Mr. Randall, editor of the Augusta-Chronicle, is in Washington, and on the 26th met, thus gave the latest gossip about Senator Davis :

Judge David Davis is said to be much diagnisted with the Democrats, and it is apprehended that he will arest his ancient flexubiness silves in the reorganization of the Senale. There are several Southern men in New York who are known among the rich men for their success in money making. Among them are John H. Inman, booked for $1,500, 100 John C. Latham, a Kentuckian Victor Newcomb, credited with $6, 000,000; Jim Keene, said to have been born in Lynchburg, is booked for $10,000,000; Charles M. Foy, a Virginian, worth more than $1,000, 000; R. T. Wilson, a Georgian, buoked for $3,000,000; C. C. Baldwin, Maryland, worth over $1,000, 000 . V. K. Stevenson, Tennessean, worth $2,000,000; Thomas W. Evans, worth more than $1,000,000; W R. Travers, booked for not less than $4,000,000; Addison G. Cammock, worth over $1,000,000; and W. H. Woods, a Georgian, millionaire.

A dustinguished General, a native of Virginia, in a recent convereation with us, said, that as far as he sould learn from much intercourse during the four years with the general affairs of the army, the opinion was this. That there were troops every way equal to those of North Carolina for a splendid dash, but that for hardy endurance without complaining, and steady, long protracted, hard fighting, there were none to equal our boys. He said further that Gen. Harry Heth on one occasion said to him that if he had the picking of a division out of the whole army of Northern Virginia he would select Cook's North Carolina, McRae's North Carolina and Lane's North Carolina. He was not a North Carolinian either, mind you. Our informant said Gen. A. P. Hill's opinion about North Carolina troops was correct-that they were as brave as any, more obediest to authority and, therefore better soldiers.

- We again urge the Legislature not to go into the business of making new counties. There are at least twenty villages on the watch to see what comes of the efforts to slice up Granville, Wake, Franklin, Warren, and Orange. If they succeed, then other counties must be formed or there will be great complaint. Every railroad village wants to be a county seat. There are thirty counties that ought to be Burned to Death.

At Rock Hill, about five miles above this city, on the Northeast river, an old colored woman, by the name of Sukey Walters, discovered late Saturday evening that her little grandchild had set fire to the woods, and that considerable damage would be likely to easue, whereupon she attempted to arrest the progress of the fismes, when her dress caught fire. Her son, attracted by her screams, rushed to the scene and tried to save her by wrapping his overcoat around her, but the fismes, which had completely enveloped her and were blazing above her head when he reached her, had taken such a firm hold upon the poor woman that his efforts were of but little avail. She lingered in great agony until Sunday morning, about 5 o'clook, when death put an end to her sufferings. The unfortunate woman was about seventy years old.

Better and Cheaper.

One of our river pilots is responsible for the story, as we hear it. He had been engaged in the performance of his duty, and when the time came for serving breakfast he accepted an invitation to partake of the captain's hospitality. In the centre of the table was a butter dish containing a white | rosic; the German barque Kosmas, for Lonsubstance resembling lard, which was finally passed around by the first officer with the remark: "Take some of this hog butter, gentlemens; it is mooch petter and mooch sheeper as cow butter; try him." -

We have heretofore omitted to mention the presence in our city of Mr. Charles Bradley, formerly of this place, where, for a number of years, he was engaged in the shoe business in the firm of G. & C. Bradley, but now of New Haven, Conn. His many friends were glad to see him among them once more. He is stopping with Mr.

Shortly afterwards he happened to think of something he had left, and returned to his store. Looking in through the window before entering, lights being left burning in the store, he discovered a colored boy behind the counter and in front of the safe which he was trying to open. Mr. Wessell was accompanied by his brother, who went after a policeman, and soon returned with Officer Roderick, when the three entered the store and captured Wm. Davis and Wm. Shaw, two colored boys. When the boys heard the party entering one of them gave vent to a peculiar whistle, which sounded as if to warn confederates who might have been stationed in the back way. Mr. W. says his store was entered just a week before Christmas, no doubt in the same way, and money, several watches, pistols, shoes, socks and other articles taken. Upon going to his store the next morning he found that the lock of the back door had been broken with a meat hatchet, and he has no doubt that the robbery was committed by the same boys who had concealed themselves in the store and effected their exit in the manner described.

Dr. Wood's Lecture.

The lecture delivered before the Historical and Scientific Society last night by Dr. Thos. F. Wood, of this city, was replete with information of a most interesting character concerning the fields and forests and streams of the State. It exhibited an extensive and careful research into authorities, and the close and patient investigation of a genuine naturalist, and was, withal presented to the audience in a graceful and at-

It would be idle for us to attempt a synopsis of the lecture, even as it relates to our own section-we can but refer to it but we may mention that the lecturer pointed out many rare, beautiful and valuable plants hidden in the wild swamps and broad savannas of the eastern portion of the State. He dwelt upon the rich flora around Wilmington-the Venus fly-traps, the odorous dog-tongue, the modest iris, the mosses, and the thousand other plants and flowers which delight the eye and please the senses with their delicate and delicious perfumes. In this connection he spoke of the researches of Rev. Dr. M. A. Curtis, whose botanical studies were begun in the woods and savannas around this city, and who in the work published by him entitled "Enumeration of Plants growing spontaneously around Wilmington," numbered, with the additions afterwards made by Dr. Jas. F. McRee, one thousand and thirty-one species.

Another Chapter in the Market Imbrogile.

We were informed by the Clerk of the Market, yesterday afternoon, that all of the fish carts, hucksters, etc., had removed their quarters to the new market houses, in compliance with the ordinances passed at the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen. on the 18th ult., and that all of the butchers and dealers in fresh meats had also complied with the law except in three instances. and in one of these the proprietor, although he still occupied his old stand, had sold no meats. The exceptions were not interfered with yesterday, but it is understood to be the determination of the proper authorities to arrest all who may attempt to sell meats and other marketable articles in the interdicted localities to-day .

We learn that one proprietor of a fish cart, on his way to the old stand at the foot of market street, upon being informed that he must go to the new market, allowed that he wouldn't "by a d-d sight;" and that he'd go home first; and that | he actually wheeled his horse about and started in the direction whence he came.
