If the so-called Prohibition bill is ratified, winder what sort of wine and other will be sold by the saloons? If the Raleigh Christian Advocate will permit us to express an opinion, and let us call it an opinion and not in "ercuse," we will say the wine and order will be decidedly strong. After all, it is strictly in order to ask MANN, Does Prohibition Prohibit?

Nev. Dr. Deems will preach the linal sermon before the Young Men's Thristian Association of the University of Virginia on June 26, 1881. On Thursday night the people of Wilmington will have an opportunity of hearing an unwritten lecture from this distinguished and eloquent gendeman. Dr. Deems is one of the lew men we ever heard who spoke really tine English. We have somemes thought be extemporized as in his speech at the prohibition meeting in Charlotte, Monday, the then Rube McAden referred to Col. Wm Johnston as the "grog-shop candidate" for Mayor. Capt. De Wolfe also gracefully alluded to bim as the "whisky candidate." And this, we presume, is the style of argument the opposition will have to meet. But seriously, during all this municipally muddled mess in Charlotte what becomes of the grand old Democratic party?

Garfield is in full sympathy with the Mahone movement to break up the Democratic party in the South. He says he will do all in his power so aid it. This sort of talk is having is effect, and whilst weakening him strengthens Conkling. The Richmond State's letter of the 18th says :

"The President stands firmly by Robertson, Matthews, and Chandler, the most objectionable nominations submitted to the Senate. Robertson's nomination will go to the Committee on Commerce, of which Coukling is chairman; Chandler's probably to the Judiciary Committee, which already has Matthew's nomination, and of which Conkling is a member. It is believed that Conking will oppose all of them, but that Matthews and Robertson will be confirmed wime months hence."

The immensity of this country is what astonished Bernhardt. She says she laughs at the foolish notions the had before she came. She was also astonished at "the immense number of big towns where wealth and fashion seem to exist." She also did not fail to note the energy and vitality of the people. She said :

"Everybody does something all the time, Everybody works. Even artists work Sunday night as on all other nights, and at wo mattinees besides. The whole people seem to have a coil of springs; push, push, pushing all the time. I like it, but it gives me a fever. I feel the pressure. I feel the excitement. It's all the same wherever

There lies the trouble. It is push, drive, go. All work and but little play. The machinery of life runs last and wears rapidly.

THR MORNING STAR.

VOL. XXVIII.--NO. 25.

DEATH OF LORD BEACONSFIELU. The telegraph flashes the intelligence that the great leader of the English Conservative party is dead. The event was not altogether unexpected. He had been ill critically for weeks, and, although there had been improvement, there was not confidence felt in the certainty of his recovery. A. very uncommon man has passed away. His life is stranger than any fiction. The son of a Jewish man of letters, belonging to the persecuted and despised race, he begins his career by writing brillfant, fragmentary political novels, enters Parliament, first fails as a speaker, but tells them that the time will come when they will be glad to hear him, then rises step by step, becomes one of the factors in the British House, becomes the recognized leader, holds high offices and finally becomes the Premier of the British Empire. This office he held twice. In 1868 the Queen offered to raise him to the Peerage, but this he declined. A few years ago he was created Earl of Beaconsfield. The pet and dictator of his party, the special favorite of the Queen, the boldest leader of the Tories, the recipient of the adulation of the nobility, honored as few Englishmen were ever benored, is not his career really marvellous, more wonderful than the history of any hero of any novelist? He was a splendid party leader, full of resource, enterprising, bold, not scrupulous, fond of surprises, ready to take advantage of the mistakes of his adversaries, and to even make capital by adopting heir measures that had been rejected and making them his own. There have been few British states men who equalled him in epigrammatic point, or who carried more of sting and bitterness on his tongue. But the great politician is silent now. The active, inventive, brilliant intellect is quiet at last. The surprising statesmanship will concect no more surprises. Full of years and covered with insignia of distinction and rank, he descends to the tomb-all "A wait the inevitable hour.

The paths of giory lead but to the grave." His place in English politics and his rank in literature will be determined bereafter. None of his writings will live, we suppose. They will be read by the curious only fifty years hence. They were numerous and clever, but they were not works of high genius, and none of them will ever receive, as we believe, the stamp of immortality. He will always live in English history. His fame at least, is immortal.

