The Louisville Courier-Journal a a paper no Southern man should take as a guide, for it lacks wisdom often and perhaps other qualities. It has been criticising ex-President Jefferson Davis. It talks in a way quite apt to please the rabid editors in the North. We shall be surprised if its utterances are not caught up gladly by the Republican press and paraded as a fair exponent of Southern thought. Turning to the New York Times, we find a part of the article copied headed, "How the Rebel Chief misinterprets the past and misjudges the present."

Conkling was defeated by the Administration evidently. He was afraid to take a vote in cancus. The news yesterday was flashed over the wires that New York was without a U. S. Senator, Both Conkling and Plate have resigned their places as Senstors. This was sudden and will take Garfield and company by sarprise, as it does us and every one else. The purpose of Conkling is this probably: the Legislature of New York is in session, and he can control a majority of it. He wishes to be indorsed at home in his fight with the President. He will be re-elected and will return sustained and strengthened for a continuance of the war. If not this, then we cannot guess what his moand what his resignation Platt followed Conkling simply because Platt is Conkling's

WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, MAY 17, 1881. VOL. XXVH1,---NO. 48

Here are some items of Washington gossip we plak out of "Bildad's" letter to the Richmond State. Blaine has no intention of resigning as reported. Mrs. Garfield is seriously sick. Chandler has no hope of being confirmed and talks of withdrawing. Several Republicans are opposed to him, and all Democratic Senators object to confirming him for Solicitor General, an office in which he would have control of marshals for election purposes, and would probably undertake to apply in the South his peculiar political methods. Robertson will be confirmed this week, it is believed.

Senator Platt is trying to induce him to withdraw. Matthews is being complimented by certain persons living in various sections. Members of the Judiciary Committee are not pleased, to say the least of it, that their report against Stanley Matthews was overridden by a majority of the Senate. Matthewa's success was due to the influence of Secretary Blaine and Gov. Foster, and the earnest advocacy of Senator Lamar.

Conkling, in his long speech (his second) before the Republican caucus, gave up that Robertson would be confirmed by a vote of two to one. The Washington Post of Saturday thus reports him : ...

"He would, however, tell those who favored the nomination that they were digging a pit in which it was not unlikely the Republican party would bury uself. He had endeavored to avert the danger by guiding Senators in a different direction, but his counsel had been dieregarded. Therefore he was relieved from all responsibility for the disasters that might ensue to the Republican party from this section of the President. In conclusion, Senator Conkling extended his thanks to those who had so manfully stood by

The Richmond State's letter says of the performance :

"Conkling's speech was very offensive to many of his auditors. Some Republicans have to-night privately expressed regret that he has been allowed to trifle with the party so loog. One said: 'What made me so mad to-day was that Conkling seemed to control our consciences

He says he will endeavor to get even with Garfield bereafter.

Close of the Camp Meeting.

The camp meeting which has been in session about sixteen miles below this city since Wednesday of last week, under the auspices of St. Stephen's A. M. E. Church. was brought to a close yesterday. The attendance from New Hanover, Brunswick and Pender has been very large, and several visiting colored ministers have been present and assisting in conducting the services. On Sunday the Rev. Thomas, of Raleigh, is said to have preached quite an able sermon, and it was estimated that there were about two thousand to twentyfive hundred persons on the grounds. The converts during the meeting are said to have been mostly from the townships, outside of the city, hence there was not as much excitement among the crowds returning on the boats as usual.

The rain of Sunday night, which was so heavy here, and which was supposed to have cast a damper upon the camp meet-ing folks, dwindled down to a more sprinkle before reaching the camp grounds, and re-
