Never since the war have the Democrats in Congress achieved as complete a triumph over the Radicals as they have in the debates growing out of the Mahone dirty business. The best people of the North see in what a ridiculous and disgraceful attitude the Radicals have placed the Republican party. The best of them are disgusted and there are some signs of a break. The Philadelphia Times says editorially: "The signs grow that the Republicans in Washington are coming to their senses, and that at least some of the public business will be attended to. Almost two months have been wasted over Gorman and Riddleberger, and that is just about two months more than ought to have been afforded. In the light of recent events—we refer to Gorman's connection with Brady and the protest of the decent Republicans of Virginia against Riddleberger—many Republican Senators must be heartily ashamed of the part they have lately been playing. It is true that they cannot cover up their disgrace by abandoning their obstructive measures, but they can reap a good deal more honor by not abandoning them."

—Raleigh Record: On Edenton street there lived a woman named Anna Overman a short time since. She vacated her part of a house a short time ago, and since, people living in the neighborhood had complained of an awful stench. Yesterday afternoon some parties forced the lock of the door into the room, and found an infant in the last stages of decomposition, tied up in an old shawl. —Roanoke Patriot: An altercation between Bug, Futrell, colored, and his wife, took place near Rich Square, on the 14th, in which the husband received a dangerous wound from a knife in the hands of his wife. —We are reliably informed that Capt. T. D. Boone, of Mannequin's Neck, Hertford county, has been tendered the position of President of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute, at Murfreesboro, N. C., to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. McDowell. —Chatham Record: Many persons erroneously think that the late Legislature passed a law levying a tax on all dogs. The intent was to pass a law which would not be a tax, but a license, and that the Legislature passed an act allowing any person to list his dog for taxation and making it necessary to steal such dog. Our Supreme Court has heretofore decided that it is not larceny to feloniously take a dog, because at common law there is no property in a dog. The object of the new law is to allow persons who have valuable dogs to list any one who may steal them, so that now any owner of a dog can, if he wishes, list it for taxation and pay the annual tax of one dollar, and indict for larceny any person who may steal it. The tax will collect to be paid into the common school fund. —Mr. F. H. Busbee recalled a singular circumstance in connection with the Henry Berry Lowery gang, which was related to a correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution in Raleigh a few days ago: "A few years ago," said he, "an Ansony bill was passed by the State intended to give pardon to men engaged in certain political feuds. In order to prevent the probability of its being stretched to embrace the Lowery gang, they were arrested and tried, and the members they omitted one who was a desperate outlaw, covered with crime, and for whom there was a reward of $5,000. He was shortly afterwards captured and his captors, a first-class, energetic Dorchester, a University of Georgia boy, the $5,000 reward. He then pled the Amnesties act and was released under it. The State having paid $5,000 to catch a man for the purpose of officially turning him loose again."

The Board then adjourned.

In a paragraph yesterday we referred to the fact that the three men who had been so distinguished on the Northern side were Southern born. The Richmond Dispatch is to hand with some very timely reflections from its Washington correspondent on the same subject. It is too good to be overlooked, so we give the most important part. The writer says: "And so, as an ex-rebel, walking around Washington, come across the statue of General Thomas, and remember that he was known as the hardest fighter of the Union army, and then turning his steps a few squares westward approaches the Farragut statue, he perhaps may be pardoned for exclaiming: 'Farragut gave them New Orleans and Mobile, Thomas gave them Franklin and Nashville; and, besides these, there is Winfield Scott, who gave the prestige of his name and fame in the beginning of the war to the cause of the Union, and he too is perpetuated in bronze by a grateful country!' And so it happens that out of five men whose genius and patriotism in the late war have been deemed worthy to be set up in monumental brass by a grateful country here in its capital, three are from the South—two from Virginia—while only two, McPherson and Rawlins, are of Northern birth, and their lesser lights on the pages of history. Of other wars two military heroes have been thus honored, and they are our own Washington and Jackson."