He was born in London in 1805. His father was Isaac Disreali, author of the "Curiosities of Literature," and two or three other very readable works. In 1825 young Benjamin surprised the English reading world with his first novel, "Vivian Gray." It created a sensation. Then followed the "Young Duke," "Henrietta Temple," "Venetia," "Tancred," "Sybil" and "Coningsby." Some few years ago he published "Lothair," and a few months ago "Endymion." In 1848 he was the leader of the Conservative party. In 1852 he became Chancellor of the Exchequer. Again he was appointed to the same office in 1858. So again in 1866. In 1868 he became Prime Minister. His party was soon after beaten and was succeeded by Mr. Gladstone. In 1874, we think it was, but have not the date by us, he was again Prime Minister. In 1880 he was beaten and Mr. Gladstone came in again. We have not space to give even the briefest but complete outline of his astonishing career. We must mention that he was probably the most conspicuous figure in the Berlin Conference, certainly was so with the exception of Prince Bismarck, and was the author of a work entitled a "Vindication of the English Constitution" and of a "Biography of Lord George Bentick." He was 76 at the time of his death. He will create a great gap in his party. - Louisburg Times: The revival at the Baptist church still goes on, and with incressed interest. Bervices are held every night and prayer meetings every morning. Up to this writing twenty-four persons, a large number of them grown, have prohibition Association with George Allen as President. The following delegates to the Convention at Raleigh were appointed: Rev. L. C. Vass, Rev. F. H. Wood, E. R. Dudley, B. W. Morris, George Allen, I. B. Abbott, M. P. Richardson, Gabriel L. Hardison and Jos. H. Steverson. - Reidsville Times: Squire M. A. Angler tells us: In the winter of 1857, the time of that deep snow in January, I missed

sow and six pigs, shoat size—I suppose they would average 35 pounds—and I was certain they had perished in the snow. About ten or twelve days after the snow a lady living off a piece told me she kept hearing hogs holler somewhere about one of my fences. I went to the spot, and there where the fence sorter leaned over the snow had drifted and covered up my hogs. They were a hungry gang, ten days without food, but they made me fine hogs.

- Goldsboro Messenger: We learn that a four year old son of Mr. J. Henry Edgerton, residing near Goldsboro, had his thigh broken on Saturday by being kicked by a horse. - The store of Mr. H. T. Ham, at Mount Olive, was entered by burglars Thursday night, and robbed of some fifty dollars in money. — The Board of Directors of the Eastern Insane Asylum have decided to contract for the building of the North wing of that institution, as de signed in the original plans and specifications. — We were pleased to receive a visit from Mr. L. A. Potter, a lawyer by profession, who left Eastern Carolina fourteen years ago and has during that time resided in Kansas. Mr. Potter with his famly returned to Beaufort, in Carteret county. He says there is "no place after all that compares with the Old North State."

- Statesville Landmark: We were in conversation a few days ago with a genleman who is but lately from Washington. and who gathered there some news of interest. It is said in Washington, says be, hat our fellow-countryman, Colonel T. N Cooper, will not get the marshalship of this district, but that if Douglas is turned out his place is given to Colonel Oliver H. Dockery. Dr. W. H. Wheeler, it is said, will hold on as collector for the fifth district, and George B. Everett, who has been fighting him, will be given something else. Judge Cloud wants a post-tradership, or something so, away out West in Wyoming or Indian Territory. He doesn't know exactly what he wants, and, indeed, doesn't care much; what he cares most for is the locality, and he doesn't altogether know where that is. -Mrs. Bettie Lackey, of Sharpe's township, Alexander county, has a turkey hen that is a wonder in the way of egg-laying. She commences laying in the spring and continues until she has enough to sit on, and while she is sitting her nest has to be watched every day to keep the newly laid egg from spoiling. After she hatches, and while raising her brood, she keeps right on laying until all the feathers come off of her, and in the dead of winter has to be wrapped up to keep her from freezing to death. - Charlotte Obseever : Mr. W. I. Smart, formerly engaged in the mining business here, is making arrangements to develop new mineral property in McDowell county. - A private letter received here conveys the intelligence that the store-house and stock of goods of Mr. M. B. Lassiter, at Little's Mills, Montgomery county, was burned to the ground several nights since. -At a meeting of the executive committee of the Prohibition Association, held in the rooms of the First National Bank last night, it was unanimously resolved to recommend to the association the following as a municipal ticket for city officers: For Mayor-F. S. De Wolfe; for Aldermen-1st ward, C. Scott, C. A. Fraiser, R. M. Miller; 2d ward, John L. Brown, A. P. Hunter; 3d ward, D. W. Oates, H. Edwards, A. W.

