Office seekers by thousands are marching to Washington, and a hnngry horde it is.

Richmond, Virginia, is favored already with engagements for sixteen theatrical nights during Lent.

The Solons refused to grant any aid to the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad. Will they also refuse to seil the States' interest in it? We will see

The bill establishing Criminal Courts tailed to pass. We suppose the Legislature will either increase the Superior Court circuits or create Interior Courts in counties overrun with small misdemeasors.

The press has power certainly, but to mot equal to securing a proper is to regulate legal advertising. I'm legislator has no idea of passing a .aw, however useful and necessary. it in any way the publishers of newsvapors are to be benefited remotely.

Washington correspondent of the Richmond State represents Blaine as including Hayes to call the executhe session of the Senate. He says:

Starpe carnestly advised an immediate call declaring that the party could not afwarrage so wabrokes line of preor only merely for the sake of the possible a training of an autance of doubtful prosecure the organization of the it is know that for sometime Mr. Han has openly expressed doubts of the well in of any alliance between the Reminicana and Gen. Mahone."

Tois is the last day the fraudulent President will sit in Samuel J. Tilden's chair, to which he had been ualled by the people of the United States. Hayes will go into retirewent with but few good wishes, but he will have more than a hundred thousand dollars of Mr. Tilden's money to console him and feed him. The great wrong of 1876 is yet unrighted, but the country is at last rid of the chief recipient of the fraud.

Sundry correspondents say it is practically settled that Blaine, Bob Lincoln and Morton, of New York will be in the new Cabinet. Pennsylvania will have a representative in either Barker or McVeagh. The Washington letter in the Baltimore

"The selection of a Southern man for the Cabines gives a great deal of trouble. To every man in that section whom Garfield has seriously considered there have been objections raised. He has considered Bruce. Scille, Baxter and Hunt and Morgan, of Louisians, and others. As yet this matter has not been settled, although it can be positively stated that a Southern man will go into the Cabinet unless the present programme is changed.

Taking Things for Granted. Some country carts, loaded with produce, their owners taking things for granted, backed up at their "old stamping ground," near the corner of Second and Market streets, yesterday morning, but Mayor Fishblate came along about that time and notified them that if they attempted to sell there, in violation of the city ordinance prohibiting the same, as they threatened to do, he would have them arrested. Our country friends should understand that the authorities as yet have received no official information that the act-which seems destined to go down to posterity under the name of "The Poor Man's Bill"-has become a law. Some of the police were stationed in the neighborhood of Second and Market streets for some time to see that the Mayor's orders were respected.

Arlington's Minstrels.

This company, the first of the kind that has visited us recently, had a large house at the Opera House last evening and gave a very full and satisfactory performance. Billy Arlington's oration and his various delineations were all very good and won much favor readily with the audience. Messrs. Lawrence, Marr and Winter each sang ballads delightfully, and afterwards, with the addition of Mr. Lee, sang several quartette pieces quite creditably. The clog dancing of the six dancers was the best we have ever witnessed, nor have we ever seen the performance of the song and dance sextette surpassed, or even equaled. A cornet solo was well given by Mr. Harry Hardy, and the performance of Mr. Thomas Young on a common harmonican was really wonderful, and his skill elicited much
