SEE JUDGE STRONG'S OPINION. BALENGE N. C., Dec. 1st, 1830. Mrs. Joe Person: Madam-Some months ago I was in bad health, suffering from debility, indiges-tion and loss of appetite, when a friend induced me to try your Bitters as a Tonic. I did so with the most men in office. It then asks But if the Machine become all Powerful, how then "

In that case the people ought to meety and so smash that Machine that its pieces can never be gathered igun and made to run.

Some of the Republican papers are not altogether well pleased at the atunde of their Senators in regard to the Mahone bargain. They do not like the idea of affiliating with repuhattonists and say that it will injure bear party. This is the position takes by both the Philadelphia Daily North American and the Telegraph. Letters from Virginia pour into Washington thanking Senators Johnstor, Hill and Brown for their speeches. It is believed the Demorate will stand like ao anvil.

A gentleman'in this city is in meeipt of a private letter from a prominent gentleman in Wilmington, in which he incidentroad and in referring to it he expresses his intention of leaving Wilmington, as she is now, by this communation, 'everiastingly and eternally dead.' - Charistle Unerver.

We rather think Wilmington has been hart about as much as it can be, and we still hope for growth and development. Open up our important water-ways, build factories, use pluck and energy and enterprise, and "the mity by the sea" will have a "future" more peliable than cotton.

One thing is said to the credit of some half dozen Republican members of the House of Bepresentatives, namely: Hiscock, Kasson, Keifer, Robeson, Orth and Kelley, that they would all like to be Speakers and any one of them would be successful if he would seek it. We hope this is true, bat it does not sound like the truth. When did Kasson, Robeson and the remainder of the Radical crew ever become the victims of modesty? It is a great virtue but is of extreme rarity.

The Republicans profess to be in ecstacies because Ben Hill was not born dumb. They say his speeches do them immense good in the North. They pronounce him a great and undisguised blessing to their party. Well, Ben knows how to dig them and expose them, and show them ap generally. The Southern people have Blaupe has convinced him that the way to help his ambition would not be to put into places of power and influence men who are ailied to the Grant wing. This is true in a certain sense, but the President will not be wise to forget that although a nomination may be obtained without the aid of Grant's friends, an election is a very different thing. The nomination which Blaine and his friends gave him was only the shadow, but for the election-the substance-he as well as every one else knows that he is indebted to the men who stood by Grant to the last. So it, would unquestionably be in 1884, and forty nominatons would do him no good in case of the altenation of the Grant influence. It has been noticed that Mr. Cookling has akes no open part in the struggle to turn out the present officers of the Senate. is said that his present policy of silence this matter is prompted by a wish not to personally offend the Democratic side, as is would be impossible for him to defeat any obnoxious nominations without Democratic aid. In view of the fact of Mr. Conkling's constant and bitter misrepresentation of the South and of the Southern people, it has always seemed remarkable that he should have been able at any time to secure the cooperation of Southern Senators to assist him in perpetuating his dynasty in New York."

The Democrats should take no steps to heal the breach, and they should be very careful not to a Roscoe Conkling and his tribe of South-haters and maligners.

An act to repeal section 4, chapter 117, of the laws of 1879. Repeals so much of said act as requires an analysis to be made at coroner's inquests.

- Raleigh Visitor: Large fires are raging in the woods on the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad, between Sanford and Fayetteville. We learn that one firm slone up there lost $10,000 in the burning of their turpentine trees. ---- The resignation of Judge Schenck had not been received at the Governor's office up to 12 o'clock to-day. - Charlotte Observer: It has been reported that the new management of the Air Line will dispense with the services of Col. G. J. Foreacre, who now holds the position of General Manager on that road, and in confirmation of the fact, Henry W Grady writes to the Atlanta Constitution from Dalton, Georgia, as follows: "I am informed on the train that Col. Foreacre, of the Air Line road, had requested a gentlemen who had business relations with the road to make up his account and have it in by Saturday, as he would leave the road on that day.'

- Oxford Torchlight: Matt Gil liam, the ex-Oxford blacksmith who was shot some time since by a white man uamed Wesly Harris, has died from his wounds. While we regret to have to chronicle such a termination to a row, we cannot blame Mr. H. for defending himself. Matt Gilliam was at times a danger ous, powerful and desperate man. _____ Our railroad seems at last to be a certainty Capt. Williams, the lessee, is hard at work

He says: "When the car turned over I became wedged in between the scats, and was in a very painful position and unable to get out until released by him. I also saw him release Mrs. Mc-Dowell from a perilous situation and assist her from the wreck, and, regardless of his own injuries and the first law of natureself-preservation-he was the last to climb from the car." - Correspondent of the Raleigh News Observer: Wiscins' X Roads, GATES Co., N. O., March 26, 1881.—In looking over Moore's History of North Carolina, I find no mention of the Thirty-third Regiment of North Carolina troops, in his his-tory of the battle of New Berne. This strikes me as being Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The Thirty-third was first commanded by L. O'B. Branch, afterwards Gen. Branch; was in his brigade, and was commanded by Col. Avery in the battle of New Berne. In that engagement the Thirty-third did most of the fighting, and suffered as much, if not more, than any other troops engaged. Col. Avery was taken prisoner, with many of his men, and endured for many months the hardships of prison life. - Goldsboro Messenger: The present term of Wayne Inferior Court fully vindicates the wisdom of establishing said court. The docket is a heavy one, numbering about 100 cases, and it is thought the sutire week will be consumed in disposing of it. — A three year old child of Dred Sauls, colored, living near Yelverton's church, was burned to death Tuesday evening. ____ An illicit distillery was captured by Mr. P. Provents an Accident.

Mr. Robert C. Applewhite, of Brinkley's Depot, about eighteen miles from this city, was walking along the track of the W., C & A. R. R., a few nights since, when he discovered a large bar of iron arranged across the track, with one end fastened in the embankment, and snatched it out of the way, at the peril of his own life. just as a train came thundering by; being just in time, in all probability, to prevent a serious accident, with its attendant loss of life.

The next meeting of the New Hanover Historical and Scientific Society will be held on the last Monday evening in this month, on which occasion Mr. Robert H.