Calvin; 4th ward, John Wilkes, E. K. P. Osborne, D. P. Hutchinson. Mecklenburg Presbytery has been in session at Huntersville since Thursday. The attendance is reported to be very large, and something of a sensational interest has been given to the present session by a controversy arising out of the application for admission made by Rev. J. T. Plunkett, who has been filling the pulpit of Steel Creek church in this county. The application was made at a previous session of the Presbytery, but was referred to the Nashville (Tenn.) Presbytery for further information concerning the applicant. So completely has this subject engrossed the attention of the Presbytery that up to the opening of the session yesterday morning, no other business had been disposed of except the appointment of delegates to the General Assembly. These are Rev. Dr. E. H. Harding, of this city, and Rev. S. Taylor Martin, of Henderson, with ruling elders W. H. Fitzgerald, of Monroe, and J. C. McLauchlin, of Richmond county.

Interesting Services - A Chinese Convert to be Educated for the Minis-

There were very interesting services at the Fifth Street Methodist church Monday night night, the occasion being a sort of farewell meeting, preparatory to the departure from Wilmington of the Chinese youth "Boon," who was converted under the administrations of the Rev. T. Page Ricaud, about a year ago, and who, upon attaching himself to the church, assumed the name of Charles Jones, in compliment to the boatswain of the revenue cutter Oxfaz, who has been a very dear friend of the young man, and who still feels a deep interest in his welfare. The young Chinese left for Trinity College yesterday morning, in company with Rev. Mr. Ricand, where provision has been made for his receiving a thorough theological education, either wholly at that institution or in part at Vanderbilt University, after which it is expected that he will return to China as a missionary and preach the gospel in that heathen land.

The meeting at Fifth Street church was a very impressive one, and will not soon be forgotten by those who were present, touching addresses being delivered by the young Chinese convert and by his friend, the boatswain, who is also a zealous Christian man.

This is the first instance in North Carolina where a Chinese has been converted to Christianity, and the case has therefore elicited a very profound interest in the religious community.

The Naval Stores Trade.

A circular from Mr. John Judge, of Charleston, S. C., gives a statement of the business in Naval Stores at the ports of New York, Wilmington, Charleston and Savannah for the four years ending April 1st. as follows: SPIRITS: TURPENTINE .- Receipts: -1878. 247,198 casks; 1879, 254,038 casks; 1880, 259,365 casks; 1881, 243,618 casks. Total four years, 1,004,219 casks; average per year, 251,054 casks; average last two years, 251,491 casks.

Exports. -1878, 150,955 casks; 1879, 163,-706 casks; 1880, 121,036 casks; 1881, 153, 277 casks. Total four years, 588,974 casks; average per year, 147,243 casks; average last two years, 137,156 casks.

Domestic Deliveries .- 1878, 91,209 casks; 1879, 92,653 casks: 1880, 123,401 casks; 1881, 107,203 casks. Total four years 414, 466 casks; average per year, 103,616 casks; John's Parish, left Monday night for average last two years, 115,302 casks. Rosin - Receipts .- 1878, 1,166,712 barrels; 1879, 1,272,460 barrels; 1880, 1,298,433 barrels; 1881, 1,192,283 barrels. Total four years, 4,920,888 barrels; average per year, 1,232,472 barrels; average last two years, ,245,358 barrels.

Exports.-1878, 859,269 barrels; 1879, 961,650 barrels; 1880, 932,658 barrels; 1881, 815.443 barrels. Total four years, 3,569,020 barrels; average per year, 892,255 barrels; average last two years, 874,050 barrels.

Domestic Deliveries .- 1870, 303,272 barrels; 1879, 281,480 barrels; 1880, 331,932 barrels; 1881, 315,785 barrels. Total four years, 1,233,469 barrels; average per year, 308,867 barrels; average last two years, 324,-358 barrels.

The falling off of 15,747 casks of spirits turpentine in 1880-81 Mr. Judge attributes rather to unfavorable weather than to curtailed work. The prospects for the coming year favor an average crop (251,000 casks), for although the season is six weeks late, it by no means follows, he thinks, that there will be a proportionate loss in the aggregate. It will not be lost sight of, however, that production in the Gulf States will be onethird short from causes heretofore stated, nd that the deficiency will be in effect the same as if occurring in the Atlantic States. The shipments during the two years of 1877-79 were excessive, and resulted in ruinous prices, while those of 1879-80 were curtailed by abnormal causes, not likely to be repeated in this generation. Domestic deiveries, on the other hand, show a marked increase during the last two years.

