It is believed in Washington that the verdict was adverse to Whittataker's ears, or the court failed to agree. The records have been transmitted to Washington. The colored cadet has never been under arrest. A special from New York says:

"At the inauguration of the movement for the court-martial, Cadet Whittaker was granted an indefinite leave of absence, without any restriction as to where he should go. In case of his acquittal he will no doubt be ordered back to the Academy to resume his studies. If the verdict is adverse to him he will have to wait until the revision of the testimony and the approval or disapproval of the verdict by the President. In this latter case it may be months before he learns his fate."

The manuscript of the record fills eleven thousand pages.

We have received a communication from Wilson, correcting a statement made in a clipping from some other paper. We are not responsible for statements not made by us. The purpose of the writer is to vindicate the character of a witness for the defense by the name of Dickson, which was proved in court to be excellent. His testimony is represented as being very damaging to the prisoner, Parker. The defense having proved his character could not then assail it. Our correspondent says Judge Gilmer, in his charge, spoke of this witness as unimpeached, and told the jury that if they believed his testimony they would return a verdict of guilty.

THE STORM.

TORRENTS OF WATER-STREETS, SIDE-WALKS AND STORES FLOODED -CAT ARACTS OF WATER IN THE TELE-PHONE EXCHANGE-GOODS-BOXES, BARRELS, ETC., ON THE TIDAL WAVE, &C.

One of the heaviest rain storms that has risited this immediate section in several years fell here yesterday between the hours of 1 and 8 o'clock, accompanied by an almost continuous peal of thunder and wivid fishes of lightning. So heavy and continuous was the rain that the streets in some places presented almost the appearance of a river. On Market street, between Second and Water, the streets and sidewalks were flooded, and in many instances, especially on the south side of the street, the volume of water was so immense that it was forced into the stores, while goodsboxes, empty barrels, huckster's stands, etc., were taken upon the bosom of the rushing waters and borne rapidly in the direction of the river; the owners or their employes being compelled to give chase and arrest them in their flight. In the alley upon which Messra. Hart, Bailey & Co.'s foundry is located the water was at one time, in some places, almost waist deep, and as a consequence the foundry and Mr. Myers' store were flooded to a considerable

During the worst of the storm the water burst through under the roof of the Western Union Telegraph building, on Front street, and deluged the floor of the rooms in which the Telephone Exchange is located, causing an entire suspension of business for the time being.

Many of the stores and dwellings in different sections of the city suffered in this way to a more or less extent, and many new leaks were discovered that were never known to have an existence before. We heard one real estate agent remark that he didn't want to see any of his tenants for the next week or two.

On Market, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, several dwellings were flooded with water and the inmates had to seek for dryer quarters in the upper rooms.

In several sections of the city, after the storm had subsided, we noticed large ponds of water standing, and we suppose the street brigade will have their hands full for several days to come.

It was rumored that lightning struck a dwelling in the eastern section of the city. but we could hear nothing definite, though there is no doubt that it struck somewhere close by.

From the Signal Office the report comes that 4 inches and 20-100 of rain fell inside of the two hours.

Take it altogether, we think it will be admitted that those in favor of the "wet ticket" had it all their own way for one day at least; and also, that the comet switched its light millions of miles of tail to some purpose when it caused such a commotion in the elementary regions.

Severe Accident. Mr. John Ludia, Jr., a prominent citizen of the Waccamaw section, met with a severe accident, on the evening of the 27th ult, at the new bridge which spans rhe Shallotte river, a short distance above the Wilmington and Georgetown road, in Brunswick county. It seems that he was on his way down to Mr. P. Rourk's store, with a load of turpentine, when he accidentally fell and the loaded cart passed over him, fracturing one of his thighs and severely wounding him about the head. Despite his severe injuries, however, he shouted an alarm sufficiently strong and distinct to be heard a mile, the nearest habitable point, when assistance speedily arrived and he was taken to the house of Mr. Rourk, where he received proper medical and surgical attention. At last so-counts the old gentleman was doing as well-as could be expected, and it was hoped

The Prospective Immigrants-A Pic-

Rev. Mr. Charbonnel, at the meeting of citizens on Thursday, in response to an inquiry from Mr. Colville, as to the financial condition of the proposed immigrants, said they were all possessed of more or less means. There were none but would have sufficient money to pay their way and have some left. They are men of various trades, though" mostly farmers, and even these in most cases are men who can turn their hands to most swything in the way of work. They are men of intelligence withal, capsble of looking after their own interests and making good bargains. Mr. Charbonnel was here prospecting about ten years ago. and then as now he was very favorably impressed. He is much better satisfied with the lands below Richmond county in this direction than he is farther west, and thinks they will be a great deal better suited to the wants of his people.

The following picture of an immigrant settlement in Alabama, of seven years standing, in a location which at the time of purchase for the purpose of colonizing was the very picture of dreariness and desolation, may serve to encourage those interested in the present movement:

"On the commanding hill, in the midst of the settlement, sits a handsome little church, white and neat as the lily that lies on the bosom of the limpid lake. One one side of the church stands the stately twostoried residence of the priest, while on the other serenely sits the modest little schoolhouse. From this central eminence you look out upon as contented and prosperous a little community of agriculturalists as the State anywhere affords. It consists of forty families, all German. Their dwellings are humble, but neat and home-like, and thrift and happiness smile on all their surrounding. About 8,000 acres were originally purchased. They were subdivided and sold in lots varying from 40 to 160 acresthe former showing the smallest farm, the latter the largest-the average being between 50 and 60 acres. The colonists raise wheat, corn, potatoes, grapes and some cot-ton. Their fields and gardens speak for themselves, and they tell too plainly and pleasantly not to be observed that here skill and industry go hand in hand. The crops could not be in better condition, all things considered. They seem as clean almost as prepared and well supplied with the food fit for the fields. For these Germans use fertilizers; and they make a good living and have a surplus besides. They are progressive, and one thing especially is deserving of mention here, for it betokens what manner of people they are: all of them are out of debt! It seems to be a part of their religion not to go in debt. Their homes are all their own and such a thing as encumbering their estates for 'advances' or for any other purpose never enters their minds. They are not educated to any such hazard. They get a mail twice a week and judging from the number of newspapers the postman distributes one must infer that they are a reading people.' Florine, the name of the settlement alluded to, is considered a standing argument in favor of small farms, and of their being well fertilized and thoroughly culti-

About 7 o'clock yesterday evening smoke was discovered issuing from a large warehouse in rear of the business houses on North Water, between Princess and Chesnut streets, the property of Mr. Alfred Martin, in which 1500 barrels of lime were stored belonging to Mesars. E. G. Barker & Co. An alarm was sounded and the Fire Department promptly assembled at the scene. It was ascertained that the fire was caused by the excessive rains of the afternoon which had penetrated through the roof of the building and ignited the lime. The fire engines were quickly at work, but owing to the nature of the fire there was little to be expected from their efforts, unless they could, with an unlimited supply of water-which was readily available from the river-slack the lime contained in the building, and thus put beyond any contingency further danger. With this intent the three fire esgines-the Little Giant, the Adrian and the Cape Fear-went vigorously to work, throwing intermittent streams upon the building that he would soon be able to be on his the Cape Fear—was withdrawn the other two continued their labors ing the night, and will remain at their t of duty until relieved, or the fire is

HONORED AND BLEST.—When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies, the most powerful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honered and blessed by all as benefactors.—Democrat.

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Whalow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homesopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the haby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was deligated with the sudden and wenderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and sleepless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby and overcome the prejudices of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle,