—Raleigh Visitor: The Raleigh News-Observer is to print 48 columns weekly. The Charlotte Observer prints a 50 column one, but the Goldsboro Messenger caps the climax with 63 columns. A very interesting account is given in the Raleigh News-Observer of the ballot-box and makes its weekly 50 columns. —At her residence in this city, at 3 o'clock this morning, Mrs. E. M. West, aged about 75 years. The deceased was the widow of the late John T. West, while crossing Broadway, in the city of New York, last Saturday, fell and was killed. Her husband passed over her hand, necessitating the amputation of two of her fingers. We are glad to announce that she was doing well at last accounts. —Suppose the State of North Carolina, a first-class, energetic man of business stationed in the vicinity of Castle Garden, in the city of New York, whose duty it should be to lay before incoming immigrants the various inducements offered by the people of our State, the fertility of our soil and the geniality of our climate, would not some few of the thousands who daily land upon our shores turn their course southward? —Oxford Torchlight: Hon. A. S. Merrimon failed to put in an appearance at the prohibition meeting held at Knapp of Leeds on the 18th inst. and the large crowd which had collected at that place to hear him were badly disappointed. A previous engagement prevented his attendance. —We hear of more applications for the position of County Superintendent, and it is ever small the pay may be no office can be left unsolicited. —Tobacco is selling at lively rates in the Oxford market. We never saw the like of the golden leaf. It will bring big prices and our countrymen will be glad to take it. —The Oxford Terpsichorean Club are making large arrangements for the 3rd annual hop at Cozart Hall, May 16th. Over 500 invitations have been sent, and the large crowd of the best music has been secured. —We regret to learn that Mr. William H. Cawthorne died at his home in Fishing Creek last Thursday of pneumonia. The deceased was about 50 years of age, was a good and useful citizen. —Rumor says that the Rev. Mr. Gilliam, who recently connected himself with the Roman Catholic Church, will move to Oxford and open a Catholic school. The school was opened at Oxford last week was largely attended and about twenty lots went off at high prices. Oxford is "booming."

—Raleigh News-Observer: On Saturday last Deputy Collector Borrell and Moore captured one of the largest illicit distilleries ever found in this district. It was on Rocky River, in Chatham county, near the Randolph line. It was in full blast and a negro man was at work as the officers approached. He at once fled to the woods. The capacity of the still was eighty gallons. Dr. William Barrow was a prominent citizen of the place, and he was found in the garden when he felt a painful sensation about the head, and immediately started towards his house, and upon entering he died. Dr. Barrow was a prominent and highly respected citizen of Jackson, where he had lived for many years. He has since the war represented Northampton county in the Senate. He leaves a wife and several children. —The remains of J. T. Moore, son of Capt. W. Y. Moore, of this place, arrived here last night from Lynchburg, Va., accompanied by M. W. Stepp, who relates the following account of the death of James River, trying to break a vast rock with powder. Having drilled a hole fifteen feet in the rock, and falling the third time to break the rock with powder, he attempted to charge it with nitroglycerine, pouring the growing town on the line of a prominent railroad, is offered for sale. Terms easy. For terms and particulars apply to the editor of this paper.

Church, South, convenes in the church at Elizabethtown July 7th, at 10 o'clock, a. m. —We regret to learn that very unfavorable symptoms have been developed in the case of Dr. M. J. DeRooset, who has been suffering for several months with paralysis, and that he is reported to be gradually sinking. —The revival meetings at Fifth Street M. E. church are still held nightly. A good deal of interest is manifested, and we learn that an unusual solemnity pervades the congregations. The services commence at 8 o'clock. —Rev. Dr. Burkhead leaves here Sunday night for Nashville, Tenn., where he is to attend next week a meeting of the Missionary Board of the Methodist E. Church, South, of which he is a member from the North Carolina Conference. —Our citizens, and especially those who are required to travel the street alluded to during wet weather for their mails, will be gratified to learn that some long-needed improvements in the way of guttering and raising Chestnut street, near the postoffice, is now being made by our city authorities. —Three young men of this city walked to Wrightsville Sound and back Tuesday night. Upon being asked how long they remained there, they said "Only long enough to get a drink of water," from which it may naturally be inferred that Wrightsville water is considerably better than the "common run."

—In excavating near the Northeast corner of Front and Market streets, yesterday, for the water works pipe, the workmen came across a solid brick wall four feet thick, supposed to have been a portion of the foundation of some building which stood there a good many years ago. It was about three feet beneath the surface. See that you get the genuine, prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co. MRS. WINLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.—Rev. Sylvania Cobb thus writes in the Christian Freeman: "We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine to our children, but we are good—particularly for infants. But Mrs. Winlow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge in our own family. It is a certain cure for colic, and gives an infant troubled with colic pain, and its parents a moment's rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is highly recommended by the Registrar. The infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say they would not be without it from the birth of the child until it is settled with the teething stage, on any consideration. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle." DIED. KING.—In this city, on the 27th inst., of scarlet fever, KATE BEAUFORT, daughter of John J. and Miss J. King, aged 7 years and 8 months.

—The Richmond Dispatch's letter from Washington thus refers to Mr. Voorhees and Mrs. Farragut: "The orations, especially that of Mr. Voorhees, were very fine, and were well received by the audience. Mrs. Farragut, the widow of the Admiral, and his son, Lieutenant Loyall Farragut, were present on the grand stand, and were the observed of all observers. Mrs. Farragut is herself a Virginia lady, being a daughter of William Loyall, of Norfolk, for years brother, George Loyall, for years represented well and faithfully the Norfolk District in Congress. The excessive value of theatrical criticisms is seen in what two London papers say of John McCullough. The Standard says: "His shortcomings as an artist are the absence of real passion and the insubstantiality of the lower tones of his voice."