In the matter of rosin, a consideration of the figures presented above leads to conclusions somewhat akin to those reached on spirits, though differing in one important respect. The foreign demand appears to have reached its maximum, but the domestic trade while improving, does not increase in the same proportion as spirits turpen-

An Appeal for Chies. We notice at the Produce Exchange an appeal signed by a number of prominent ladies in Washington City, wives of Cabinet officers, leading Congressmen and others, earnestly begging pastors of churches throughout the country to take up collections at the earliest practical moment in aid of the sufferers from the overwhelming disaster in Chios, and praying the Presidents of Boards of Trade and managers of all moneyed institutions to circulate subscription papers, that the rich may have immediate opportunity to give of their wealth and the poor of their poverty through channels that shall surest reach the fainting sufferers. The well known banking house of Riggs & Co., of Washington the ladies say, have kindly consented to receive all moneys collected for this purpose, and for convenience and dispatch, the several sums received will be acknowledged in the daily papers of Washington. We hope the liberal-hearted and generous everywhere will respond to the stirring appeal in behalf of suffering humanity.

At the Opera House To-Night.

The amateur operatic entertainment a the Opera House to-night will be a highly enjoyable and amusing performance, and richly deserving of a most liberal patronage. Either of the pieces to be given tonight might alone well constitute a performance, and it is in reality two in one. and that at an extremely moderate price of admission. In order that the performance may commence promptly we are requested to ask the audience to be in their seats by 8 o'clock so that the entertainment may not be unnecessarily delayed, a very timely request owing from the fullness of the programme. From all indications there will be an exceedingly large house, and it should be filled to overflowing entirely on the merits of the affair, not to speak of other considerations.

Delegates to Diocesan Convention: The vestry of St. James' Church met last evening and elected the following as delegates to the Diocesan Convention: Dr. A. J. DeRossett, A. H. Van Bokkelen, Col. J. G. Burr, Col. W. L. DeRosset. Alternates Building Operations. We called in at Mr. James F. Post's of fice yesterday, and the number and character of plans for new dwellings soon to be erected in this city we observed on his tables would seem to indicate unusual activity in building operations and an inclination to more than ordinary taste and elegance in their construction. One of the plans particularly struck us as promising to develop into a residence that will compare favorably with any that we have seen. It will be quite a large one, with a frontage of sixty-two feet and a rearage of eighty-five feet, and provided with suits of parlors, library, sitting room, dining room and double bay windows in front. We also noticed the plan for a neat cottage soon to be erected on one of the sounds.

Magistrate's Court.

Mary Knowles was arraigned before Justice Millis, yesterday afternoon, charged with assault and battery upon James Petteway. Judgment suspended on the payment of costs. John Knowles had a hearing on the charge of committing assault and battery on the same party, and the case was dismissed at the cost of the prosecutor.

John Maland was also arraigned on the same charge, and the prosecutor was required to pay the costs.

The Water Works.

The work of laying the pipe for the Water Works was commenced yesterday, ground being broken at the intersection of Market and Front streets, and the first pipe being sunk in the centre of Market in the direction of Water street. There was such a crowd around the workmen during the day that the police had to be called upon for protection. It is understood that operations will have to be suspended during the warm months, commencing with the first of May.

An Ambitious Cat.

A gentleman of this city has a very ambitious cat, with exceedingly peculiar notions as to the "eternal fitness of things." On Sunday last she drove an industrious hen off her nest of eggs, and at last accounts was still "holding the fort" and insisting upon it that a hen had no rights that a cat was bound to respect. If the cat intends to hatch the eggs and accomplishes her pur-puss, then we will endeavor to give de-tail-ed statements of the cat-astro-

Horse Overboard.

A horse with dray attached backed off the end of the wharf foot of Princess street vesterday morning, and the horse made a narrow escape from drowning. He started to swim to the head of the dock, but got frightened and turned the other way. The harness was finally cut loose and the dray sunk in the channel, when the horse, relieved of the encumbrance, swam ashore and was landed safely on the wharf.

Try Mrs. Joe Person's Indian Tonic Bitters CURBS SCROFULA, RHEUMATISM, HEART Disease, Chronic Bibous Colic, and all kinds of Bruptions and Skin Diseases arising from impurity of the blood. As an Alterative Tonic and Purifier of the Blood it has proven itself unequalled.

SER GOV HOLDEN'S OPINION I take pleasure in stating that a member of my amily has used Mrs Joe Person's Indian Tonic family has used Mrs Joe Person's Indian Tonic with good results. I believe her remedy excellent for the purposes for which it is intended.

SEE JUDGE STRONG'S OPINION. RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 1st, 1880. Mrs. Joe Person: Madam—Some months ago I was in bad health, suffering from debility, indigestion and loss of appetite, when a friend induced me to try your Bitters as a Tonic. I did so with the most happy results. I take great pleasure in recommending it as a valuable and efficient vegetable Tonic. Very respectfully, GEO. V. sTatoa G.
