev. Dr. Watson read the lesson from the fifteenth chapter of St. Paul's first Epistle to the Corinthians, the hymn "Asleep in Jesus" was then sung, and at its conclusion the casket was lowered beneath the altar of St, James' church. As it rested within the crypt provided for it Bishop Lyman, with deep emotion, committed the body to the dust from which it sprang, and the closing portion of the service was most feelingly rendered by the Bishop of Virginia. The hymn "Jerusslem the Golden" was then sung, and the immense congregation slowly dispersed. It was the largest, most decorous and imposing funeral we have ever witnessed in Wilmington. All classes and all denominations participated in the ceremonies; all anxious to do honor to one who was not only great, but good; one of nature's noblemen, a very prince among men. Among the clerical gentlemen present we omitted to mention Bishop Lay, of Eiston. Being a near connection of the late bishop, he took no part in the services.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The Rector and Vestry of St. James Parish, called together on the occasion of the death of the beloved Bishop of this Diocese, the Rt. Rev. THOMAS ATKIN-SON, D. D., LL. D., and desiring to give expression to their feelings, do hereby Resolve. That in the death of our venerable Father in God the members of this Parish, at whose altar he for some time officiated as Rector, have peculiar cause for grief in the heavy bereavement they have sustained. Not one congregation only bows its head under this chastening of the hand of God but every circle and every congregation throughout the Diocese weep over the bier of their great Bishop. It is such men as he, men of prayer and men of truth, who constitute the strength and power of a State. He was wise in counsel, gentle in manners, with a kind word from his kindly heart to all who sought his intercourse. He went about doing good, com forting the troubled, upholding the weak and cheering the despondent; a true leader of the Hosts of God whose trumpet never gave forth an uncertain sound. While we mourn the heavy sffliction which has befallen us, yet we thank God for the great privilege we have enjoyed of having been so closely connected with one whose daily walk so exemplified the truths of the Christian religion. His life was a preparation for eternity and he so lived that the lengthening shadows of his earthly pilgrimage disturbed him not, and when the summons came he could exclaim in the exultant language of St. John, "Amen, even so come quickly Lord Jesus.' Resolved, That as a token of our respect for our departed Bishop the Vestry of this Parish will attend his funeral in a body. Resolved, That we tender to his afflicted family and particularly to his venerable widow our profoundest sympathy in their sorrow, commending them to the watchful care of that God in whom our departed Bishop believed and trusted.

Resolved, That the Rector of this Parish be respectfully requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Atkinson.
